Within each statutory area the entries are further divided into four categories: (1) Prerule Stage; (2) Proposed Rule Stage; (3) Final Rule Stage; and (4) Completed Actions (regulations that EPA is deleting from the agenda because the Agency has completed, withdrawn, or postponed them indefinitely). Detailed information on each of these sections is presented below.

Appendix A includes a list of abbreviations of terms used in this document.

I. Prerulemakings

Prerulemaking actions include activities intended to determine whether or how to initiate rulemaking. These activities include anything that influences or leads to rulemaking, such as advance notices of proposed rulemaking, significant studies or analyses of the possible need for regulatory action, requests for public comment on the need for regulatory action, or important pre-regulatory policy proposals.

This section also includes existing EPA regulations that are now under review. The purpose of such reviews is to determine whether the Agency should revise the rule, rescind it, or leave it unchanged. When finished, the Agency will list these reviews in the completed section of the agenda. If EPA decides to revise or rescind the regulation, the action will appear in the proposed rule section of the next agenda, which will state the timetable for completing the revision or rescission.

For each regulation under review, the agenda provides the title, a short abstract, legal authority, CFR reference, any analysis EPA is preparing, contact person, and the schedule for completing the review. It also indicates the "review authority," which may be different from the regulation's statutory authority. EPA reviews regulations under various mandates, and some reviews satisfy more than one of these mandates. The principal mandates are:

Executive Order 12498 which is intended to establish annually the Administration's Regulatory Program. It defines priority activities that federal departments and agencies will work on during the upcoming year. Its purpose is to minimize duplication and conflict among regulatory activities and enhance public understanding of the Administration's regulatory objectives.

Executive Order 12291 which establishes the general policy that federal departments and agencies should review their regulations to ensure that the costs of the regulations are justified by the benefits of the regulation.

The Regulatory Flexibility Act (RFA) which requires that federal departments and agencies review existing regulations that have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities, including small businesses, small organizations, and small governments, at least once every ten years. EPA invites public comment regarding RFA issues on the list of regulations EPA is reviewing.

Reviews EPA has targeted under the RFA are identified in the "Small Entities Affected" category. This year the agenda also identifies the type of entity affected (businesses or governmental jurisdictions and organizations). Also identified is whether the regulatory action affects State, Local, or Federal governments. These changes will enable organizations representing local governments to make greater use of the agenda.

When the Agency completes reviews of regulations with a significant impact on small entities, the agenda entry includes an abstract that announces the Agency's decision of whether to revise, rescind, or leave the regulation unchanged. This announcement complies with the RFA and EPA's July 16, 1981 plan (46 FR 36930) for reviewing regulations under the Act.

The Paperwork Reduction Act (PRA) which requires federal departments and agencies to review their information collection activities to assure that they need and will use the information and manage it efficiently. They must also ensure that the information to be collected is of high quality, appropriate for its intended use, and does not already exist at EPA or at some other federal agency. In addition, the PRA requires agencies to review the cost of collecting the information, so that it will be held to a minimum for both the respondent and the agencies.

II. Proposed and Final Rules

EPA generally lists regulations in this category of the agenda once they are within a year of proposal or final action. Very important regulations under development will usually appear even if the scheduled publication dates are more than a year away.

Proposed and final rules appear as: (a) Actions that will create new CFR parts, subparts, or subsections; or (b) actions that revise or amend already existing CFR parts, subparts, or subsections. The word "revision" will appear in parentheses after the title of each regulation undergoing revision. All regulations appearing in the agenda for the first time are marked with bullets (●).

This section includes all "significant" EPA regulations. Some are priority regulations under development that are subject to Executive Order 12498; or the Agency has designated for priority development or revision. These regulations are also subject to certain provisions of EO 12291, RFA, and PRA.

However, the listings exclude: (a) Specialized categories of actions (such as EPA approvals of State plans and other actions that do not apply nationally); and (b) routine actions (such as pesticide tolerances and minor amendments to existing rules).

For each proposed and final regulation, the agenda includes:

- Title
- Priority classification (if applicable)
- Legal authority
- CFR reference
- Legal deadline (if applicable)
- Short abstract
- Timetable of existing and scheduled actions
- Reference to small entity impacts (yes, no, or undetermined)
- Additional information (includes the FTS phone number for the Agency contact, the Start Action Request (SAR) number, which is assigned to the regulation for internal tracking purposes, and any other information that is not included in the abstract)
- Agency contact
- Analysis section (if the Agency is preparing a Regulatory Impact Analysis (RIA) and/or an RFA)

III. Completed Actions

These are actions that appeared in the last agenda, which EPA is deleting because they are completed or are no longer under consideration. Information on these regulations and reviews of regulations is less detailed than for those that are still under consideration. Generally, entries include: (1) An explanation of why the Agency is deleting the regulation from the agenda, or (2) the publication date and Federal Register citation of the final rule.

Deputy Assistant Administrator for Policy, Planning and Evaluation.

2725. FOOD ADDITIVE REGULATIONS CONCERNING PESTICIDE RESIDUES: PROCEDURAL REGULATIONS

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 21 USC 346a/FFDCA 408; 21 USC 348/FFDCA 409

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 180

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This regulation will set forth procedures for which food additive tolerances, required by section 409 of the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act (FFDCA), may be established, modified or revoked. It may include revisions to FIFRA section 3 and FFDCA section 408 regulations to make them consistent with the new regulations.

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 152.17

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rule will provide a scheme for identifying pesticides which may pose an unacceptable hazard because of the potential to leach into groundwater. The Agency will propose criteria for classifying such pesticides for restricted use. Restricted use pesticides generally may be applied only by state certified applicators.

2727. REGISTRATION DATA REQUIREMENTS FOR PESTICIDE PRODUCT PERFORMANCE AND COMPANION PESTICIDE ASSESSMENT GUIDELINES (REVISION)

Legal Authority: 7 USC 136a /FIFRA 3; 7 USC 136w/FIFRA 25

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 158.640

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The objective in revising the regulations is to make explicit the Agency's requirement of pesticide producers to submit quantitative data on the yield/quality enhancing performance of their pesticides as compared to alternative pesticides. These data will improve the quality and timeliness of benefit analyses the Agency uses in making risk/benefit decisions to regulate pesticides under the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, and Rodenticide Act (FIFRA). The companion revised guidelines will provide protocols and methodologies for conducting the studies necessary to produce acceptable comparative performance data. Registrants might experience very minor cost increases to register pesticide products. The benefit would be substantial in the form of better and more uniform data on pesticide product performance, for use by Agency analysts and others.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 7 USC 136 /FIFRA 4

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 172

Abstract: This proposed revision will amend the existing regulations (40 CFR 172) pertaining to Experimental Use Permits (EUPs) to incorporate the policies set forth by the Office of Science and Technology Policy, which were published in the Federal Register on June 26, 1986 (51 FR 23313). The existing regulations presumes prospective registrants are exempt from the requirement of obtain obtaining an EUP if they propose to conduct tests which will involve less than 10 acres of land and less than one surface acre of water. The proposed revision would require prior notification if tests are to involve genetically altered or certain nonindigenous microbial pesticides. The proposed rule will also describe data required to be submitted at the time of notification so that the Agency may determine whether an EUP will be required.

2736. REPORTING REQUIREMENTS FOR RISK/BENEFITS INFORMATION

Legal Authority: 7 USC 136d/FIFRA 6

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 153

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: FIFRA Section 6(a)(2) requires that registrants report to EPA additional factual information regarding unreasonable adverse effects of their products. In September 1985, EPA revised its 1979 section 6(a)(2) enforcement policy by publishing a notice which expanded upon the types of factual information which must be reported and established uniform timeframes for compliance. In response to comments received on this notice, the Agency is revising it to clarify the types of information which registrants must report to EPA.

2737. ADVERTISING OF UNREGISTERED PESTICIDES, UNREGISTERED USES OF REGISTERED PESTICIDES AND FIFRA 24(C) REGISTRATIONS

Legal Authority: 7 USC 136j /FIFRA 12; 7 USC 136w /FIFRA 25

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 153.12; 40 CFR 166.7

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: EPA is proposing to treat as unlawful under FIFRA section 12 or restrict the advertising of certain uses of pesticides authorized for experimental use, emergency use, and special local needs. The proposed policy will also address advertising of other unregistered pesticides and pesticide use patterns. This policy is intended to prevent misuse of pesticides which could cause unreasonable adverse effects on humans or the environment.

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 156; 40 CFR 170

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Worker Protection Standards for Agricultural Pesticides will be revised to reflect new and developing requirements for the registration, reregistration and use of pesticides. The current standards need to be revised in order to increase the scope of coverage, update the provisions, clarify definitions and responsibilities, and improve implementation, compliance, and enforcement.

Legal Authority: 15 USC 2603 / TSCA 4

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 799

Legal Deadline: Other, Statutory. 12-month statutory deadline for ITC-designated chemicals

Abstract: The following table lists chemicals for which EPA will initiate rulemaking to require testing, obtain testing through negotiated consent orders, or publish a notice which provides the reasons for not doing so. The list includes chemicals which have been designated for priority testing consideration by the Interagency Testing Committee as well as those chemicals (i.e., recommended and non-designated chemicals) for which the 12-month statutory requirement does not apply. The list also includes chemicals or categories of chemicals which have been identified for testing consideration by other EPA program offices and through EPA review processes.

2749. CHEMICAL SPECIFIC SIGNIFICANT NEW USE RULES TO EXTEND PROVISIONS OF SECTION 5(E) ORDERS

Legal Authority: 15 USC 2604 /TSCA 5

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 721

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: When the Agency determines that in the absence of adequate safety data, the uncontrolled manufacture, import, processing, distribution, use or disposal of a PMN substance may present an unreasonable risk, it may issue a proposed order under section 5(e) to limit the aforementioned activities. However, section 5(e) orders apply only to the PMN submitter. Once the substance is placed on the TSCA chemical inventory, other persons are free to manufacture, import, or process the substance without controls. Therefore, EPA by rule, designates manufacture, import, or processing of the substances for use without the specified controls as a significant new use. These SNURs ensure that the original submitter is not at a competitive disadvantage and that no uncontrolled activities will occur without an opportunity for prior Agency review.

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 704; 40 CFR 720; 40 CFR 721

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Under the authority of the Toxic Substances Control Act, the agency is proposing two separate regulatory actions for manufacturers, importers, and processors of certain microbial products of biotechnology. Under section 5, the Agency is proposing to amend its definition of "small quantities solely for research and development" contained in the Premanufacture Notification (PMN) Rule, thereby requiring persons to submit notices prior to testing new microorganisms in the environment. This amendment will require reporting for new microorganisms and will establish a special notification mechanism for experimental releases of microorganisms. EPA also is proposing significant new use notification requirements under section 5(a)(2), which would ensure that EPA will receive for review, notices of large scale releases of other microorganisms developed for significant new uses, and will review small-scale environmental releases, possibly with assistance from environmental biosafety committees (EBCs), peer review committees to be sponsored by researchers and accredited by EPA. In addition, the Agency may be proposing (SEE ABSTRACT CONTINUED UNDER THE ADDITIONAL INFORMATION SECTION)

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 15 USC 1504/TSCA 5

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 723

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Under the authority of the Toxic Substances Control Act, the Agency will propose to exempt from review new microorganisms used in certain closed and contained systems. The Agency considers it a priority to exempt from consideration organisms that can be shown to meet the statutory requirements under section 5(h)(4) of TSCA. To meet those requirements, it must be shown that the substances will not present unreasonable risks. EPA is considering public comment received and other evidence concerning use of microorganisms in closed systems and other controlled environments to determine whether those categories satisfy the requirements of section 5(h)(4) of TSCA.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 15 USC 2605 / TSCA 6; 15 USC 2608 / TSCA 9

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 765

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: As described in the Federal Register on May 23, 1984, the Agency has been investigating regulatory options for the reduction of three categories of exposure to formaldehyde: 1) residents exposed to formaldehyde emissions from wood products used in the construction of manufactured homes: 2) similarly exposed residents of conventional homes: 3) apparel manufacture employees exposed to formaldehyde released from treated fabrics. Because OSHA proposed a standard in December 1985 that applies to all occupational exposure, EPA has terminated its investigation with respect to apparel manufacturing employees. Investigation of risks from exposure to formaldehyde emissions from wood products is being conducted in consultation with HUD and CPSC. This investigation may lead to the initiation of various control alternatives, including section 9 referral to other agencies and/ or section 6 regulations.

2754. REGULATORY INVESTIGATION OF CHLORINATED SOLVENTS

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 15 USC 2605 / TSCA 6; 15 USC 2608 / TSCA 9

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 754

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: EPA, in consultation with the Consumer Product Safety Commission, Occupational Safety and Health Administration, and Food and Drug Administration, is developing a comprehensive and integrated strategy for a regulatory investigation of methylene chloride and five other chlorinated solvents. In some cases, these chlorinated solvents are competitive and can be easily substituted for each other in a number of uses. The integrated effort is being conducted to reach general agreement on the risks associated with the solvents and to avoid ineffective risk management actions that may occur due to solvent switching or pollutant transfer among media which could be caused by piecemeal regulation. Data are being gathered for six solvents (methylene chloride, perchloroethylene, trichloroethylene, methyl chloroform, carbon tetrachloride, and CFC-113) and their potential substitutes. This regulatory investigation is focused on three major use categories: metal cleaning, paint stripping, and aerosol application. The investigation will determine whether coordinated regulatory controls are needed to eliminate or reduce exposure to these solvents.

2755. PCB SPILL CLEANUP RECORDKEEPING RULE

Legal Authority: 15 USC 2605(e)(3)(B) / TSCA 6(e)

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 761

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This regulation will require parties responsible for PCB spill clean up to maintain records of the cleanup. The information required to be included in the records will likely be the same as that required in the PCB spills cleanup policy. The recordkeeping requirements will facilitate verification of PCB spill cleanup.

Legal Authority: 15 USC 2605/TSCA 6; 5 USC 556 et seq

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 761

Abstract: Under section 6(e) of TSCA, the Agency is considering establishing uniform procedures and criteria for the revocation of TSCA disposal permits. The regulation would establish uniform revocation procedures and criteria and thereby ensure consistency in permit revocation proceedings.

2757. NEGOTIATED CONSENT/PROCEDURAL TEST RULE (REVISION)

Legal Authority: 15 USC 2603/TSCA 4

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 790

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This amends the test rule development and exemptions procedural rule published October 10, 1984 (49 FR 39776) to allow for rulemaking to be conducted in a single phase (i.e., a proposed rule and a final rule covering both the effects for which testing is necessary and the testing methodology) and adds consent orders as a means of obtaining test data required under Section 4 of TSCA. In addition, this rule will simplify the procedures governing the development and implementation of testing requirements under 2-phase rulemaking, and amend the current procedures governing modification of test standards and schedules for tests required under test rules and testing consent agreements.

2760. PROCEDURAL RULE FOR EXPEDITED NEW CHEMICAL FOLLOW-UP

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 15 USC 2604 /TSCA 5

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 721

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rulemaking would establish criteria and procedures by which certain chemicals could be administratively added to or withdrawn from a list of chemicals subject to section 5(a)(2) of TSCA. This would reduce the time and resources required to regulate individual chemicals under the new chemical follow-up program. This rulemaking would also establish reporting requirements under sections 8(a) and 8(d) for manufacturers and processors of certain chemicals that meet the criteria mentioned above.

Legal Authority: 5 USC 556 / TSCA 6(e)(3)(B)

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 761

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Section 6(e)(3)(b) of TSCA provides that the Administrator may grant, by rule, exemptions from the prohibitions on the manufacture, processing and distribution in commerce of PCBs upon finding (1) that granting the exemption will not pose an unreasonable risk of injury to health or the environment, and (2) that good faith efforts have been made to develop a PCB substitute which does not pose an unreasonable risk of injury to health or the environment.

2762. ACTION CONCERNING COMMERCIAL AND INDUSTRIAL USE OF ASBESTOS

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 15 USC 2605 / TSCA 6

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 763

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Asbestos is a known human carcinogen. Persons are exposed to asbestos from releases to the environment during all phases of the lifecycle of asbestos products. Because of the serious risk presented to many people from exposure to asbestos during the lifecycle of asbestos products, EPA has proposed a rule under Section 6 of TSCA to ban certain asbestos products for which substitutes are currently available and to phase out all or most asbestos mining and importation over 10 years.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 15 USC 2605/TSCA 6; 15 USC 2607/TSCA 8

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 761

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Under the authority of TSCA, EPA is considering rulemaking which would require that all PCB wastes be manifested for disposal. The purposes of the regulation would be 1) to obtain information about handlers and storers of PCB wastes; and 2) to track shipment of wastes containing PCBs. The rulemaking will also consider imposing new requirements on commercial storers of PCB wastes.

2764. SECTION 8 (A) PRELIMINARY ASSESSMENT INFORMATION RULES

Legal Authority: 15 USC 2607a / TSCA 8(a)

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 712

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: These rules add chemicals to the list of chemicals and designated mixtures subject to the requirements of the TSCA Section 8(a) Preliminary Assessment Information Rule (40 CFR Part 712). These chemicals are identified by OTS, other EPA offices, and other Agencies, as well as chemicals recommended by the Interagency Testing Committee (ITC) on the TSCA Section 4(e) priority list. Manufacturers and importers are required to submit exposure-related data (EPA Form No. 7710-35) on the chemicals. These data will be used to monitor the levels of production, import and/or processing of these substances and the avenues of human and environmental exposure to these substances. It will also support risk assessment and test rule decisions.

Legal Authority: 33 USC 1311 / CWA 301; 33 USC 1314 / CWA 304; 33 USC 1316 / CWA 306; 33 USC 1317 / CWA 307; 33 USC 1361 / CWA 501

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 455

Legal Deadline: NPRM, Statutory, December 1989. Final, Statutory, September 1991.

Abstract: On October 4, 1985 the EPA promulgated a final regulation establishing BAT, NSPS, PSES, PSNS for the pesticide industry under the Clean Water Act. On July 25, 1986 the final regulation was remanded to the EPA by the Eleventh Circuit Court of Appeals in response to a joint motion filed by the Agency and other parties to litigation challenging the regulation. EPA removed the BAT, NSPS, PSNS, and PSES pesticide regulation from the Code of Federal Regulations at the direction of the Court, and informed the public that the regulation is no longer effective (December 15, 1986; 51 FR 44911). The Agency intends to establish new effluent limitation guidelines and standards for the pesticide manufacturers and formulators/packagers industry in a future rulemaking. The BCT limitations published on April 25, 1978 and September 29, 1978, are still effective.

Abstract: This proposed rule will provide the Agency's regulatory interpretation of four provisions of section 304(1) of the Clean Water Act. It will clarify the nature of an individual control strategy under section 304(1) and the use of existing data by States to develop initial lists of waters. Further, it will describe the EPA approval/disapproval process for lists submitted in fulfillment of the requirements of section 304(1). Finally, it will establish the initial submission of lists and individual control strategies by the statutory deadline of February 4, 1989, as a first phase of an ongoing identification and permitting process called for under the water quality provisions of the Clean Water Act.

Legal Authority: 33 USC 1311(h)/CWA 301(h)

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 125

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The revisions to the regulations primarily are intended to respond to statutory changes made to sec. 301(h) of the Clean Water Act (33 USC 1311(h)), which governs secondary treatment waivers for municipal discharges into marine waters. The statutory changes to be addressed include, among other things, new requirements for minimum treatment levels and additional requirements for pretreatment programs for certain waiver applicants. In addition, the Agency is considering revising the regulations to address more specifically procedures and requirements for the renewal of secondary treatment waivers. The revised regulations will affect only the limited number of municipal treatment plants which met the 1982 statutory deadline for applying for a secondary treatment waiver.

Abstract: EPA will review existing effluent guidelines and promulgate new effluent guidelines to implement section 304(m) of the CWA, as amended by the 1987 Water Quality Act (Public Law 100-4). Existing industrial categories or subcategories for which BAT effluent limitations and guidelines and NSPS have already been promulgated that EPA is currently reviewing as potential candidates for revised guidelines include: Copper Forming (40 CFR 468); Timber Products Processing (40 CFR 429); Textile Manufacturing (40 CFR 410); Pharmaceuticals Manufacturing (40 CFR 414, 416) (reserved priority pollutants and nonconventional pollutants). EPA will as needed, revise the list of candidates. Moreover, if and when EPA decides to initiate rulemaking for any of the candidates, it will identify the industrial point source in subsequent Federal Register notices pursuant to section 304m. Industrial point source categories and subcategories discharging toxic and nonconventional pollutants for which BAT effluent guidelines and NSPS have not been promulgated are also under review by EPA, pursuant to section 304(m)(a)(B), as potential candidates for BAT effluent guidelines and NSPS. Most of these ABSTRACT CONTINUED candidates were selected for review because of the Domestic Sewage Study (Report to Congress on the Discharge of Hazardous Wastes to Publicly Owned Treatment Works, U.S. EPA, Office of Water Regulations and Standards, EPA 530-SW-86-004, February 1986, prepared by EPA pursuant to the mandate of section 3018(a) of RCRA to evaluate the impact of RCRA hazardous wastes discharged to POTWs). The industrial candidates currently being examined are: hazardous waste treaters; solvent recyclers; machinery manufacturing and rebuilding; transportation; paint manufacture and formulation (40 CFR 446); industrial laundries; hospitals (40 CFR 460); waste oil refiners; drum reconditioners; and the onshore and coastal subcategories of oil and gas extraction (40 CFR 435). If the Agency decides that rulemaking is appropriate for these industrial point source candidates, it will publish schedules in the Federal Register.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 33 USC 1401 et seq /MPRSA

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 220 to 229

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: These amendments are necessary to clarify the existing regulations, incorporate program experience, and respond to statutory amendments and the results of two lawsuits. Those lawsuits are the City of New York decision (543 F. Supp.1084), which involved the consideration of the need for ocean dumping and availability and impacts of land-based alternatives, and NWF v. Costle decision (629 F. 2d 118), which involved dredged material issues. Among other things, the statutory amendments to be addressed in the Regulatory Revisions include provisions applicable to emergency and research permits, use of sewage sludge sites off the New York/New Jersey coastline, and the ocean disposal of low-level radioactive waste.

Abstract: This action is a finalization of a portion of the ocean incineration regulation, which was proposed on February 28, 1985. This rule provides specific criteria for evaluating candidate sites, selecting specific sites and establishes the procedures for designating and listing sites for use after issuance of and under the terms of an ocean incineration permit. Designation of sites is a prerequisite to issuance of a permit for use of a site. Promulgation of this rule will allow the Agency to begin the lengthy process of site evaluation, selection and designation.

2793. GUIDELINES FOR CLASSIFYING GROUND WATER UNDER THE EPA GROUND WATER PROTECTION STRATEGY

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: Clean Water Act

CFR Citation: 40 CFR Not applicable

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: In August 1984, EPA issued a Ground water Protection Strategy to provide objectives to guide the Agency's efforts to protect ground water. One of the major goals announced in the strategy was to achieve greater consistency in decisionmaking among the many EPA programs in protecting ground water. The strategy also indicated that EPA would consider the value and vulnerability of ground water in developing protection and cleanup approaches. The classification guidelines implement these goals by providing technical information that will be useful in the evaluation of the vulnerability and value of a particular ground water unit, and by detailing a classification system that can be incorporated as a factor in program decision-making. Both could lead to greater consistency in decisions and assist in the identification of the most valuable and vulnerable ground waters, so that they receive appropriate attention. The agency will finalize the guidelines based on public comments received.

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: In this amendment the Agency will provide a mechanism for permit adjustments for treatment plants served by Combined Sewer Systems similar to that which was recently promulgated (June 3, 1985) for separate sewer systems. The existing regulation requires 85% removal of BOD5 and suspended solids (65% for equivalent treatment) from treatment plants served by combined sewers during dry weather flow conditions. Problems exist in meeting these requirements when plants experience less concentrated influents.

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 471

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Agency will promulgate amendments to the final regulation published August 23, 1985 (50 FR 34242). As part of the implementation of a settlement agreement, the Agency published proposed amendments to two subcategories in the nonferrous metals forming point source category (June 9, 1988; 53 FR 21776). The amendments affect facilities that conduct tube reducing operations in the nickel and cobalt forming subcategory (Subpart C) and in the zirconium and hafnium forming subcategory (Subpart I). These final amendments will revise BPT, BAT, NSPS, and pretreatment standards in the nickel-cobalt and zirconium-hafnium subcategories.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6924 /RCRA 3004

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 148

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, August 8, 1988.

Abstract: The Agency is required to prohibit injection of hazardous wastes under sections 3004(f) and (g) by specified deadlines unless (1) the facility demonstrates no migration through a petition or (2) the facility treats the waste to specified levels which reduce the threat to human health. The Administrator may grant variances for up to two years where treatment capacity is unavailable. This rule proposes effective dates for selected first thirds wastes. It also proposes to grant capacity variances for those wastes and extends the statutory prohibitions for two years.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201/AEA 161

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 191

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: On August 15, 1985, the Agency promulgated generally applicable environmental standards for the management and disposal of spent nuclear fuel, high-level and transuranic radioactive wastes. These Standards applied to management and disposal of such materials generated by activities under the jurisdiction of the Department of Energy or regulated by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission. They established limits for the release of radioactive materials to the environment. Subsequent to promulgation of this rule, several petitions for review were filed and consolidated in the U.S. Court of Appeals for the First Circuit. As of September 23, 1987 the Court vacated and remanded Subpart B of the Standards to the Agency for revision consistent with its ruling.

Abstract: These amendments to the UIC Program clarify the intent of the regulations covering authorization-by-rule requirements at 40 CFR Part 144, Subpart C. These new provisions will clarify how existing injection wells become authorized by rule and when injection is prohibited for failure to comply with authorization- by-rule requirements. EPA will also propose amendments to the noncompliance and program reporting requirements at 40 CFR 144.8; to the mechanical integrity requirements at 40 CFR 144.28(f) and 144.51(p). EPA will also propose definitions for the terms "convert" and "conversion" to help clarify when a well changes status from one well classification to another. Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 42 USC 300 / SDWA 1412

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 141

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, June 19, 1988.

Abstract: EPA is reproposing maximum contaminant level goals (MCLGs) and proposing National Primary Drinking Water Regulations (NPDWRs) for about 40 synthetic organic chemicals and inorganic chemicals. The NPDWRs consist of proposed maximum contaminants level (MCLs), as well as proposed monitoring, reporting, and public notification requirements for these contaminants. This action proposes the best available technology (BAT) upon which the MCLs are based and BAT for the purposes of issuing variances and exemptions to public water systems. In addition to the NPDWRs for the synthetic organic chemicals and inorganic chemicals, the notice proposes monitoring requirements for other synthetic organic chemicals which are not regulated by NPDWRs or proposed for regulation in this notice.

Abstract: This action proposes to amend the regulations governing the underground injection of hazardous wastes in two major areas. Additions to Part 146 propose to impose stricter standards on the construction and operating requirements applicable to owners and operators of Class I wells. New Part 148 would codify EPA's regulatory framework for implementing the land disposal restrictions for injection wells under sections 3004(f) and (g) of RCRA. Significance: Regulatory Program

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 147

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, March 19, 1987.

Abstract: EPA is required to prescribe an Underground Injection Control (UIC) Program in States that do not have an approved UIC program. In addition, all Indian lands not under the jurisdiction of an approved State program must be covered by a Federal program. The program is to take into consideration the unique conditions and the Tribal concerns for each nation.

Legal Deadline: Other, Statutory, June 19, 1988.
For Final Guidance

Abstract: EPA has promulgated new public notification requirements regarding lead contamination of drinking water to implement section 1417(a)(2) of the Safe Drinking Water Act (SDWA). The new public notification requirements for lead require public water systems to identify and provide notice to persons who may be affected by lead contamination in their drinking water, where such contamination results from the use of lead in the construction materials of the distribution system. Section 1417(b) provides that the lead public notification requirements in section 1417(a)(2) shall be enforced in all States as of June 19, 1988. EPA is authorized to withhold up to five percent of a State's section 1443(a) public water system supervision program grant if the Agency determines that the State is not enforcing the prohibition and public notice requirements for lead. The existing grant regulations, specifically 40 CFR Part 35, do not need to be changed to accommodate this withholding. EPA will publish a guidance document that will implement this part of the SDWA as soon as it is available.

Abstract: EPA has determined not to list recycled oil as a hazardous waste. Furthermore, the 11/19/86 notice 51 FR 41900 delineates the Agency's intention to pursue different strategies to control used oil that is to be recycled and use oil bound for disposal. Used oil bound for disposal may be regulated under a RCRA disposal listing and/or under the CWA. The 11/19/86 notice states that although some controls on recycling may be promulgated in the interim, comprehensive recycling management rules including standards applicable to the combustion of used oil, will not be issued until EPA determines specifically how to regulate used oil bound for disposal. The Agency does not have a more specific schedule for issuing the used oil disposal listing for the recycling regulations.

2833. ● OIL POLLUTION PREVENTION REGULATION

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 33 USC 1251 /CWA 311(j)(1)(c)

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 112

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Following a major oil spill with substantial environmental impacts, an interagency task force reviewed the adequacy of regulations concerning the prevention and control of oil spills. The task force recommended a significant upgrade to the Oil Pollution Prevention Regulation and an inventory of the regulated community. Because of the need for rapid upgrade of the regulation and the time required to inventory the regulated industry, a two phased regulatory approach is being pursued. In Phase I, widely accepted industry practices that are currently recommended practices in the regulation will be changed to required practices. Also, to facilitate an inventory of facilities subject to the regulation, a provision will be added requiring facilities to notify EPA of their existence. The Phase II regulatory effort will address other recommended modifications. The costs of the regulation will be compliance costs for the minority of facilities not complying with basic industry practices contained in the guidelines section of the current regulation. Abstract: EPA is presently developing a list of "high-volume, low- hazard" ore processing wastes for study under Section 8002(p) of RCRA, in response to an opinion of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the D.C. Circuit (EDF v. EPA, No. 86-1584, July 29, 1988). EPA will then conduct a Section 8002 study of those processing wastes excluded from Subtitle C regulation by the "Bevill Amendment" [3001 (b)(3)(A) RCRA]. The study will culminate in a Report to COngress in July 1989. RCRA Section 3001(b)(3) requires the Agency, after public hearings and public comment, to determine within six months of submitting the report, whether to regulate any of these wastes under RCRA Subtitle C.

Abstract: This proposed rule would amend an exemption in 40 CFR 261.4(c) which is currently limited to product or raw material vessels, so that it will apply to all vessels. The result of this change would be that all vessel operators, both product and non-product, would be regulated the same. In both cases, hazardous wastes generated on-board ships would not be subject to the RCRA regulations for storage, manifesting, etc., until the waste is removed from the ship. 2848. LINERS AND LEAK DETECTION FOR HAZARDOUS WASTE LAND DISPOSAL UNITS

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6924 / RCRA 3004; 42 USC 6925 / RCRA 3005

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 264; 40 CFR 265; 40 CFR 260; 40 CFR 270; 40 CFR 271

Legal Deadline: NPRM, Statutory, May 8, 1987.

Abstract: EPA has proposed these regulations under the authority of section 3004(a) and 3004(o)(4) of the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act. The regulations would require: 1) new landfills, surface impoundments, waste piles, and land treatment units for the treatment, storage, or disposal of hazardous wastes to utilize an approved leak detection system; 2) double liners and leachate collection systems for waste piles, and certain landfills and surface impoundments; and 3) development of a construction quality assurance program for certain landfills and surface impoundments, as well as final covers at land treatment units. EPA originally proposed this rule on May 29, 1987 (52 FR 20218); the Agency will repropose the rule.

2849. LOCATION STANDARDS FOR HAZARDOUS WASTE FACILITIES

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6924 /RCRA 3004

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 264; 40 CFR 265; 40 CFR 270

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Section 3004(o)(7) of RCRA authorizes EPA to promulgate standards for the location of hazardous waste treatment, storage, and disposal facilities. Two existing location standards (floodplain and seismic restrictions) at 40 CFR Part 264.18 will be amended based on new data and information. Additional standards will specify other criteria for the acceptable location of new, expanding, and existing treatment, storage and disposal facilities in a variety of sensitive environments (e.g., unstable terrains, wetlands).

2850. CORRECTIVE ACTION FOR SOLID WASTE MANAGEMENT UNITS (SWMUS) AT HAZARDOUS WASTE MANAGEMENT FACILITIES

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6924 / RCRA 3004(u), 3004(v)

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 264; 40 CFR 270

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: These regulations set forth the technical and procedural requirements for conducting corrective action to clean up significant releases to air, surface water, ground water and soil at solid waste management units (SWMUs) at operating, closed, or closing RCRA facilities. The regulations will be used to define the structure of the program, and the requirements for implementing remedial action, remedy selection and corrective measures. Currently, the permitting agencies must make case-by-case decisions on action.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6924 /RCRA 3004

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 264; 40 CFR 265; 40 CFR 270

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: These regulations will provide alternate closure options for EPA and authorized states to establish closure and post-closure requirements on a site-specific basis. The regulations address waste and site characteristics, potential pathways of hazardous constituent migration, and health effects. These rules allow for cover systems to be designed base on unique site and waste characteristics. EPA originally proposed this rule on March 19, 1987 (52 FR 8712); the Agency will repropose the rule.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6924 /RCRA 3004

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 268

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, January 15, 1988.

Abstract: The Agency is investigating the need to set separate treatment standards for soil and debris containing hazardous wastes. By statute, these wastes do not become subject to the Land Disposal Restrictions Rule (51 FR 40572 and 52 FR 25760) for Solvents and Dioxins (RCRA 3004(e)) and the California List (RCRA 3004(d)) until 11/8/88. If necessary, the Agency will further subcategorize the waste streams to provide separate treatment standards applicable to such wastes.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6924 /RCRA 3004

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 260; 40 CFR 270

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Currently, wastewater treatment units and elementary neutralization units are exempt from the requirements in 40 CFR Parts 264, and 265 (see 45FR76074, November 17, 1980). This action will amend the regulations to explain more clearly that thermal treatment units, except sludge dryers, are not exempt from regulation under the "wastewater treatment unit exclusion." It was never EPA's intention that thermal treatment units be exempt from regulation. Rather, specific regulations have been developed for these devices.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 3251 / RCRA 3004

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 264; 40 CFR 270

Abstract: The Appendix IX of 40 CFR Part 264 is a list of hazardous constituents presently referenced in 40 CFR Part 264 for use in ground water monitoring. This proposed amendment would make minor revisions to Appendix IX and create a new list for the first part (Detection Monitoring) of the ground water monitoring program. Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6941 to 6949 /RCRA 4001-4009

CFR Citation: 40 CFR Not yet determined

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Based on the first mining waste Report to Congress submitted 12/31/85, comments on the report, and other available information, EPA has determined that regulation of wastes from the extraction and benefication of ores and minerals under Subtitle C of the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA) is not warranted at this time (51 FR 24496). Instead, EPA plans to develop a program for mining waste under Subtitle D of RCRA, working with the States to determine the specific nature of their current mining waste activities and their future plans to administer such programs. EPA will propose a set of criteria for the proper disposal of mining wastes under RCRA Subtitle D authority. EPA will also work with other Federal agencies (e.g., DOI, USGS) to avoid duplication in regulatory efforts.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6962/RCRA 6002(e)

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 248

Legal Deadline: Other, Judicial. Consent decree requires submission of NPRM to Federal Register no later than 7/27/88 and Final Rule by 2/8/89.

Abstract: The Guideline Implements Section 6002(e) of RCRA, which requires EPA to designate items which can be produced with recovered materials and to prepare guidelines to assist procurement agencies in complying with the requirements of Section 6002. Once EPA has designated an item, Section 6002 requires that any procuring agency using appropriated Federal Funds to procure that item must purchase such items containing the highest percentage of recovered materials practicable. The guideline designates building insulation products as products for which the procurement requirements of RCRA Section 6002 apply. The guideline also contains recommendations for implementing these procurement requirements.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6991 /RCRA 9003

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 280

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, August 8, 1988.

Abstract: This regulation will establish, under Subtitle I of RCRA (as amended by SARA), requirements for demonstrating financial responsibility for taking corrective action and compensating third parties for bodily injury and property damage caused by releases from underground storage tanks (USTs) containing hazardous substances. An ANPRM was published to help gather data (e.g., frequency of releases from such USTs, costs of corrective action and third-party damages, and the regulated community's financial condition and use of financial assurance mechanisms) needed for the development of a proposed rule.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 11013 /Title III; 42 USC 11028 /Title III

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 355; 40 CFR 370; 40 CFR 372

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Title III of SARA does not specifically address implementation on Indian lands. This regulation will identify Indian Tribes as appropriate implementing authority and will clarify to whom facilities in Indian Country should report under the statute. It is not clear whether States have authority to enforce on Indian Lands. Treating tribes as states will result in universal implementation of the law, and will represent a new burden for tribes which they may not be equipped to handle. For this reason, we are proposing that tribes may enter into cooperative agreements with states or other tribes to share the burden.

2871. IDENTIFICATION OF HAZARDOUS WASTES BY TOXICITY CHARACTERISTIC AND LISTING OF ADDITIONAL ORGANIC TOXICANTS

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6921 / RCRA 3001

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 261

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, March 8, 1987.
November 8, 1986 for adding additional characteristics; March 8, 1987 for revising the extraction procedure.

Abstract: The EPA is proposing to amend its hazardous waste identification regulations by introducing a new extraction procedure to be used in the Toxicity Characteristic and by expanding the Toxicity Characteristic to include approximately 38 additional organic toxicants. EPA originally proposed this rule on June 13, 1986 (51 FR 21648).

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 260; 40 CFR 264; 40 CFR 265; 40 CFR 271

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, February 8, 1986.

Abstract: The Agency has proposed these regulations under the Hazardous and Solid Waste Amendment of 1984. The regulation will 1) minimize the placement of containers holding liquid hazardous waste and free liquids in hazardous waste landfills, 2) minimize the presence of free liquids in containers holding hazardous waste to be disposed of in landfills and 3) prohibit the use of absorbents that biodegrade or release liquids when compressed.

2873. GROUND-WATER MONITORING AT HAZARDOUS WASTE FACILITIES

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6924 /RCRA 3004

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 264; 40 CFR 270

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This action will change the Subpart F ground-water monitoring regulations. The following is a summary of the major changes:

o allow use of site-specific data on contaminant fate and transport for ground-water monitoring variances;

o allow flexibility in well installation requirements when access to waste management boundary is difficult;

o clarify the definition of waste management area and provide flexibility in determining the appropriate monitoring or response programs for individual areas;

o allow flexibility in schedules for submittal of information upon approval by the Regional Administrator (R.A.);

o base the requirement for ground-water flow rate and direction determinations upon site-specific fluctuations in water levels;

o clarify the R.A.'s authority to require monitoring of any flow pathway in the uppermost aquifer and unsaturated zone;

o authority to designate supplemental monitoring wells when justified by complicated monitoring situations; and (see additional information for completion of abstract.)

2874. DELAY IN THE CLOSURE PERIOD FOR HAZARDOUS WASTE MANAGEMENT FACILITIES

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6924 /RCRA 3004; 42 USC 6925 /RCRA 3005

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 264; 40 CFR 265

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The current regulations require that closure of a hazardous waste unit begin after the final receipt of hazardous wastes. The proposed rule will identify the circumstances under which a unit that ceases to receive hazardous wastes may continue to accept non-hazardous wastes. Amendments will identify conditions for the subsequent use of a unit for non-hazardous waste management and coordination with other closure activities of a hazardous waste management facility. Portions of the closure requirements (Subpart G) will be amended in both parts 264 and 265. These changes will increase the flexibility in the current regulations.

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 264; 40 CFR 265; 40 CFR 260; 40 CFR 270; 40 CFR 144

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, November 1986.

Abstract: This rule establishes minimum technology requirements (e.g., double liners and leachate collection systems) for new hazardous waste landfills and surface impoundments, as well as lateral expansions and replacements to existing landfills and surface impoundments. This rule will establish standards for these systems enabling unit owners and operators to design and construct systems that will protect human health and the environment.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6924 / RCRA 3004

Abstract: EPA promulgated regulations for detecting contamination of ground water at hazardous waste land disposal facilities under RCRA. The statistical methods and sampling procedures required in 40 CFR Part 264, Subpart F for evaluating ground water monitoring data have been shown to be inappropriate. EPA proposed amendments to these rules on August 24, 1987, and is now finalizing the revisions.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6901 /RCRA 3004

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 264; 40 CFR 265

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Agency is finalizing revisions to the financial responsibility requirements for liability coverage for third- party bodily injury and property damage resulting from accidental occurrences at hazardous waste treatment, storage, and disposal facilities. The revisions are intended to allow greater flexibility in the types of financial instruments that can be used by hazardous waste facility owners and operators who may have encountered difficulties in obtaining insurance or the limited number of other possible instruments to meet liability coverage requirements. Other instruments, such corporate guarantees, surety bonds, trust funds, and letters of credit, are being authorized through this rulemaking.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6925 /RCRA 3004 and 3005

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 270

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This regulation will amend RCRA procedures (codified at 40 CFR 270.41 and 270.42) for modifying hazardous waste management permits. The rulemaking provides EPA, authorized states, and permittees more flexibility in modifying permits, particularly where modifications will increase public and environmental protection or facilitate compliance with new regulations. At the same time, the regulation will provide for improved public participation in the permit modifications. The proposed rule was developed through regulatory negotiation with representatives of EPA, the states, industry, and public interest groups. RIN 2050-AA37 has been combined with this action.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6905 /RCRA 3005

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 260; 40 CFR 265; 40 CFR 270

Abstract: This action responds to a petition submitted to EPA by the Hazardous Waste Treatment Council (HWTC). It will establish state-wide permitting procedures for mobile hazardous waste treatment units and will modify hazardous waste delisting procedures, so that hazardous waste treatment residues could be delisted as part of the permitting process. In addition, the petition response solicited comment on HWTC's request that EPA exempt certain treatment technologies from the requirements for hazardous waste management.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6991(b) /RCRA 9003

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 280

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This regulation will establish, under Subtitle I of RCRA, requirements for owners and operators to demonstrate financial responsibility for taking corrective action and compensating third parties for bodily injury and property damage caused by sudden and nonsudden accidental releases arising from operating an underground storage tank containing petroleum. These requirements are applicable to all owners and operators, excluding Federal and State entities. The Agency has proposed aggregate levels of coverage for multiple tanks and will allow a variety of mechanisms to provide evidence of financial responsibility.

Abstract: EPA is reassessing health and welfare information which has become available since the last revision of the standard. In order to retain a unified regulatory review package in light of the emerging data base on health and welfare effects associated with longer-term averaging times, EPA is continuing the standard review until such information is published and reviewed in an addendum to the criteria document. The major issue is whether the new information will indicate that new standards with longer-term averaging times are required to protect public health and welfare.

CFR Citation: 40 CFR Not yet determined

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Agency is reviewing the health effects, sources, emissions to the ambient air, and the public exposure of the pollutants listed below. The Agency will publish decisions regarding whether these pollutants should be controlled as specified air pollutants under the Clean Air Act or under other regulatory mechanisms in order to protect the public health.

2898. NESHAP:CADMIUM

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7412 /CAA 112

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 61

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: EPA issued a notice of intent to list cadmium under Section 112 (50 FR 42000). EPA is investigating the need for regulation of cadmium and techniques to control the emissions from identified source categories. If EPA decides that emission standards are warranted, cadmium will be listed under section 112, and EPA will propose standards.

2899. NESHAP: PERCHLOROETHYLENE DRY CLEANING

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7412 / CAA 112

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 61

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: In 1985, the Agency published a notice of intent to list perchloroethylene under Section 112. A decision on whether to regulate this source category under the NESHAP program has been delayed pending a decision on how to respond to the court's decision on the Vinyl Chloride NESHAP (see benzene reconsideration). The potential NESHAP regulations would apply to all types of machines and could also address auxiliary equipment and safe workplace practices.

2900. NESHAP: ORGANIC SOLVENT DEGREASING

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7412 / CAA 112

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 61

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: An NSPS was proposed for this source category in 1980. Subsequently, in 1987, the Agency solicited public participation in information gathering in preparation for a decision on whether to regulate this source category under the NESHAP program, the NSPS program or both. That regulatory decision has been delayed pending a decision on how to respond to the court's decision on the Vinyl Chloride NESHAP (see benzene reconsideration). The potential NESHAP regulations would apply to organic solvent cleaners (degreasers) and would control emissions of perchloroethylene, methylene chloride, and trichlorethylene from new and existing sources. The emissions reduction techniques that would be considered would be combinations of add-on controls, hardware and improved operating practices.

Abstract: EPA is examining information relevant to a ban on the use of lead in gasoline. The Agency is considering a set of alternatives ranging from no regulatory action to a ban. The Agency recently completed a cooperative study with the U.S. Department of Agriculture to assess the effects of a lead ban on farm equipment. A report to the President and Congress has been prepared and is under final Agency review.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7545(e) / CAA 211(e)

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 79; 40 CFR 80

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, August 7, 1978.

Abstract: The CAA requires that testing protocols be developed to address at a minimum, the possible carcinogenic, mutagenic, and teratogenic effects of fuels and fuel additives as well as their effect on emissions and emission control devices. This action would implement protocols for such testing, which would have to be performed prior to: 1) fuel or additive registration, and 2) introduction of the fuel or additive into the marketplace. Fuels and additives already registered or on sale would also have to undergo testing, as provided for by the CAA.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7408 /CAA 108; 42 USC 7409 /CAA 109

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 50.7

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: On July 1, 1987, EPA issued an ANPRM soliciting public comment on the development of a new secondary (welfare-based) NAAQS for fine particles (those particles less than 2.5 micrometers in aerodynamic diameter). This action represents a continuation of the review process for the secondary standards for particulate matter discussed by the Agency on March 20, 1984 (49 FR 10408). The principal welfare effect to be addressed by such a standard is impairment of visibility. Once a decision on whether and how to proceed is reached, a schedule for further action will be developed.

2905. FEDERAL PROMULGATION OF STATE IMPLEMENTATION PLAN TO PROTECT VISIBILITY

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7410 /CAA 110; 42 USC 7491 /CAA 169A

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 52

Legal Deadline: NPRM, Judicial, August 31, 1988.

Abstract: Section 169A of the CAA requires that State Implementation Plans (SIPs) contain provisions to remedy existing and prevent future visibility impairment in certain national parks and wilderness areas. In 1980, EPA promulgated guideline regulations for States to follow in developing their SIP revisions (40 CFR 51.300-307). Many States failed to submit adequate visibility SIPs and EPA was sued to force the Agency to promulgate SIPs for such States. EPA entered into a consent decree under which it promulgated SIPs implementing most of the requirements of the visibility regulations in States that have not submitted adequate SIPs. Under the consent decree, EPA has until August 31, 1988 to propose regulations to deal with existing visibility impairment in four States.

2909. NSPS: MUNICIPAL WASTE COMBUSTORS

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7411 / CAA 111

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 60

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The EPA has completed a preliminary assessment of air emissions from municipal waste combustors (MWC). Based on this assessment, EPA has concluded that MWC emissions may reasonably be anticipated to contribute to the endangerment of public health and welfare. As a result, EPA issued a notice in the Federal Register (52 FR 25399) that announces its intent to regulate emissions from new and modified MWC under Section 111(b). Pollutants to be regulated will include one or more designated pollutants (pollutants not regulated under Sections 108-110 or 112) thus invoking Section 111(d) which will require States to develop additional emissions standards for existing MWC based on EPA guidelines.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7412 / CAA 112

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 61 G

Legal Deadline: NPRM, Statutory, March 1985.

Abstract: This regulation would control emissions of coke oven emissions, which have been designated as hazardous under section 112. It would require improved maintenance and operation to limit visible emissions from wet-coal-charged coke oven batteries. The standards may apply to charging and leaks from doors, lids, or offtakes for all existing or new sources. A supplemental proposal will be published to reevaluate the standard consistent with the court decision on vinyl chloride. Abstract: EPA issued a notice of intent to list total chromium or hexavalent chromium under Section 112 (50 FR 24137). EPA is further assessing the public health risks of chromium compounds. Preliminary assessment performed by EPA has identified industrial process cooling towers as a source category for which the proposal of national emission standards may be warranted. Abstract: EPA issued a notice of intent to list chromium or hexavalent chromium under Section 112 (50 FR 24317). EPA is further assessing the public health risks of chromium compounds. A preliminary assessment performed by EPA has identified chromium electroplating as a source category which emits significant quantities of chromium to the atmosphere and for which the proposal of national emission standards may be warranted. Abstract: This potential regulation would control emissions of 1,3-butadiene, ethylene oxide, ethylene dichloride, chloroform, carbon tetrachloride, perchloroethylene, trichloroethylene, and methylene chloride, as hazardous pollutants under Section 112. The potential regulation would cover the production categories and some use categories for these eight pollutants. Legal Deadline: NPRM, Judicial, June 1988. Final, Judicial, December 1988. Since the June, 1988 proposal date was extended to July 20, the final action will most likely be extended.

Abstract: In June 1984, the Agency promulgated a NESHAP for benzene equipment leaks and withdrew proposed NESHAPS for benzene emissions from maleic anhydride plants, ethylbenzene/styrene plants, and benzene storage tanks (49 FR 23478). This action will reevaluate the three withdrawn proposals and the benzene fugitive NESHAP, along with coke oven by-product emission, consistent with the recent court decision on the vinyl chloride NESHAP.

U.S. Court of Appeals for the D.C. Circuit has granted EPA's motion to remand radionuclides NESHAPs and decisions not to regulate.

Abstract: EPA addressed the risks to individuals and to populations due to radionuclide emissions to air in rulemaking decisions issued in 1985. Following the Vinyl Chloride decision. EPA requested a voluntary reward from the D.C. Circuit to reconsider its decisions in light of the court's opinion. This action is taken under the authority of Section 112 of the Clean Air Act. Reconsideration will include the following source categories: Department of Commission, Elemental Phosphorous plants, Radon-222 emissions from licensed uranium mill tailings, Coal-fired boilers, uranium fuel cycle facilities, inactive uranium mill tailings, high-level radioactive waste, and phosphogypsum piles. Alternatives the Agency is considering are either the promulgation of emission standards or work practices or a decision not to regulate. These actions will consider the risks due to radionuclides emitted to air from all significant sources (see also benzene reconsideration).

2921. PSD INCREMENTS FOR PM10

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7476/CAA 166

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 52.21; 40 CFR 51.166

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, July 1, 1989.

Abstract: The purpose of this action is to prevent significant deterioration of air quality as measured by the new indicator for particulate matter, PM10. The existing PSD program has particulate matter increments based on the original TSP indicator. The EPA has now promulgated a PM10 NAAQS to replace the original TSP-based particulate matter NAAQS. Therefore, EPA is preparing to revise the PSD program by promulgating PM10 increments in accordance with section 166 of the Clean Air Act.

2922. HYDROCARBON STANDARDS FOR LIGHT-DUTY TRUCKS (REVISION)

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7521 / CAA 202

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 86

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Through this action, EPA will consider the establishment of more stringent hydrocarbon emission standards for light-duty trucks based upon the belief that very cost-effective hydrocarbon control is available from these vehicles. The new standards for lighter light-duty trucks would be no more stringent than the existing passenger car standard and an equivalently stringent standard for heavier light-duty trucks. In the ANPRM, EPA also requested comments on the possibility of tighter carbon monoxide standards for light-duty trucks.

Abstract: Evaporative hydrocarbons emitted during vehicle refueling contribute to the failure of many urban areas to attain the National Ambient Air Quality Standard for ozone. Through this action, if deemed feasible and desirable, EPA will control emissions at the time of refueling.

2924. TRADING AND BANKING OF HEAVY-DUTY ENGINE NOX AND PM EMISSION CREDITS

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7521 / CAA 202

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 86

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: In March 1985 the EPA promulgated NOx and PM emission standards for heavy-duty vehicles and engines. The rulemaking included a provision for emissions averaging for the final stages of standard implementation in order to mitigate the economic impact of the stringent standards. EPA realized that the averaging mechanism could provide more benefits to manufacturers with a broader product line. In order to address this issue, EPA included in the final package a provision to study the potential for mitigating this uneven distribution of benefits through an emissions credit trading program. The study was expanded to include the concept of 'banking' emissions credit. The study has been completed and made available to the public and a technical workshop was held in January 1987. EPA is analyzing the comments received from the public and from the workshop.

2925. TEST PROCEDURES FOR TRAP-EQUIPPED DIESEL VEHICLES AND ENGINES

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7525 / CAA 206

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 86

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The particulate standards for 1991 and later model year heavy-duty diesel engines may require the use of trap-oxidizers for some vehicles and engines. The existing test procedures do not expressly describe how to deal with emissions and fuel economy effects during trap regeneration. If it turns out that trap oxidizers are necessary to comply with the 1991 particulate standards, the Agency will develop an appropriate test procedure.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7524 /CAA 206

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 86

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This action will address the availability of nonconformance penalties (NCPs) and specific upper limits and penalty rates for 1991 through 1994 model year emission standards for heavy-duty vehicles and engines. The availability of NCPs will allow a manufacturer, whose vehicles or engines fail to conform with certain applicable emission standards, but which do not exceed a designated upper limit, to be issued a certificate of conformity upon payment of a monetary penalty. This rule is the third phase of NCP rulemaking. The first, published August 30, 1985 established generic aspects of NCPs. The second, published December 31, 1985, addressed NCPs applicable to 1987 through 1990 model years.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7541(b) / CAA 207(b)

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 85

Abstract: This rulemaking will address the issue of establishing: (1) test procedures and standards for heavy-duty gasoline vehicles, (2) new standards for light-duty vehicles and light-duty trucks, and (3) alternative dynamometer loadings for the loaded short tests. These amendments are appropriate so that owners of heavy-duty vehicles will have emissions warranty protection and additional owners of light-duty vehicles and trucks will be entitled to warranty protection.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7541 /CAA 207

Abstract: This action will consider allowing alternative dynamometer specifications for an existing loaded-mode short test approved for use in State and local inspection/maintenance programs in conjunction with the federal emissions performance warranty regulations. The alternative specifications the Agency is considering would allow lower loading, perhaps varying by engine size. Such a change could improve overall test effectiveness for identifying excess in-use emissions and correlation with the Federal Test Procedure.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7545 / CAA 211

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 79; 40 CFR 80

Abstract: Trap oxidizers, the use of which may be required to meet future heavy-duty diesel particulate standards, may require the use of low sulfur diesel fuels. In promulgating the particulate standard, EPA promised to examine the potential need for low-sulfur fuel. In particular, fuel sulfur and aromatics content have been shown to have a direct effect on particulate emissions. This action will consider the costs and benefits of improving diesel fuel quality.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6924/RCRA 3004, 3007

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 264, Subparts I to N

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The purpose of this action is to investigate the magnitude of the area non-combustion source air emissions from hazardous waste treatment, storage, and disposal facilities and to develop standards for monitoring and control as needed. Area sources include surface impoundments, landfills, waste piles, land treatment operations and waste water treatment facilities. Pollutants to be considered by such standards would include volatile organic compounds, particulate matter, specific toxic substances, or a combination of these. The mandate for standards development under RCRA is to protect human health and the environment.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7501-7508 /CAA 101-108

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 81

Legal Deadline: NPRM, Statutory, August 31, 1988.

Abstract: On June 6, 1988 (53 FR 20722), the EPA, as directed by the Mitchell-Conte Amendment of December 22, 1987 (contained in the continuing resolution of 1987, Pub. L. 100-202), proposed to designate as nonattainment under the CAA those areas throughout the nation that have not attained the NAAQS for either ozone or carbon monoxide (CO). EPA proposed to designate as nonattainment those areas currently codified as attainment or unclassified, and to renew the designations for areas currently codified as nonattainment. The notice also proposed for public comment 3 interpretations of the regulatory consequences of these nonattainment designations under the Mitchell-Conte amendment.

Abstract: The various EPA regulations that govern new construction under the CAA generally apply to "major" new stationary sources of air pollution and "major" modifications of existing sources. They require fugitive emissions to be included in threshold applicability determinations of whether a new source is "major," but only for 30 categories of sources. The purpose of this action is to determine if surface coals mines should be added to the existing list of 30 categories. A companion action will respond to a petition on the more general issue of including fugitive emissions in NSR applicability determinations.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7401 et seq/CAA

CFR Citation: 40 CFR Not applicable

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The EPA is developing a program to address the likelihood that many areas in the country will not attain the national ambient air quality standards (NAAQS) for ozone and carbon monoxide (CO) by December 31, 1987, the latest date for attainment expressly identified in the Clean Air Act. This notice describes EPA's views about how EPA should interpret the Act so as to bring those areas into attainment, the reasons for that interpretation, and the concrete steps EPA intends to take to implement that interpretation soon and in the long term. The final policy will be an advance notice of how EPA intends, in subsequent rulemakings, to judge the adequacy of State efforts to plan for attainment of the ozone and CO standards.

Abstract: EPA issued a notice of intent to list total chromium or hexavalent chromium under Section 112 (50 FR 24317). EPA is further assessing the public health risks of chromium compounds and investigating emissions of chromium and techniques that are available to control the emissions from identified source categories. Because emissions from cooling towers using chromium chemicals in the recirculating water are predominantly hexavalent. EPA has decided that emissions standards are warranted, and standards have been proposed under Section 6 of TSCA.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7401 /et. seq CAA

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 50; 40 CFR 52

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Since 1977, EPA has allowed States with rural fugitive dust areas (RFDAs) to discount fugitive dust in developing and enforcing a State Implementation Plan(SIP) for attainment and maintenance of the NAAQS for particulate matter (PM). On July 1, 1987, EPA promulgated revisions to its particulate matter National Ambient Air Quality Standards (NAAQS), 52 FR 24634. In this notice, EPA also solicited comments on alternatives for SIP requirements for RFDAs and on the adequacy of the definitions which are used in identifying RFDAs, and the importance of protecting annual versus 24-hour NAAQS (52 FR 24716). The EPA will issue its decision after considering public comments on the alternatives. The EPA will continue its existing fugitive policy and apply it to implementation of the revised particulate standard until a decision is made.

Abstract: This rule will develop emission standards and test procedures applicable to methanol-fueled light-duty vehicles, light-duty trucks, heavy-duty engines, and motorcycles. CFR Citation: 40 CFR 86

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: In-use motor vehicle evaporative hydrocarbon emissions greatly exceed their applicable EPA emissions standards. A major reason is that the volatility of commercial gasoline is substantially greater than that of the certification test fuel specified by EPA. This rule will consider options to deal with this problem including control of commercial fuel volatility and a change to certification test fuel volatility.

Abstract: EPA is considering revising the particulate emission standards for light-duty diesel trucks with a loaded vehicle weight equal to or greater than 3751 pounds. The standard would be relaxed for the 1987-1990 model years, allowing manufacturers to devote their resources to developing particulate trap oxidizer technology. Then in 1991, the standard would be tightened to 0.13 grams per mile which is twice as stringent as the current applicable standard.

2956. SMALL-VOLUME MANUFACTURERS CERTIFICATION PROCEDURE (REVISION)

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7525 / CAA 206

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 86

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This action will result in amended rules to provide for certification of emissions compliance by small-volume manufacturers, including commercial importers importing vehicles into the United States. By a separate action, EPA has revised its rules for nonconforming vehicle importation. This action is appropriate to improve the certification regulations and assure compliance with the exhaust emission standards. Current rules for small-volume manufacturers were not specifically intended to apply to conversion of previously manufactured but uncertified configurations. However, increasingly large numbers of manufacturers who import vehicles for resale have applied for EPA certification as an alternative to individual vehicle importation. This will primarily impact businesses involved in importing motor vehicles. The likely impact of these changes will be increased costs to these businesses.

Abstract: These amendments would delete the mandatory reporting of manufacturers' internal quality assurance emission test data. Prior to promulgation of this requirement in 1980, many manufacturers voluntarily submitted their internal quality assurance data. The deletion of this requirement is not expected to affect the SEA program, especially since many manufacturers will continue to provide the data voluntarily.

Abstract: The U.S. Court of Appeals for the D.C. Circuit has directed EPA to amend the aftermarket parts certification regulations. There were four specific areas which the Court directed EPA to revisit. EPA was directed to develop better procedures for determining adequate grounds for manufacturer denial of a warranty claim; reconsider inclusion of specialty parts into the certification system; improve the procedure for resolution of warranty cost claims by vehicle manufacturers'against certified parts manufacturers; and labeling for certified parts.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 42 USC 9602 /CERCLA 102

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 302

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rule may propose to designate 232 non-CERCLA extremely hazardous substances (EHS), as defined in Section 302 of SARA Title III, as hazardous substances pursuant to Section 102 of CERCLA. Currently, only releases of those EHSs that are also CERCLA hazardous substances are required to be reported to the National Response Center under CERCLA Section 103. Upon designation, potential confusion concerning the different SARA Title III and CERCLA requirements might be reduced by ensuring consistent procedures for reporting releases of all EHSs.

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 300

Legal Deadline: NPRM, Statutory, April 17, 1988.

Abstract: This action revises the Hazard Ranking System (HRS) which is Appendix A of the National Contingency Plan. The HRS is a system for determining the relative severity of risks among releases of hazardous substances. The HRS is the primary mechanism for establishing the National Priorities List under CERCLA. CERCLA requires that the HRS be amended to assure, to the extent feasible, that it accurately assesses relative risk to public health and the environment. CERCLA specifically requires that the HRS take into consideration natural resource damages that may affect the human food chain as well as potential air contamination. The HRS must also appropriately assess human health risks associated with contamination of surface waters for drinking or recreation.

Abstract: This action revises the National Priorities List (NPL) for uncontrolled hazardous waste sites in the National Contingency Plan (NCP). CERCLA requires that the NPL be revised at least annually. Periodic revisions will allow EPA to include sites on the NPL with known or threatened hazardous substances releases and to delete sites that have been cleaned up. Abstract: Under Title III of SARA, EPA has authority to establish thresholds below which facilities do not have to report. In the rule published on October 15, 1987, EPA set reporting thresholds for the first two years of reporting. At the same time, the Agency made a commitment to further evaluate the appropriate level for a permanent threshold.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 9609/SARA 325

CFR Citation: 40 CFR Not yet determined

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The purpose of the rulemaking is to propose regulations which will govern the conduct of administrative hearings for (1) Class I penalties to be assessed under SARA Section 325(b), and (2) other similar penalties assessed under SARA Section 325(d). The action is expected to have negligible economic impact on consumers industries, or governmental agencies, but will provide the benefit of uniform procedures for assessing penalties.

Significance: Regulatory Program

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 117; 40 CFR 302

Legal Deadline: NPRM, Statutory, December 31, 1986. Final, Statutory, April 30, 1988.

Abstract: In March 1987 the Agency proposed adjusting, where appropriate, the statutory reportable quantities (RQs) for 273 of the hazardous substances identified in Section 101(14) of CERCLA, as amended. Most (269) of these substances were evaluated for potential carcinogenicity. SARA 202 amends CERCLA 306 to require the Department of Transportation (DOT) to list and regulate as hazardous materials all CERCLA hazardous substances. These regulations require that when these materials are shipped in quantities equal to or greater than their RQs, they be identified as hazardous substances on shipping papers and package markings. DOT promulgated this rule with an effective date of July 1, 1987. The DOT has received several inquiries concerning six frequently transported CERCLA hazardous substances that had their RQs proposed to be adjusted upward in the March 16, 1987 rule. EPA has decided to expedite the final RQ adjustments for these six substances to relieve the regulatory burden on industry. In addition, in this final rule EPA will promulgate the RQs for lead and five lead compounds that were proposed in March 2, 1988 (53 FR 6762).

Legal Deadline: NPRM, Statutory, December 31, 1986. Final, Statutory, April 30, 1988.

Abstract: EPA is adjusting the statutory one-pound reportable quantity (RQ) for radionuclides pursuant to Section 102 of CERCLA. Radionuclides consist of approximately 1,500 radioactive isotopes whose release represents differing degrees of potential harm to human health and the environment. The Agency has proposed individual adjusted RQs for 757 radionuclides, and an RQ of one curie for all of the remaining radionuclides.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 42 USC 9602 /CERCLA 102

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 117; 40 CFR 302; 40 CFR 355

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: In the May 25, 1983 NPRM (48 FR 23552) that proposed to adjust certain reportable quantities (RQs) for releases of hazardous substances, EPA explained the Agency's interpretation of each of the types of releases exempted by the definition of "federally permitted release" in Section 101(10) of CERCLA. Because of the amount of time that has passed and additional analysis undertaken since that NPRM, this action reproposes regulations to clarify the statutory language in Section 101(10) of CERCLA.

Abstract: This regulation will establish and govern the procedures for arbitration of small CERCLA 107(a) cost recovery claims pursuant to the authority granted EPA by SARA 122(h)(2). The regulation will provide a voluntary procedure by which EPA and PRPs at a site may agree to submit a cost recovery claim for resolution by arbitration. Arbitration may be used only when the total response costs for the facility concerned do not exceed $500,000, excluding interest. Arbitration is an alternative dispute resolution technique that should provide a quicker and less costly method of case resolution than traditional litigation and negotiations.

Abstract: This regulation is being promulgated in response to the requirements established by Section 109(c) of the Superfund Amendments and Reauthorization Act (SARA), codified as CERCLA Section 109(d). This statutory provision authorizes the President to pay an award of up to $10,000 to any individual for information leading to the successful prosecution of any person for a criminal violation of the Comprehensive Environmental Response,

EPA—CERCLA

Final Rule Stage

Compensation, and Liability Act (CERCLA), as amended. Section 109(d) also requires the President to prescribe by regulation criteria for such an award. On January 23, 1987 by Executive Order No. 12580, the President delegated to the Administrator of EPA the authority to promulgate the within regulation, and thereafter to carry out the Section 109(d) award program. This regulation is being promulgated on an interim-final basis in order to permit the more expeditious protection of the public health and the environment, as directed by Congress for this provision of SARA.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 9601/SARA 120

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 373

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, April 17, 1988.

Abstract: Section 120(h) of SARA requires that EPA, in consultation with the General Services Administration, promulgate rules which will require the disclosure of the type and quantity of any hazardous substances that have been stored, released or disposed of on federally owned land when such land is sold or otherwise transferred from the federal domain. This section of SARA also requires that: (1) the agencies holding such land provide, at the time of transfer, a covenant warranting that all remedial actions necessary for protection of human health and the environment have been taken; and (2) any additional action found to be necessary after the transfer will be undertaken by the U.S. EPA is not required to develop rules concerning these latter requirements.

2998. DENIAL OR RESTRICTION OF DISPOSAL SITES (REVISION)

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 33 USC 1344 /CWA 404(c)

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 231

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This action will revise EPA's existing 404(c) regulations, in effect since October 9, 1979. It will amend the procedures to be used when EPA is considering the use of Section 404(c) of the CWA to prevent the discharge of dredged or fill material into a defined area of the waters of the United States. Section 404(c) gives the Administrator authority to prohibit or withdraw the specification of a site as a disposal site or to deny or restrict use of a disposal site. The revisions will reflect our experiences to date under Section 404(c), and more clearly address use of 404(c) in advance of a specific proposed discharge.

Semiannual Regulatory Agenda

AGENCY: Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

ACTION: Semiannual regulatory agenda.

SUMMARY: The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission is publishing its Semiannual Regulatory Agenda pursuant to Executive Order No. 12291, 3 CFR Part 127 (1981 Compilation) and the Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. Chapter 6. The agenda contains all regulations which are scheduled for review or development during the next twelve months.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Irene L. Hill, Assistant Legal Counsel for Coordination, Office of the Legal Counsel, Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, 2401 "E" Street, NW., Washington, DC 20507; telephone (202) 634-7581.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Commission identified thirteen current and projected rulemakings for inclusion in the agenda. Two of the listings have been published as ANPRMS. Two have been published as NPRMS. Six of the listings are currently under development or review by Commission staff. One is currently under review by the Commission. Two listings have been published as final regulations.

Signed in Washington, DC, this 26th day of August, 1988.

For the Commission.

Clarence Thomas,

Chairman, Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

3007. ● EARLY RETIREMENT PLANS

Legal Authority: 29 USC 628

CFR Citation: 29 CFR Not yet determined

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The ADEA prohibits discrimination on the basis of age with respect to an employee's compensation, terms, conditions, or privileges of employment. In light of recent amendments to the ADEA and several cases dealing with early retirement, questions have arisen regarding the legality of early retirement plans in general and of specific plans. Since the use of early retirement has expanded greatly in recent years, the Commission deems it appropriate to consider the issuance of regulatory guidance in the area. The ANPRM seeks comment on issues such as voluntariness, plan structuring and eligibility to participate.

Legal Authority: 29 USC 628

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 1625.10

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The current interpretive regulations at 29 CFR 1625.10 were framed in 1979. Since that time the ADEA has been amended in a manner that necessitates considering revisions to the regulations, for example, the addition of sec. 4(g) to the Act and the lifting of the age 70 cap. Accordingly, the Commission is requesting public comment to determine whether revisions are necessary and, if so, the nature and scope of any such revision.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2000e et seq Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 1607

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: UGESP Recordkeeping Provisions. On March 15, 1983, the Commission voted to review those portions of the recordkeeping provisions of the Guidelines which relate to the maintenance of data necessary to determine adverse impact. Pursuant to that vote, the Commission published in the Federal Register a notice seeking public comment in general and on several specific questions about UGESP recordkeeping. 48 Fed. Reg. 34766 (Aug. 1, 1983). Approximately 45 comments were received. The Commission is currently reviewing the comments and is considering further action. On June 12, 1984, the Commission voted to prepare an NPRM concerning certain UGESP recordkeeping requirements. Prior to publication for comment, co-signatories to UGESP will engage in discussion of recommended changes and other affected agencies will be consulted under EO 12067.

Abstract: On March 15, 1983, the Commission voted to review the recordkeeping portions of the Guidelines. During that review process, several questions arose which pertained to the substantive, non-recordkeeping provisions of the Guidelines. Consequently, the Commission decided to review the substantive portions of the Guidelines. The major substantive areas under review are: 1) the purpose of the Guidelines and whether there is still a need for the Guidelines; 2) the theory of adverse impact and the method of determining when such impact is significant; and 3) how to establish test validity. When the review is completed, the Commission will decide whether any regulatory revisions are needed.

Federal Emergency Management Agency

Semiannual Regulatory Agenda

FEDERAL EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT AGENCY (FEMA)

44 CFR Ch. I

Semiannual Agenda

AGENCY: Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA).

ACTION: Semiannual agenda.

SUMMARY: Pursuant to section 5 of Executive Order 12291 ("Federal Regulations") the Federal Emergency Management Agency is publishing its semiannual agenda for FEMA. The agenda lists regulations that will be under development or review during the period October 1, 1988 to September 30, 1989.

ADDRESS: Rules Docket Clerk, Office of General Counsel, Room 840, 500 C Street, SW., Washington, DC 20472.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: For general information, contact Susan Kantor Bank, Office of General Counsel, Federal Emergency Management Agency, Washington, DC 20472, (202) 646-3973. For additional information about a specific regulation, contact the person listed as the contact point in the agenda.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Executive Order 12291, "Federal Regulations," directs each Executive agency to adopt procedures to improve existing and future regulations. Publication of an agenda of significant regulations is called for at least semiannually in order to give the public adequate notice of agency rulemaking activities; also publication of a regulatory flexibility agenda concerning rules likely to have a significant impact on a substantial number of small entities must be published in accordance with 5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.

In fulfillment of requirements imposed by the Executive Order and 5 U.S.C. 601 et seq., this agenda describes current and projected regulations, and regulations which will be under review during the period April 1, 1988 to March 31, 1989. This agenda also contains information on regulations on which action was completed since the last FEMA semiannual agenda published April 25, 1988 at 53 FR 14416.

Public comment on the agenda, including that by State and local governments, is invited and should be submitted to the Rules Docket Clerk.

The agenda is not limited to major or significant rules and contains as much information as possible concerning all FEMA regulations to be published in the next 12 months except for routine flood elevation determinations, listing of eligible communities under the National Flood Insurance Program, listing of suspended communities and similar designations, and organizational and management matters.

Dated: August 24, 1988.

George W. Watson,

Acting General Counsel.

FEDERAL EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT AGENCY (FEMA) — Proposed Rule Stage

3019. NONDISCRIMINATION IN FEDERALLY-ASSISTED PROGRAMS

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2000d-1; 29 USC 794; 20 USC 1682; 42 USC 6103; 42 USC 5151; Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1978; EO 12127; EO 12148

CFR Citation: 44 CFR 7

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rule effectuates for FEMA the nondiscrimination requirements of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, and Section 311 of the Disaster Relief Act of 1974. A draft regulation is undergoing interagency review. The notice of proposed rulemaking will be issued as soon as interagency clearances are obtained.

3024. FLOOD INSURANCE RATING SYSTEM CHANGES

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 42 USC 4001 et seq; EO 12127

CFR Citation: 44 CFR 61

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: National Flood Insurance Program premium rating system changes under consideration include a community rating system and a system to use revised FIRMs producing higher rates for existing policyholders, subject to a rate cap. The community rating system would be designed to recognize circumstances within local communities that mitigate or exacerbate the flooding risk, such as the inaction of a community in addressing flood problems or the performance of a community that goes beyond minimum NFIP floodplain management requirements. The use of revised FIRMs for existing policyholders would replace the current practice of allowing premium rates for such policyholders to be based on the map in existence at the time of construction so long as the construction met the requirements at that time.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 42 USC 5131; 50 USC App. 2251 to 2297; EO 12148; EO 12381

CFR Citation: 44 CFR 362

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Under PL 93-288, the Federal Emergency Management Agency provides financial and technical assistance to States and local governments in their hurricane preparedness planning. Except for some instances, FEMA has provided 100 percent funding to designated States that have high risk hurricane hazard areas for the development of population preparedness and property protection studies. This proposed rulemaking will establish a plan for having States share the cost of these activities. These changes to 44 CFR 300.6 will affect only the hurricane preparedness portion of this rule; the earthquake hazards reduction portion will be revised in a separate concurrent rulemaking effort.

CFR Citation: 44 CFR 305; 44 CFR 302; 44 CFR 360; 44 CFR 301; 5 CFR 900

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The comprehensive aspect of the CCA process itself was not created by legislation or even by regulation; Presidential emphasis on grants consolidation and FEMA policy on integrating programs created the CCA. The cooperative agreement aspect of the CCA process is based on PL 95-224, the Federal Grant and Cooperative Agreement Act of 1977. Cooperative agreements are used when stimulating a public purpose (the multiple programs delivered in each CCA are aimed at stimulating public purposes, primarily civil defense). The Federal Civil Defense Act of 1950, as amended, authorizes the major portion of CCA programs and assistance dollars, and is therefore the major legislative authority underpinning the CCA process. Various Civil Preparedness Guides, primarily CPG 1-38 and CPG 1-3 address the CCA process and associated programs. However, a regulation would provide complete notice to States and interested parties and complete the policy and procedural requirements identified by the Office of General Counsel. Specific quantitative estimates cannot be cited.

CFR Citation: 44 CFR 59; 44 CFR 60; 44 CFR 61; 44 CFR 62

Abstract: Section 544 of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1987 provides a new benefit to National Flood Insurance Program Policyholders: Payment for demolition or relocation of an insured structure if it is located "along the shore of a lake or other body of water and is certified by appropriate State and local land use authority to be subject to imminent collapse or subsidence as a result of erosion or undermining caused by waves or currents of water exceeding anticipated cyclical levels." FEMA plans to commission an investigation through the National Academy of Sciences (expected to take approximately 15 months) to provide a basis for regulations defining "imminent collapse" certification criteria and erosion zone management measures. In the meantime, FEMA is considering issuing interim administrative regulations dealing with other aspects of providing new benefits.

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This project revises FIRMR Provisions relating to Federal Telecommunications acquisition and management. It will include changes brought about by the Federal Communications Commission Computer II inquiry and the divestiture of AT&T. This regulation will update GSA policies and provisions impacting Governmentwide telecommunication management and will specifically address the need for requirements definition and analysis for local and intercity service. It will revise "major change" requirements and state what GSA needs from agencies if GSA is expected to provide services or if GSA is reviewing service for individual agency acquisitions. All obsolete provisions will be eliminated.

3055. FIRMR IMPROVEMENT PROJECT

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 40 USC 486(c); 40 USC 751(f)

CFR Citation: 41 CFR 201

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: In response to recommendations by users of the FIRMR to revise the regulation to make it more readable and useful, GSA plans to restructure the FIRMR during the next few years. This restructuring will include: the separation of policies and procedures, the separation of contracting from management and use provisions, the reorganization of FIRMR contracting provisions for consistency with the Federal Acquisition Regulations, and the reorganization of the FIRMR's management and use provisions into a life cycle format. As the final draft of each subchapter is completed, GSA will seek public comment on the subchapter through a notice of proposed rulemaking. Subchapter E, which deals with acquisition, will be completed first and, if possible, issued as a final rule before publication of the entire FIRMR. An advanced notice of proposed rulemaking describing the project was published in the Federal Register in January 1988. The next planned action is a notice of proposed rulemaking for revised FIRMR Part 39. This action will consolidate all FIRMR contracting policies and procedures for acquiring ADP and telecommunications resources into a single part, consistent with the FAR.

Abstract: This project revises the FIRMR to simplify provisions on the use and implementation of Federal automatic data processing and telecommunications standards. It results in major changes in the regulatory coverage and presentation of FIRMR provisions on standards. The intent is to remove redundant and nonregulatory provisions from the FIRMR that may be found in other agency issuances and to reorganize provisions, consistent with the FAR so that users may more readily locate standards provisions relevant to their particular need.

Legal Authority: 40 USC 476; 42 USC 2000d-1; 20 USC 1681

CFR Citation: 41 CFR 101-8.2

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The General Services Administration proposes this regulation to implement all of the above cited Federal laws. These statutes prohibit discrimination, in whole or in part, so that no person in the United States shall on the grounds of race, color, national origin, or sex be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subject to discrimination under any program activity receiving Federal assistance from the General Services Administration. In addition, the objectives of the regulation are to streamline certain administrative procedural requirements by consolidating prohibitions of discrimination into one regulation and to make requirements clear and convenient for applicants and recipients to comply with, as well as making the regulation manageable for GSA to administer.

3069. ● RESPONSIBILITY OF DISPOSAL AGENCY; DISPOSALS TO PUBLIC AGENCIES

Legal Authority: 40 USC 484

CFR Citation: 41 CFR 101-47.303-2

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: 41 CFR 101-47.303-2 generally requires that notice of Federal real property surplus determinations be given to non-Federal public agencies except when particular real property has an estimated fair market value of less than $1,000. A temporary regulation is to be issued to provide that no notice of surplus determination need be given when the affected property has an estimated fair market value of less than $15,000 unless the disposal agency has reason to believe that an eligible public agency may be interested in acquiring the property.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 40 USC 486(c); 40 USC 751(f)

CFR Citation: 41 CFR 201 to 33

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This regulation delegates to agencies authority and responsibility for interagency screening of excess and exchange/sale ADPE with an original acquisition cost (OAC) below $1,000,000. A recent analysis of the ADPE reported to GSA for interagency reuse during the last two years revealed that there is a minimum amount of savings to be realized for the reuse of ADPE with an OAC under $1,000,000. Additionally, these savings are further reduced when the costs of nationwide interagency screening are considered.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 40 USC 486(c); 40 USC 751(f)

CFR Citation: 41 CFR 201

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Rehabilitation Act of 1973, as amended (P.L. 99-506), directs GSA to adopt Governmentwide guidelines on electronic equipment accessibility. GSA will issue a informational FIRMR bulletin describing procedures agencies should follow in acquiring equipment for employees with disabilities and the types of equipment or strategies that can be used to make this technology more useable by disabled employees. This project will result in regulatory changes to the FIRMR to reflect special procedures managers must follow to ensure equipment accessibility for the disabled.

CFR Citation: 41 CFR 201-1; 41 CFR 201-2; 41 CFR 201-23; 41 CFR 201-24

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This regulation implements certain selected portions of the Paperwork Reduction Reauthorization Act of 1986. Among the other changes, it clarifies the applicability of the FIRMR to the management acquisition, and use of various information resources by Federal agencies. The amendment prescribes FIRMR policies and procedures for use in determining whether any particular procurement must be conducted under GSA's exclusive procurement authority. It also streamlines the Delegations Program by establishing uniform procedures, uniform blanket delegations of procurement authority, Agency Procurement Requests for all ADP and telecommunications resources.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 40 USC 486(c); 40 USC 751(f)

CFR Citation: 41 CFR 201-1; 41 CFR 201-41

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: FIRMR Interim Rule 1 is intended to implement the FTS 2000 network provisions contained in the Conference Report to Pub. L. 100-202, dated December 22, 1987. Specifically, the rule provides for mandatory use of the FTS 2000 system when switched voice service is available on that network. Written exceptions to the application of the rule are required beginning October 1, 1988, for procurement planning purposes. Previous regulatory exclusions prescribed in FIRMR 201-1.103(c) are voided. GSA will review and update existing exclusionary agreements with concerned agencies at their request

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 40 USC 486(c); 40 USC 751(f)

CFR Citation: 41 CFR 201-19

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This project revises the FIRMR by codifying and certifying certain provisions contained in FIRMR Temporary Regulation 10 regarding the Federal Information Resources Management Reviews Program (triennial reviews). Temporary Regulation 10 describes the policies and procedures for GSA - Federal agencies to follow in carrying out their information resources management review responsibilities under the Paperwork Reduction Act. It also established GSA as the primary agency for collecting, assessing, and reporting on information resources management review results to OMB. This amendment will codify those Governmentwide policies and mandatory procedures for triennial reviews in the FIRMR.

NATIONAL AERONAUTICS AND SPACE ADMINISTRATION

14 CFR Ch. V

Regulatory Agenda

AGENCY: National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

ACTION: Regulatory agenda.

SUMMARY: This regulatory agenda describes the proposed regulations being considered for development or amendment by NASA, the need and legal basis for the actions being considered, the name and telephone number of a knowledgeable official, whether a regulatory analysis is required, and the status of regulations previously reported.

ADDRESS: Director, General Management Division (Code NPN), Office of Management, NASA Headquarters, Washington, DC 20546.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Margaret M. Herring, 202/453-2922.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: OMB Bulletin No. 88-15, "Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations for October 1988," Executive Order 12291, "Federal Regulation," and NASA Management Instruction 1410.10E, "Federal Register: Delegation of Authority and Requirements for Publication of NASA Documents," require a regulatory agenda of proposed regulations under development and review be published in the Federal Register each April and October.

John F. Duggan,

Director, General Management Division.

Semiannual Regulatory Agenda

NATIONAL ARCHIVES AND RECORDS ADMINISTRATION (NARA)

NATIONAL ARCHIVES AND RECORDS ADMINISTRATION

36 CFR Ch. XII

Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations

AGENCY: National Archives and Records Administration.

ACTION: Semiannual agenda.

SUMMARY: This agenda announces the proposed regulatory actions that the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) plans for the next 12 months and those actions that have been completed since April 1988. This agenda was developed under the guidelines in OMB Bulletin No. 88-15, dated June 24, 1988. NARA's purpose in publishing this agenda is to allow interested persons an opportunity to have more comprehensive documentation of NARA's regulatory plans and to provide a systematic means of monitoring regulatory activity in NARA. None of the regulations listed in the agenda are considered major under Executive Order 12291, Federal Regulation.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: John A. Constance, Chief, Information Management and Directives Branch, (202) 523-3214.

Dated: August 26, 1988.

Claudine J. Weiher,

Acting Archivist of the United States.

Legal Authority: 44 USC 2104; 44 USC 2504

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 1207

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This action proposes a common rule updating and replacing agencies' implementation of OMB Circular A-110 with a single, government-wide common rule establishing consistency and uniformity among Federal agencies in the administration of grants and cooperative agreements to institutions of higher education, hospitals, other nonprofit organizations, and commercial or for-profit entities. This result is achieved by amending the common rule issued by the agencies on March 11, 1988, to similarly update and replace implementation of OMB Circular A-102. The provisions of the common rule are largely drawn from the existing departmental rules issued by the several agencies which in the past developed a single, comprehensive rule implementing the circulars. This proposed common rule contains fiscal and administrative requirements applicable to grantees.

Abstract: 44 USC 2206 requires that the Archivist promulgate regulations to carry out the Presidential Records Act. The law requires that the regulations provide for:

1. advance public notice of intention to dispose of valueless records;

2. notice to the former President of impending opening of otherwise restrictable records in response to judicial process, a request from the incumbent President, or request from Congress;

3. notice to the former President when disclosure of documents may adversely affect any rights or privileges he may have; and

4. establishment of procedures for consultation between the Archivist and appropriate Federal agencies regarding Presidential records which may be restricted as investigatory records compiled for law enforcement purposes.

3143. LOANS OF ORIGINAL RECORDS FOR EXHIBITION PURPOSES

Legal Authority: 44 USC 2104a; 44 USC 2109

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 1254

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: To make the permanently valuable records of the U.S. Government more widely available, NARA may lend for exhibition purposes, original records (in sufficiently good condition to withstand the rigors of exhibition) to qualified institutions that will provide care for the borrowed items in accordance with NARA's minimum loan requirements and any additional requirements that are deemed appropriate for particular records. NARA's loan requirements are necessary to ensure that the exhibition of records from its holdings does not conflict with its responsibility for the preservation of those records. This regulation will make NARA's minimum loan requirements for security, environmental conditions, lighting, handling, and advance notice more conveniently available to potential borrowers. Since loan requests are reviewed in accordance with established administrative procedures and are subject to existing requirements, no additional costs will be involved.

3144. ● TRANSFER OF RECORDS TO THE NATIONAL ARCHIVES

Legal Authority: 44 USC Chapter 21; 44 USC Chapter 29; 44 USC Chapter 31

CFR Citation: 36 CFR 1228.180

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Under 44 U.S.C. 2107, the Archivist of the United States may direct and effect the transfer to the National Archives of the United States of permanently valuable records of a Federal agency that are more than 30 years old, unless the head of the agency which has custody of them certifies in writing to the Archivist that they must be retained in the agency for use in the conduct of the agency's regular current business. The rule specifies what information must be contained in the written certification and provides criteria to assist agencies in making an informed determination whether their permanently valuable records over 30 years old are needed for current business in agency space. The rule also clarifies procedures for removing statutory and other restrictions from records transferred to the National Archives.

3154. PATENTS

Legal Authority: 42 USC 1870(a) The Natl. Sci. Found. Act of 1950, as amended; 35 USC 200 et seq The Bayh-Dole Act, as amended

CFR Citation: 45 CFR 650

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Bayh-Dole Act (34 USC 200 et seq) was amended by Title V of PL 98-620 (98 Stat. 3364, 3368). The Department of Commerce has prepared a government-wide implementing regulation. The Foundation's Patents regulation (45 CFR 650) conforms to it.

NSF — Final Rule Stage

Because the revision to the NSF patents regulation will merely echo a government-wide regulation on which the public will have had an opportunity to comment, the Foundation expects that the revision will be published as a final rule. No additional costs will be imposed on the public as a result of the revision.

Government Levels Affected: None

Additional Information: The notable changes to be made in the revision of the NSF patents regulation will be: elimination of restrictions on the licensing of NSF-supported inventions by nonprofit organizations, including universities; modification of the criteria and procedures for determining that "exceptional circumstances" warrant restricting a grantee's right to retain principal patent rights to its employees' NSF-supported inventions; and elimination of the Foundation's authority to waive the government license and "march-in" rights in awards not subject to the Bayh-Dole Act. All these changes are required by amendments to the Bayh-Dole Act.

Semiannual Regulatory Agenda

OFFICE OF MANAGEMENT AND BUDGET (OMB)

OFFICE OF MANAGEMENT AND BUDGET

5 CFR Ch. III

Federal Regulations; OMB Directives Included in the Semiannual Agenda of Upcoming Activities AGENCY: Office of Management and Budget.

ACTION: Publication of semiannual agenda.

SUMMARY: The Office of Management and Budget (OMB) is publishing its semiannual agenda of upcoming activities on OMB Circulars and Office of Federal Procurement Policy Letters (OFPP Policy Letters). This action is in accordance with OMB's internal procedures for implementing Executive Order No. 12291. OMB directives are issued under authority derived from several sources including: Subtitles I, II, and V of Title 31, United States Code, Executive Order No. 11541, and other specific authority as cited. The agenda includes actions on issuances which are not regulations, but which are of public interest.

OMB Circulars and OFPP Policy Letters are directives that communicate significant government-wide policy of a continuing nature. For purposes of this agenda, we have included Circulars and Policy Letters which are designed to implement, interpret, or prescribe law or policy, or describe the procedure or practice requirements of an agency. Excluded are directives that outline procedures to be followed in connection with the President's budget and legislative programs, and directives that affect only the internal functions, management, or personnel of Federal agencies.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: See agency person listed for each entry in the agenda, c/o Office of Management and Budget, Washington, DC 20503. On the overall agenda, contact Darrell A. Johnson (202/395-7250) at the above address.

Darrell A. Johnson,

Assistant Director for Administration.

CFR Citation: 5 CFR 293; 5 CFR 430

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Revises requirements for the Performance Management Systems for General Schedule, Prevailing Rate, and SES employees. Regulations will be streamlined to eliminate impediments to management flexibility while still assuring pay-for-performance systems. The section on filing and transfer of performance records contains a technical change that would bring the OPF subpart into conformance with the EPF subpart, indicating that performance ratings of record, and the performance plans on which they are based, may be filed in either the OPF or the EPF.

3184. ● PAY UNDER THE GENERAL SCHEDULE

Legal Authority: 5 USC 5334(a); 5 USC 5338

CFR Citation: 5 CFR 531

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Under current regulations, Federal agencies must request prior OPM approval to use a special rate as an employee's "highest previous rate" upon reassignment to another position. The proposed regulations would revise the "highest previous rate" provisions of the regulations to remove this requirement and to clarify an agency's authority to establish an employee's rate of basic pay upon promotion, demotion, reassignment, transfer, reemployment, or change in type of appointment.

Abstract: Clarification of the policy and appeal procedures used in developing and implementing employment practices in the recruitment, measurement and selection of individuals for appointments and promotion within the competitive service. The proposed amendments would remove a non-statutory appeal procedure which was created to provide a simple, streamlined administrative review procedure but which has, instead, become a time-consuming, convoluted process. Additionally, the proposed changes would avoid a duplicative enforcement procedure currently subject to review by OPM and MSPB, which is, more properly, within the sole jurisdiction of the EEOC.

Semiannual Regulatory Agenda

PANAMA CANAL COMMISSION (PANAMA)

PANAMA CANAL COMMISSION

35 CFR Ch. I

Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations

AGENCY: Panama Canal Commission.

ACTION: Publication of semiannual agenda of regulations.

SUMMARY: The purpose of this agenda is to report the proposed rulemaking activities of the Panama Canal Commission. This information will allow the public to participate in the rulemaking process.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: For information about a particular regulatory project, contact the person listed in the subheading "Agency Contact" for that project. For general information, contact Michael Rhode, Jr., Assistant to the Chairman and Secretary, Panama Canal Commission, 2000 L Street, NW., Suite 550, Washington, DC 20036-4996, (202) 634-6441 TDD; or John L. Haines, Jr., Esquire, General Counsel, Panama Canal Commission, APO Miami 34011-5000.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Executive Order 12291, Federal Regulation, and the Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 601, et seq. require that executive agencies publish in the Federal Register a semiannual notice of regulations which are under development or review or for which action has been completed. The Panama Canal Commission agenda contains certain regulations which are limited in public impact, but they are included to increase public awareness of Commission activities and to allow for increased public participation in the agency's regulatory review and development process. This agenda was prepared under the guidelines established by OMB Bulletin No. 88-15.

Dated: August 26, 1988.

Michael Rhode, Jr.,

Assistant to the Chairman and Secretary, Panama Canal Commission.

PANAMA CANAL COMMISSION (PANAMA) — Prerule Stage

3266. TOLLS FOR USE OF CANAL

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: PL 96-70, Sec 1601

CFR Citation: 35 CFR 133, (Revision)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Due to operating cost increases, including inflation, since the last toll rate increase (March 1983), the Panama Canal Commission is currently considering increasing the rates of tolls charged vessels transiting the Canal. An approximate 9% increase may be proposed effective in FY 1990 to achieve the Commission's regulatory requirement to recover from users all costs of operating and maintaining the waterway.

CFR Citation: 35 CFR 133.32; 35 CFR 133.34; 35 CFR 135.285(a); 35 CFR 135.352

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed changes correct authority to issue Panama Canal Tonnage Certificate (no financial impact); eliminate the "125 percent of engine room as measured" limitation for ballast rate (negligible negative impact on canal revenues); increase size limitation on manholes to water ballast spaces from 30 to 34 inch diameter, to align our rules with I.M.O's (small negative impact on canal revenues); allow deductible items located in the engine room to be deducted as part of engine room rather than separately, to streamline the method by which propulsion power deduction is determined (negligible impact on canal revenues).

These changes will not impact on most vessels already measured for Panama Canal tonnages. Vessels that qualify for increased deductions may choose to be remeasured.

PEACE CORPS (PEACE)

PEACE CORPS

22 CFR Ch. III

Executive Order 12291, Federal Regulations, Semiannual Agenda of Regulations

AGENCY: Peace Corps.

ACTION: Publication of semiannual agenda.

SUMMARY: This agenda announces the regulations the Peace Corps will have under development during the 12-month period from October 1, 1988 through September 30, 1989. The purpose for publishing this agenda is to give notice of any regulatory activity by the Agency in order to allow the public an opportunity to participate in the rulemaking process.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: The public is encouraged to contact the Agency official listed for the particular agenda item. For other information concerning Peace Corps' regulations or this semiannual agenda, contact Robert Martin, Associate General Counsel, Peace Corps, 806 Connecticut Avenue, NW., Washington, DC 20526, (202) 254-3114.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: In accordance with Executive Order 12291, Federal Regulations, and the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 605) executive agencies are required to publish in the Federal Register semiannual regulatory agendas in April and October of each year.

The regulations being considered by Peace Corps are not "major" rules within the meaning of E.O. 12291 and no Regulatory Impact Analysis is required. Peace Corps has determined that the regulations under consideration will not impose compliance costs or reporting burdens on the public; and that the regulations will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. Accordingly, no Regulatory Analysis is required under 5 U.S.C. 602.

Agenda of Regulations Under Development

AGENCY: Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation.

ACTION: Agenda of regulations.

SUMMARY: This document sets forth the Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation's regulatory agenda issued under Executive Order 12291 and the Regulatory Flexibility Act. The agenda lists regulations that are currently under development or that PBGC expects to have under development during the next twelve months. The effect of this agenda is to advise the public of PBGC's current and future regulatory activities.

ADDRESS: Office of the General Counsel, Code 22500, Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation, 2020 K Street, NW., Washington, DC 20006.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: For further information on the agenda in general, contact J. Ronald Goldstein, Attorney, Office of the General Counsel, 202-778-8850. For information about a specific regulation project listed on the agenda, contact the person designated in the agenda for that regulation.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Under the President's Order on Federal Regulation, Executive Order 12291, 46 FR 13193, each agency is required to publish in April and October an agenda of regulations currently or soon to be under development. The Executive Order requires that the agenda also include those currently effective regulations that are being reviewed by the agency pursuant to the Executive Order. The Regulatory Flexibility Act, Pub. L. 98-354, 5 U.S.C. 601, has a similar agenda requirement. Under that law, the agenda must list any regulation that is likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.

The Office of Management and Budget has issued guidelines (OMB Bulletin No. 88-15) prescribing the form and content of the regulatory agenda. Under those guidelines, the agenda must list all regulatory activities being conducted or reviewed in the next twelve months and provide certain specified information on each regulation. All of the items on this agenda are current or projected rulemakings.

Executive Director, Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation.

Legal Authority: 29 USC 1302(b)(3); 29 USC 1412; 29 USC 1414

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 2678

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Sections 4232 and 4234 of ERISA prescribe rules governing the transfer of liabilities and assets from a multiemployer plan to a single-employer plan and prohibit certain transfers unless approved by PBGC. The regulation will establish procedures for requesting and criteria for PBGC approval of transfers which require approval and guidelines for satisfying the statutory requirements pertaining to other transfers. The regulation will also establish standards for the PBGC's waiver of a multiemployer plan's contingent liability arising from the transfer of unfunded vested benefits to a single-employer plan.

Additional Information: Publication of this proposed regulation was delayed because of the need to revise the portions dealing with waiver of a multiemployer plan's contingent liability to reflect certain changes in related statutory provisions made by the Single-Employer Pension Plan Amendments Act of 1986. Work on this rule was subsequently deferred because the enactment of SEPPAA and the 1987 Pension Protection Act amendments required that staff be reassigned to work on higher priority regulations necessitated by those laws.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 29 USC 1302(b)(3); 29 USC 1387(b)

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 2647 (Amendment)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Under section 4207(a) of ERISA, the PBGC has issued a regulation (29 CFR Part 2647) providing for the reduction or waiver of an employer's liability for complete withdrawal upon the employer's resumption of participation under the plan from which it withdrew. The statute also requires the PBGC to prescribe procedures and standards under which multiemployer plans may adopt their own rules abating complete withdrawal liability upon an employer's return to the plan (section 4207(b)).

The purpose of letting plans adopt their own abatement rules is obvious: a specific rule adopted by a plan may well work better under the facts and circumstances of that particular plan than the broad rules adopted by the PBGC. This regulation will permit a plan to fashion the rules it needs to encourage the return of withdrawn employers, while at the same time protecting the plan from the loss of withdrawal liability payments without a compensating resumption of contributions to the plan by a formerly withdrawn employer. Legal Authority: 29 USC 1302(b)(3); 29 USC 1341(c)

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 2642

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: In a notice published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on December 31, 1986 (51 FR 47342), the PBGC issued its interpretation that ERISA section 4211 does not permit the assessment of withdrawal liability against an employer by a multiemployer plan that had no unfunded vested benefits as of the end of the plan year preceding the employer's withdrawal. This interpretation raises certain questions as to the proper manner of applying the allocation methods prescribed in section 4211(b) and (c)(2) by a plan that at one time was fully funded, but is no longer. The PBGC plans to issue a proposed amendment to its regulation on allocating unfunded vested benefits dealing with this issue.

Legal Authority: 29 USC 1302(b)(3); 29 USC 1322; 29 USC 1342

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 2624

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: When the PBGC assumes trusteeship of a terminated pension plan pursuant to sections 4041 and 4042 of ERISA, it pays benefits to participants pursuant to plan provisions and section 4022 of ERISA. This regulation will contain rules and policies relating to the payment of such benefits. The regulation will enable the PBGC to process and administer PBGC-trusteed plans more efficiently with resultant cost savings. It also will reduce costs to the public and the PBGC by providing payment rules, thereby reducing the number of requests for administrative review.

Abstract: The PBGC's employer liability regulation incorporates by reference the interest rate charged under section 6601 of the Internal Revenue Code as the interest rate charged, or credited, on late payments, or overpayments, of employer liability. The Tax Reform Act of 1986 significantly changed the way in which the section 6601 rate is established and creates two interest rates: one for underpayments and another, lower rate for overpayments. Because of these changes, the PBGC plans to conduct a new rulemaking proceeding to determine whether it should continue to use the section 6601 interest rates under the employer liability regulation or whether it should adopt a new rate(s) for this purpose.

Abstract: The Pension Protection Act substantially altered the rules pertaining to single-employer plan premiums that are paid to the PBGC. Under the Act, there is a flat per capita charge (increased from that under prior law) plus a new variable rate charge tied to the value of a plan's unfunded vested benefits. The new premium rules are effective for plan years beginning after December 31, 1987.

On June 30, 1988, the PBGC issued an interim regulation implementing these rules. Because of the need to issue the regulation quickly to provide guidance for 1988 premium payments, the PBGC did not solicit public comment before issuing the regulation. For the same reason, the interim regulation did not address certain relevant, but secondary, issues pertaining to the new rules. Therefore, on October 5, 1988, the PBGC issued a notice of proposed rulemaking in order to permit public comment on the interim regulation. The NPRM also addressed problems or questions raised by the public in response to the interim regulation. The PBGC hopes to issue the final regulation early in 1989 so that it will govern the 1989 (and subsequent) (cont)

3286. ● PAYMENTS BY PBGC OF UNFUNDED NONGUARANTEED BENEFITS

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: PL 100-203, Sec 9312(b)(3)

CFR Citation: 29 CFR Not yet determined

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract:

The Pension Protection Act repealed ERISA section 4049 and 4062(c). Those provisions established new employer liability to plan participants and beneficiaries in the event of a distress termination or involuntary termination by the PBGC of a plan without sufficient assets to pay all benefit commitments; the section 4049 trust was the vehicle for collecting and distributing these liability amounts. This system proved flawed in several respects, however, and Congress therefore created a new scheme by which to channel employer liability recoveries to plan participants and beneficiaries, amended ERISA section 4022(c).

Under section 4022(c), participants no longer have a direct claim for employer liability. Instead, the PBGC's claim covers both its shortfall (unfunded guaranteed benefits) and participants' losses (unfunded benefit liabilities in excess of guaranteed benefits). In turn, the PBGC is to pay a portion of its employer liability recovery to participants and beneficiaries. The amount to be paid is based on the PBGC "recovery ratio" (as defined in amended sec. 4022(c)(3)).(cont)

Additional Information:

This new statutory rule contains several ambiguities and also leaves to the PBGC the development of specific rules and procedures necessary to make this system work. The regulation will, for example, contain rules on how the PBGC will value its employer liability recoveries for purposes of computing the recovery ratio, whether the allocation of amounts payable under this provision will be done as part of the regular section 4044 asset allocation, and whether the PBGC will pay these benefits by increasing the amount of annuity payments it is making to participants or making lump sum payments.

3287. RETIREMENT EQUITY ACT AMENDMENTS - VALUATION OF PLAN BENEFITS

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 29 USC 1302(b)(3); 29 USC 1341

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 2619

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Retirement Equity Act of 1984 ("REA") requires plans to provide certain benefits, prohibits the elimination of benefit options and certain early retirement benefits and retirement- type subsidies, and mandates the range of interest rates that may be used in calculating the amount of a non-consensual lump sum benefit. The Tax Reform Act of 1986 ("TRA '86") slightly modified the interest rate restrictions and extended them to the calculation of all lump sum benefits.

These rules necessitate several amendments to the PBGC's valuation of benefits regulation (29 CFR Part 2619). The major changes will address the rules on determining the form of benefit to be valued on plan termination and the interest rate rules for lump sum payments in standard terminations.

Because the valuation of benefits is an essential part of the plan termination process, the PBGC plans to issue these amendments both as a notice of proposed rulemaking and as an interim final rule at or about the same time it issues the final distress termination and standard termination regulations. Abstract: Section 4041A of ERISA provides rules with respect to the termination of multiemployer plans and the payment of benefits under those plans. Under section 4041A(f)(2), PBGC is authorized to prescribe rules for the administration of those plans that are appropriate to protect the interests of plan participants and beneficiaries or to prevent unreasonable loss to the insurance system. Under section 4281(b), the plan sponsor of a plan that has terminated by mass withdrawal is required annually to determine the value of the plan's nonforfeitable benefits and assets. If the value of the benefits exceeds the value of the assets, the sponsor must amend the plan to eliminate benefits not eligible for PBGC's guarantee under section 4022A(b), to the extent necessary to insure that the plan assets are sufficient to pay all nonforfeitable benefits. This determination of sufficiency is to be made in accordance with rules prescribed by PBGC. This regulation would establish the rules for administering plans that have terminated by mass withdrawal, including the rules for determining sufficiency in the circumstances described above. Abstract: Section 4208 of ERISA provides for the reduction or elimination under certain circumstances of an employer's partial withdrawal liability arising from a 70 percent reduction in contribution base units. That section also authorizes the PBGC to prescribe rules for the reduction or elimination of partial withdrawal liability under other conditions. The regulation will provide for the abatement of partial withdrawal liability arising from the cessation of the obligation to contribute under a collective bargaining agreement or with respect to a facility. Section 4208 also requires the PBGC to issue a regulation under which a multiemployer plan may adopt rules for the reduction or elimination of partial withdrawal liability. This regulation will allow plans to ease the statutory partial withdrawal liability rules where, for example, the rules are harmful to the plan because they discourage an employer from increasing its participation under the plan, or where the statutory rules create administrative burdens which outweigh the protections afforded by the rules.

Abstract: Under section 4206(b) of ERISA, if an employer partially or completely withdraws from a multiemployer plan subsequent to an earlier partial withdrawal from that plan, the employer's liability for the second withdrawal must be reduced by the amount of its liability for the earlier partial withdrawal. The purpose of this credit is to avoid plans double-charging employers for the same unfunded liabilities. Section 4206(b) also requires the PBGC to prescribe regulations adjusting this credit to ensure that the employer's liability for its second withdrawal properly reflects the employer's share of liability with respect to the plan.

The need for this adjustment to the credit can be seen from the following example. In a plan that uses the rolling-5 allocation method, an employer's withdrawal liability is based on its last five years' participation in the plan. If an employer's second withdrawal occurs more than five years after its partial withdrawal, the liability for the second withdrawal is based solely on plan participation subsequent to the partial (cont) liabilities and no reason to give the employer a credit against its liability for the second withdrawal. However, without this regulation, the employer would get that credit under the statute. There are many other possible situations in which the employer's credit should similarly be reduced in order to ensure equitable treatment of the withdrawing employer vis-a-vis the other employers still contributing to the plan.

This regulation will result in some shifting of liabilities among employers contributing to a multiemployer plan. An employer that has another withdrawal following a partial withdrawal may incur greater liability for the second withdrawal because of the reduction in the credit for the prior partial withdrawal. However, this increase in liability would reduce the unfunded vested benefits allocable to other employers that withdraw thereafter. In the aggregate, the regulation will impose no new costs.

3291. DETERMINATION OF WITHDRAWAL LIABILITY FOLLOWING A MERGER

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 29 USC 1302(b)(3); 29 USC 1391(f)

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 2642 (Amendment)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The merger of two multiemployer plans creates a problem as to how the successor plan's unfunded vested benefits are to be allocated in order to determine withdrawal liability for post-merger withdrawals. Frequently, the two plans will have been using different allocation methods prior to the merger. Even if they were using the same method, if they had different plan years, that would create different allocations.

For this reason, section 4211(f) of ERISA requires the PBGC to issue regulations prescribing rules for the post-merger allocation of unfunded vested benefits. The PBGC proposes to establish rules that parallel the statutory allocation methods: i.e., there would be a presumptive allocation method that would apply to plans unless they chose otherwise, and plans would be permitted to adopt certain modifications to this presumptive method without the PBGC's approval and other more significant modifications with the PBGC's approval. Additional Information: ABSTRACT CONT: This regulation will remove a significant impediment to multiemployer plan mergers by eliminating employers' concern and confusion over how their withdrawal liability would be calculated after a merger. Plan mergers are generally to be encouraged since a larger plan is typically a stronger plan because of its broader contribution base, and because portability of benefits is increased. This regulation will impose no new costs.

Abstract: The Single-Employer Pension Plan Amendments Act of 1986 substantially revised ERISA section 4041 dealing with the voluntary termination of single-employer pension plans. Under amended section 4041, a plan may voluntarily terminate only if the termination satisfies the statutory conditions for a standard or distress termination. These rules were further modified by the 1987 Pension Protection Act, which increased the benefits that must be provided, or for which the employer maintaining the plan is liable, upon plan termination. Thus, under current law, unless a plan has sufficient assets to satisfy all plan benefit liabilities, it may voluntarily terminate only in a "distress" termination; i.e., a termination in which the plan sponsor and all members of its controlled group are able to demonstrate either such financial hardship or unduly burdensome pension costs that, as a practical matter, they are unable to continue to maintain the plan. The statutory rules and procedures for distress terminations are substantially different from the prior rules and procedures for terminating insufficient plans. Therefore, it is necessary to revise the PBGC's plan termination regulations to reflect these new rules and procedures. This regulation covering distress terminations and a companion rule covering standard terminations (to be codified in Part 2617) will replace the PBGC's principal termination regulations on notices of intent to terminate and termination of sufficient plans (existing Parts 2616 and 2617).

Although the notice of proposed rulemaking for this regulation was issued prior to enactment of the Pension Protection Act, the final rule will reflect the relevant statutory changes from that Act.

Abstract: Under ERISA Section 4041, as amended by the Single-Employer Pension Plan Amendments Act of 1986 and the Pension Protection Act, absent a showing of financial hardship or unduly burdensome pension costs that would satisfy the requirements for a distress termination, a single-employer plan may be voluntarily terminated only if it is sufficient for all benefit liabilities (i.e., all benefits provided under the plan on the termination date, whether or not vested). This is referred to as a "standard" termination. SEPPAA also modified many of the termination rules and procedures that applied under prior law, both to increase the protections afforded plan participants and beneficiaries and to simplify and expedite the PBGC's processing of these sufficient plan terminations. It is, therefore, necessary to promulgate this new regulation implementing the new rules and procedures for standard terminations. This regulation and its companion regulation covering distress terminations (to be codified in Part 2616) will replace the PBGC's principal termination regulations on notices of intent to terminate and termination of sufficient plans (existing Parts 2616 and 2617) (CONT)

Abstract: The Single-Employer Pension Plan Amendments Act of 1986 ("SEPPAA") and the Pension Protection Act ("PPA") made several changes in Title IV rules and procedures that affect and, in some cases, override portions of several PBGC regulations. For this reason, these regulations - administrative review of agency decisions, benefit reductions in terminated plans, reportable events and employer liability - must be amended to conform them to the current law. For example, because SEPPAA altered the determinations that the PBGC may make with respect to voluntary plan terminations, the list in 29 CFR 2606.1(b) of determinations subject to agency review must be amended.

Similarly, SEPPAA contained, for distress terminations, specific benefit cutback rules. These rules differ somewhat from those set forth in 29 CFR Part 2623 and, therefore, conforming amendments to Part 2623 are required. SEPPAA and the PPA significantly changed the rules on employer liability to the PBGC in distress and involuntary terminations. Now, an employer is liable to the PBGC for the total plan underfunding, (CONT)

Further, the 30 percent of net worth limitation is now relevant only in determining the amount subject to PBGC's statutory lien and the status of PBGC's claim in bankruptcy. Small Business Administration

Semiannual Regulatory Agenda

SMALL BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION (SBA)

SMALL BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

13 CFR Ch. I

Improving Government Regulations; Semiannual Agenda

AGENCY: Small Business Administration.

ACTION: Publication of the semiannual agenda of regulations under review or development by the Small Business Administration.

SUMMARY: This is SBA's 19th semiannual agenda of regulations. Although not a regulatory agency, SBA has attempted to draft agendas that meet both the criteria and the spirit of the regulatory review process. This agenda is published pursuant to Executive Order 12291 and the Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 601 et seq., Pub. L. 96-354, effective January 1, 198.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: For further information on agenda items, the public is encouraged to contact the individual Agency official listed for the particular item.

For information concerning SBA overall Regulatory Review and Development Program or for general semiannual agenda questions, contact Martin D. Teckler, Deputy General Counsel, Small Business Administration, 1441 L Street, NW., Washington, DC 20416, 202/653-6644.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The SBA agenda will contain many regulations which are limited in public impact. They are included to increase public knowledge of all SBA regulatory activities and allow for increased public participation in the review and development process.

Public comments on SBA's previous agendas have been general, and all have been positive. None were directed at specific contents, nor were any changes suggested or recommended.

The agenda format has four parts. Part I, Pre-Rulemakings, includes investigations and reviews to be conducted prior to deciding whether or not to propose a rule or rule change. Part II, Proposed Rules, includes rules which will be proposed during the six-month period covered by the agenda. Part III, Final Rules, includes proposed rules which will be finalized during the period covered by the agenda. Part IV, Completed Actions, includes regulations completed or withdrawn, and reviews completed since the preceding agenda.

Publication of this agenda does not impose any binding obligation on SBA with regard to any specific item in the agenda. Additional regulatory action not listed in the agenda is not precluded.

Dated: August 26, 1988.

James Abdnor,

Administrator.

3366. DEFINITION OF SMALL BUSINESS FOR DREDGING

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 15 USC 632(a); 15 USC 634(b)(6)

CFR Citation: 13 CFR 121

Legal Deadline: Other, Judicial, November 3, 1986.
This change is in response to an order from the District Court for the District of Columbia which set aside the current dredging size standard ($13.5 million) but left in place the previous size

Abstract: To clarify for the public and others who use SBA size standards that as of November 3, 1986, the applicable size standard for the dredging industry will be $9.5 million average annual receipts. To raise size standard to $13.5 million for all future dredging contracts.

3374. PROTECTION OF ARCHAEOLOGICAL RESOURCES

Legal Authority: 16 USC 470aa to 470ll

CFR Citation: 18 CFR 1312

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The planned regulations will implement provisions of the Archaeological Resources Protection Act of 1979 by providing protection of archaeological resources on public lands in TVA custody and control. TVA will seek to protect such resources through permits authorizing excavation or removal of resources, through civil penalties for unauthorized excavation or removal, through preservation of archaeological resource collections and data, and through assuring confidentiality of information about resources when disclosure would threaten the resources. The planned regulations will supplement existing uniform regulations by assigning specific responsibilities within TVA.

VETERANS ADMINISTRATION

Agenda of Federal Regulations

AGENCY: Veterans Administration.

ACTION: Publication of agenda of regulations.

SUMMARY: This agenda announces the regulations that the Veterans Administration will have under review, development, or revision during the 12-month period from October 1988 to October 1989. The purpose in publishing this Agency's regulatory development activities is to allow all interested persons the opportunity to participate in the rulemaking process.

ADDRESSES: Interested persons are invited to comment on the regulations listed in the agenda by contacting the individual agency contact listed for each regulation, or by writing to: Paperwork Management and Regulations Service (731), Veterans Administration, 810 Vermont Avenue, NW., Washington, DC 20420.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: 38 CFR: M'Liz McLendon, (202) 233-3770; 48 CFR, Chapter 8: Sunny Huff, (202) 233-4240.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Executive Order 12291, Federal Regulation, and the Regulatory Flexibility Act (Pub. L. 96-354) require that executive agencies publish in the Federal Register in April and October of each year an agenda of regulations under development and review.

The Veterans Administration has no regulations considered major under the terms of Executive Order 12291; however, all of this Agency's proposed rules and current rules under review, except those considered to be internal agency policy management or routine regulations, have been listed in accordance with section 5(a) of the Executive Order.

This agenda incorporates those categories of information required pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 602(a) and 610(c) of the Regulatory Flexibility Act.

This agenda has been prepared in accordance with OMB Bulletin 88-15.

Dated: August 22, 1988.
By direction of the Administrator.

Linda M. Combs,

Acting Associate Deputy Administrator for Management.

3377. DISPOSITION OF VETERAN'S PERSONAL FUNDS AND EFFECTS ON FACILITY UPON DEATH, OR DISCHARGE, OR UNAUTHORIZED ABSENCE, AND OF FUNDS AND EFFECTS FOUND ON FACILITY

Legal Authority: 38 USC 210(c)

CFR Citation: 38 CFR 12.0 to 12.24

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Section 208 of Public Law 94-581 provides that unclaimed property or funds and effects left by a dependent or survivor of a veteran receiving medical care at a VA facility as a CHAMPVA beneficiary will be disposed of in the same or similar manner as such property left by a veteran. Also, estates of dependents or survivors of a veteran who dies intestate and without legal heirs while a patient in any VA facility or any hospital, while being furnished care or treatment therein by the VA will escheat to the U.S. Government. Some of these regulations have not been updated since 1948, therefore, editorial changes will be made which will not affect policy.

3378. CONFIDENTIAL QUALITY ASSURANCE PROGRAM RECORDS AND DOCUMENTS

Legal Authority: 38 USC 3305; 38 USC 4151; 38 USC 4152

CFR Citation: 38 CFR 17.500 to 17.540

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Final regulations implementing 38 USC 3305 were made effective Oct. 22, 1982. Those regulations govern the VA's QA (quality assurance) program activities and records and documents which are made confidential and privileged. Sec. 3305 prohibits the VA from designating any QA program activity, for the purpose of confidentiality, unless such activity has been specified in regulation. Pub. L. 99-166 amends 38 USC 4151 and 4152 to require that QA program activities include and evaluation of the quality of surgical care in DM&S, as evidenced by outcome measures of mortality and morbidity; a report to Congress indicating deficiencies in the quality of care is required. 38 USC 3305 was amended to clarify that aggregate statistical data is not to be made confidential provided individuals are not identified. The existing regulations do not include a description of the VA Medical District Initiated Peer Review Organization (MEDIPRO) program which is an integral element of the quality assurance program. No alternatives are being considered. There are no potential costs to the action. The benefits would be in the form of programmatic improvements.

3379. VETERANS ADMINISTRATION HEALTH PROFESSIONAL SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 38 USC 4301 to 4336

CFR Citation: 38 CFR 17.600

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Current regulations set forth requirements for awarding scholarships to students receiving academic training in the disciplines of medicine, osteopathy, and nursing, and if needed by the VA, students in other specified health care disciplines. Regulations are being amended to include requirements for awarding scholarships to students in disciplines currently specified as well as to students in other health care disciplines. Proposed regulations also revise selection of participants to indicate priority for individuals entering final year of training, and revise length of service obligation for full-time student participants to be one year for each year or part of a year individual was provided an award.

Legal Authority: 38 USC 5031 to 5037; PL 100-322

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Pub. L. 100-322 changed the date of the priority list for applications from July 1 to August 15. The deadline for applications is August 1. Also, the Administrator of Veterans Affairs is provided authority to conditionally award construction grants. If a state does not complete requirements within 90 days after conditional approval, funds will be deobligated. These proposed regulations will implement that change. Construction standards in 38 CFR 17.177 are being totally reformatted, revised and updated. The veteran population in 38 CFR 17.171 Appendix A is being updated to reflect the current information. Additionally, provisions are being established to handle large grant requests where one project may exceed the annual appropriation. Requests for projects exceeding one-half the annual appropriation will receive lower priority on the list and may be partially funded if funds are available and the project ranks high enough on the priority list for Federal funds.

Legal Authority: 38 USC 111; 38 USC 1506

CFR Citation: 38 CFR 21.100; 38 CFR 21.376

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: An initial evaluation is provided each veteran requesting assistance under the vocational rehabilitation program. The purpose of the initial evaluation is to determine eligibility and entitlement to vocational rehabilitation and plan a program of vocational rehabilitation for eligible veterans. The initial evaluation is provided by VA counseling psychologists in the United States. Since interpersonal discussion is the essence of counseling, providing an initial evaluation to a veteran residing overseas by a VA counselor located in this country poses logistical and other problems. We are proposing that current regulations be amended to allow for greater flexibility in providing initial evaluations to veterans not residing in a state, including those veterans residing overseas. The alternatives to the present system include, but are not limited to contracting with qualified counseling staff located in the area in which the veteran resides, to conduct a part of the evaluation. All decisions as to eligibility for services would continue to be made by VA staff.

Legal Authority: 38 USC 210(c)

CFR Citation: 38 CFR 3.1

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The definition of fraud, except for forfeiture purposes, is being placed in the general definitions section and includes acts of omission as well as acts of commission. This action will allow a finding of fraud in certain cases where a beneficiary receives or retains benefits based on a knowing failure to provide necessary information. This is a new proposal based on comments the agency received on its original proposal under RIN 2900-AC01.

Abstract: Under current provisions, use of the Vocational Rehabilitation Panel is required in certain instances. The role of the Panel is to assist in helping seriously disabled veterans successfully pursue a rehabilitation program. The requirement for consultation was a sound policy when the vocational rehabilitation program was substantially revised and broadened in 1980. As staff have gained experience with the new policies which resulted from the revision of the rehabilitation program in 1980, the need for consultation in every case has decreased. Current field experience indicates that placing use of the Panel on a discretionary basis is in the interest of the veteran and the government.

Abstract: VA regulations allow the veteran obtaining a VA guaranteed loan to pay the lender making the loan a one percent origination fee (one percent) to cover the processing of the loan. Any other discount points required by the lender are to be paid by someone other than the veteran except in those cases where it is specifically allowed, such as refinancing loans. This regulation would clarify the instances in which a veteran may or may not pay discount points. Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Regulations will be amended to implement the new requirements for payment of claims. Under the new formulas, VA will exclude from the guaranty claim payment the interest which accrues during periods of forbearance granted at VA's request, and when the veteran files for bankruptcy. As a result, we expect that a number of cases which would result in the lender being required to dispose of the property will instead result in VA acquiring the property and paying a smaller claim. The adjustment in a VA-requested forbearance or bankruptcy situation will only be made if doing so will result in VA offering to acquire the property when the property would otherwise not be acquired by the VA. In cases where VA is at fault for the delay in foreclosure, for example, a failure to provide bidding instructions in a timely manner, VA will also exclude from the calculation as to whether or not VA will acquire the property interest which accrues during the period of delay, but will allow such interest in the computation of the guaranty claim.

Legal Authority: 38 USC 1621; 38 USC 1631

Abstract: The law requires that generally, an individual must contribute to the Post-Vietnam Education Assistance Program (VEAP) fund for 12 months in order to receive educational assistance. So as to encourage participation by servicemembers, the VA has permitted a servicemember who meets all the other eligibility requirements to receive educational assistance after he or she has completed 3 months of contributions to the fund or has made a lump-sum payment which is the equivalent of the least 3 months' contributions to the fund. In order to comply with the law it has been the VA's policy to require these servicemembers to establish a continuing allotment so that they eventually will contribute to the fund for 12 months. However, the regulation which mentions the 3 months' contributions does not mention the 12 months' participation requirement. This has led to instances where servicemembers who have been paid educational assistance, never participated for 12 months. The VA wishes to amend the regulation to correct this.

Legal Authority: 38 USC 706

Abstract: Veterans Special Life Insurance (VSLI) "RS" term policies can be renewed an indefinite number of times. Because of this feature, some insureds have retained this temporary form of protection to meet permanent insurance needs. The problem with this is that at the advanced ages, term insurance premium rates increase significantly and as a result can become financially burdensome. In order to help lessen this burden, regulations are being amended to reflect that premiums for "RS" term policyholders are to be capped at the renewal age 70 premium rate. Funding for "RS" term capping will come exclusively from funds contributed by "RS" term policyholders.

Abstract: The VA currently pay annuities to approximately 150,000 individuals under all of its insurance programs. Of these, almost 1,500 are calculated using male/female differentiated mortality tables. Gender-differentiated mortality tables provide for lower monthly payments to female annuitants. Abstract: To establish standards and procedures for enforcing Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 in educational programs and activities receiving Federal financial assistance from the VA. Title IX prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex. There are no alternatives to the issuance of the regulations. Participants, potential participants and the public in general will benefit from Federally assisted programs provided free from prohibited discrimination based on sex.

This originally appeared as a proposed rule in the Federal Register of April 25, 1979 (44 FR 24320). Because of the extended time frame due to internal agency consultation with the Department of Justice, the VA is planning to repropose these regulations.

Abstract: To incorporate a reference to the Uniform Federal Accessibility Standards (UFAS) and update the list of Federal financial assistance programs administered by the VA. The existing regulations require that new construction and alteration of facilities be made in an accessible manner. The regulations provide that new construction or alteration of facilities in conformance with the American National Standard Specifications for Making Building and Facilities Accessible to, and Usable by, the Physically Handicapped (ANSI A117.1-1961 (B 1971)) shall constitute compliance with the accessibility requirements for new construction and alteration of facilities. The proposed revision will replace the current standard with the UFAS, published under the Architectural Barriers Act of 1968. Because some facilities subject to the accessibility requirements of section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 are also subject to the accessibility requirements of the Architectural Barriers Act, this proposal would eliminate any potential conflict between standards enforced under the two statutes.

3433. ● INVENTIONS BY EMPLOYEES OF VA, AUTHORITY DELEGATIONS

Legal Authority: 15 USC 3710a; EO 12591

CFR Citation: 38 CFR 1.653, (Revision); 38 CFR 2.83, (Revision)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The amendments to the two regulations cited will delegate authority from the Office of General Counsel (which has the authority, on behalf of the Administrator of Veterans Affairs, to act on all matters pertaining to patents and inventions) to directors of VA medical centers to enter into cooperative research and development agreements (CRDAs) under the Federal Technology Transfer Act of 1986 (15 USC 3710 et. seq.) and EO 12591. EO 12591 provides heads of Federal agencies to delegate the authority to enter into CRDAs to directors of Federal laboratories. Each VA medical center is considered a laboratory as defined in the Act. The delegation will effectuate the purposes of the Act, comply with the Executive Order, and promote cooperative medical research between the VA and the public sector.

3434. ● INDEMNIFICATION OF VETERANS ADMINISTRATION EMPLOYEES

Legal Authority: 38 USC 210(c)

CFR Citation: 38 CFR 14

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This amendment permits the VA to use Agency funds to indemnify employees who suffer adverse money judgments or personal damage claims as the result of official acts. It also provides that attorneys assisting in either authorized Agency representations or the recommending of such employees to the Department of Justice for representation have an attorney-client relationship with respect to the attorney-client privilege. This amendment addresses the proliferation of lawsuits against VA employees in recent years. It is expected to relieve the potential for intimidation among employees who may hesitate to act in the public interest for fear of a lawsuit with personal liability.

Abstract: This proposal would amend the VA adjudication and medical regulations concerning the automobile allowance and adaptive equipment eligibility for certain severely disabled individuals. These amendments are necessary to implement provisions of law and to properly divide regulatory responsibility for these programs consistent with agency organizational and functional alignments. The effect of these amendments will be to extend automobile adaptive equipment eligibility for certain severely disabled persons, more clearly define program responsibility, and more accurately describe prerequisites for obtaining devices for assisting in overcoming the handicap of deafness (including telecaptioning television decoders).

Legal Authority: 38 USC 210; 38 USC 3202; 38 USC 3203; PL 98-543, Sec 402

CFR Citation: 38 CFR 13.70; 38 CFR 13.71; 38 CFR 13.74

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: 38 CFR 13.70 defines the conditions under which the Veterans Services Officer may recommend an apportionment of benefits to dependents. The proposed amendment will clarify these conditions. The amendment will also remove a reference to mental illness as the sole criteria for a rating of incompetency.

38 CFR 13.71 is to be amended to make clear that the signing of an institutional award agreement does not waive an institution's right to claim payments under 38 USC 641. This action is the result of an unpublished General Counsel opinion.

38 CFR 13.74 is based on the provisions of 38 USC Sec. 3203(b) (1)(A); however, where the law refers to more than one type of institutional care, the regulation refers only to instances of hospitalization. This would seem to preclude application of the regulation when veterans are in State run nursing homes or other institutions operated by the United States or a political subdivision. The VA, therefore, proposes to correct this defect by substituting the terms "institution" and "institutionalization" where appropriate.

Abstract: The law provides that rates of subsistence allowance and educational assistance payable under the Educational Assistance Test Program shall be adjusted annually based upon the average actual cost of attendance at public institutions of higher education in the 12-month period since the rates were last adjusted. After consultation with the Department of Education, the Department of Defense has concluded that these rates should be increased by 6 percent for the 1987-88 school year. Legal Authority: 38 USC 1673(d)

CFR Citation: 38 CFR 21.4201

Abstract: Generally, the law and the Code of Federal Regulations prohibit the VA from approving new enrollments under many of the education programs which the VA administers when the VA finds that 85 percent or more of the students enrolled are having all or part of their tuition, fees, or other charges paid to or for them by the educational institution or the VA. There is provision for waiver of this requirement. However, the pertinent regulation is not clear as to who has the the authority to grant this waiver. The amended regulation will correct this.

3458. RELEASE OF VA LISTS OF NAMES AND ADDRESSES AND PENALTY PROCEDURES FOR UNAUTHORIZED USE

Legal Authority: 38 USC 3301(f)

CFR Citation: 38 CFR 1.519

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The VA is amending the existing regulations concerning VA lists of names and addresses and is also proposing administrative procedures to use when these lists are used for purposes not authorized by law. This action results from the need to amend the regulations to reflect current procedures, organizational changes, and concern expressed by veterans and some service organizations regarding unsolicited mail. The proposed regulatory amendments will allow the VA to enforce its statutory duty to protect the privacy of information concerning veterans and their dependents, establish procedures to suspend recipients who misuse VA name and address lists of veterans/ dependents, and give advance notice to recipients of what constitutes an authorized/unauthorized use of veterans/ dependents names and address lists, thereby protecting the due process rights of any recipient before penalties are enforced.

Legal Authority: PL 99-166; 38 USC 777

CFR Citation: 38 CFR 9.3(f)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This action was originally included in RIN 2900-AC06 as a final rule. The VA subsequently determined that it should be removed from the original package and resubmitted as a proposed rule. Pub. L. 99-166 provided in part that members of the Individual Ready Reserves (IRR) and the Inactive National Guard (ING) are eligible to be issued Veterans Group Life Insurance (VGLI) coverage. This rule merely establishes procedures by which members of the IRR and ING may apply for VGLI.

Legal Authority: PL 95-202, Sec 401

CFR Citation: 38 CFR 3.7(x)(15)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The VA is amending its regulations concerning persons who are included as having served on active duty. This results from a decision by the Secretary of the Air Force that service of members of the group known as American Merchant Marines in Oceangoing Service during the Armed Conflict, December 7, 1941, to August 15, 1945, constitutes active military service for the purpose of all laws administered by the VA. This action by the VA confers veteran status for VA benefit purposes on former members of that group who were discharged under honorable conditions.

DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE/GENERAL SERVICES ADMINISTRATION/NATIONAL AERONAUTICS AND SPACE ADMINISTRATION

48 CFR Ch. 1

Semiannual Agenda

AGENCIES: Department of Defense (DOD), General Services Administration (GSA), and National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

ACTION: Semiannual agenda.

SUMMARY: This agenda provides summary descriptions of regulations being developed by the Civilian Agency Acquisition Council and the Defense Acquisition Regulatory Council, in compliance with Executive Order 12291, Federal Regulation. This agenda is being published to allow interested persons an opportunity to participate in the rulemaking process.

The FAR Secretariat has attempted to list all regulations pending at the time of publication, except for minor and routine or repetitive actions, however, unanticipated requirements may result in the issuance of regulations that are not included in this agenda. There is no legal significance to the omission of an item from this listing. Also, the dates shown for the steps of each action are estimated and are not commitments to act on or by the dates shown.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Margaret A. Willis, FAR Secretariat, (202) 523-4755.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: DOD, GSA, and NASA, under their several statutory authorities, jointly issue and maintain the Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR) and prescribe the FAR system. Revisions to the FAR are made through periodic issuance of Federal Acquisition Circulars (FAC's). None of the regulations listed in this agenda are considered major under Executive Order 12291, Federal Regulation.

Dated: August 25, 1988.

Harry S. Rosinski,

Acting Director, Office of Federal Acquisition and Regulatory Policy.

Abstract: (1) Implement Sec. 1213 of Pub. L. 98-525 and Sec. 201 of Pub. L. 98-577 by (a) requiring that the contracting officer, prior to contracting, review the acquisition history of the supplies or services and the description of the supplies, and (b) specifying new requirements applicable to planning for the solicitation of a major system production contract; (2) Implement Sec. 1245 of Pub. L. 98-525 and Sec. 501 of Pub. L. 98-577 by specifying that offerors/contractors (a) are required to distribute costs within contracts on a basis that ensures that unit prices of supplies are in proportion to the item's base cost, (b) may be required to identify supplies that they will not manufacture or to which they will not contribute significant value, and (c) are required to flow the requirement down to subcontractors; (3) Implement Sec. 1216 of Pub. L. 98-525 and Sec. 204 of Pub. L. 98-577 by requiring offerors/contractors in certain acquisitions to certify that the prices offered for those items of supply that the contractor offers for sale to the public are no higher than any lower price charged to any other customer during the preceding 60 days, or submit a written justification for any (cont)

COMMODITY FUTURES TRADING COMMISSION

17 CFR Ch. I

Regulatory Flexibility Agenda

AGENCY: Commodity Futures Trading Commission.

ACTION: Publication of regulatory flexibility agenda.

SUMMARY: The Commodity Futures Trading Commission, in accordance with the requirements of the Regulatory Flexibility Act, is publishing a semiannual agenda of significant rules which the Commission expects to propose or promulgate over the next year. The Commission welcomes comments from small entities and others on the agenda.

ADDRESS: Comments should be sent to: Commodity Futures Trading Commission, 2033 K Street, NW., Washington, DC 20581 (202) 254-6090.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 601, et seq. ("RFA"), sets forth a number of requirements for agency rulemaking. Among other things, the RFA requires that:

(a) During the months of October and April of each year, each agency shall publish in the Federal Register a regulatory flexibility agenda which shall contain:

(1) A brief description of the subject area of any rule which the agency expects to propose or promulgate which is likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities;

(2) A summary of the nature of any such rule under consideration for each subject area listed in the agenda pursuant to paragraph (1), the objectives and legal basis for the issuance of the rule, and an approximate schedule for completing action on any rule for which the agency has issued a general notice of proposed rulemaking; and

(3) The name and telephone number of an agency official knowledgeable concerning the items listed in paragraph (1).

5 U.S.C. 602(a). Accordingly, the Commission has prepared an agenda of significant rules which it presently expects may be considered during the course of the next year, irrespective of their potential impact on small entities.[1] In addition, the agenda lists rulemaking actions which have been completed since the April 1988 agenda was prepared.

The Commission's agenda represents its best estimate of significant rules which will be considered over the next twelve months.[2] In this regard, section 602(d) of the RFA, 5 U.S.C. 602(d), provides: "Nothing in [section 602] precludes an agency from considering or acting on any matter not included in a regulatory flexibility agenda or requires an agency to consider or act on any matter listed in such agenda."

The Commission is publishing its October 1988 Regulatory Flexibility Agenda as part of the Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations. The Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations is coordinated by the Office of Management and Budget pursuant to Executive Order 12291. While participation by executive agencies in the Agenda is mandatory, independent agencies, such as the Commission, participate in the Unified Agenda on a voluntary basis.

The Commission's October 1988 Regulatory Flexibility Agenda is set forth below.

Issued in Washington, DC on September 6, 1988, by the Commission.

Jean A. Webb,

Secretary of the Commission.

[1] The Commission has published its definition of small entity to be used by the Commission in connection with rulemaking proceedings. 47 FR 18618 (April 30, 1982). Pursuant to those definitions, the Commission is not required to list many of the agenda items contained in this regulatory flexibility agenda. See 5 U.S.C. 602(a)(1). Moreover, the Commission has previously certified, pursuant to section 605 of the RFA, 5 U.S.C. 605, that certain items contained in this agenda will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. Accordingly, listing of an event in this regulatory flexibility agenda should not, in any event, be taken as a determination that a rule, when proposed or promulgated, will in fact require a regulatory flexibility analysis. However, the Commission hopes that the publication of an agenda which includes significant rules, regardless of their potential impact on small entities, may serve the public generally by providing an early and meaningful opportunity to participate in and comment on the formulation of new or revised regulations.

[2] In addition to publishing the regulatory flexibility agenda, the Commission also makes available to the public, on a monthly basis, a calendar listing rules that the Commission intends to consider that month.

Legal Authority: 7 USC 6; 7 USC 6c(a); 7 USC 6g; 7 USC 7; 7 USC 7a; 7 USC 12; 7 USC 12(a)(5)

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 1.35 (a)(2)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed regulation is necessary to ensure proper monitoring of exchanges of futures for physicals. The regulation would require records of customer cash transactions underlying EFPs which are now difficult to access to be routinely retained and provided to the contract market or the Commission upon request. The records would be used to monitor and ensure the bonafides of EFPs. The proposed regulation will constitute the least burdensome method of achieving the Commission's goal of monitoring EFPs.

Abstract: The Commission proposes to adopt rules establishing standards and procedures for Commission review of decisions of registered futures associations such as the National Futures Association ("NFA"). The Commission is proposing specific standards of review for decisions by NFA in four types of actions - disciplinary actions, membership denial actions, registration actions and member responsibility actions. The proposed rules would establish a common procedure for seeking review and a stay of a final decision by NFA in disciplinary, membership denial and registrations actions. The proposed rules would also establish a procedure for seeking review of and a stay of decisions by NFA in a member responsibility action. In proposing these rules, the Commission seeks to promulgate standards for review that will permit NFA to exercise its expertise and independent judgment in the proceedings subject to these rules while providing a person aggrieved by the result of NFA's action an effective means to obtain relief from prejudicial errors in NFA's determination. The Commission also seeks to establish an appellate process that is comprehensive, balanced, efficient and fair.

Abstract: The Commodity Futures Trading Commission staff has received inquiries concerning the applicability of the Commodity Exchange Act and Commission regulations to instruments that appear to possess, in varying combinations, characteristics of forward contracts, futures contracts, option contracts, debt instruments, bank deposits, and other interests. In an advance notice of proposed rulemaking, the Commission has sought comments concerning a proposed regulatory framework that would clarify the status of such instruments and permit, by exemption and subject to certain conditions, specified hybrid option instruments to be traded other than on a designated contract market. The Commission has also sought comments concerning a proposed no-action position with respect to certain commercial commodity contracts.

Abstract: Congress has directed the Commission to issue regulations permitting grantors and futures commission merchants to grant, offer and sell so-called "dealer options" on certain physical commodities subject to certain conditions specified by statute and such other uniform and reasonable requirements as the Commission may prescribe. At present, the only persons who may lawfully grant dealer options are United States domiciles who, on May 1, 1978, were in the business of buying, selling, producing or otherwise using that commodity. The Commission has reproposed rules, principally concerning registration of dealer option grantors, requirements for the segregation of customer funds, disclosure to customers and prospective customers, and minimum financial requirements. The Commission intends to re-evaluate the proposed rules in light of regulatory changes that have occurred since 1980.

Abstract: The Commission adopted two amendments to its minimum financial and related requirements for futures commission merchants (FCMs). One amendment will preserve the one-day grace period for debit/ deficit accounts unless the account had been in debit/deficit status on the previous business day and the previous day's debit or deficit was not timely satisfied in its entirety by the deposit of new funds. The second amendment is an enhancement of the financial early warning system which requires an FCM to notify its designated self-regulatory organization and the Commission immediately when it determines that an account it is carrying is undermargined by an amount which exceeds its adjusted net capital. The Commission also reproposed a rule to clarify the requirements for and treatment of a guaranteed account.

Legal Authority: 7 USC 6a; 7 USC 12(a)(5)

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 150

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Commodity Futures Trading Commission has long established and enforced speculative position limits for futures contracts on various agricultural commodities. The Commission recently revised Federal speculative position limits with respect to both the structure and level of such limits. 52 FR 38914 (October 20, 1987). The Commission at that time noted that the remaining portion of its reexamination of speculative position limits would involve issues relating to aggregation policy. In this regard the Commission recently proposed rule amendments providing an exemption from speculative position limits for positions which have a common owner but are independently controlled. In particular, the proposed rules provide for a case-by-case determination regarding applications for exemptions for independent account controllers from speculative position limits.

Abstract: The Commission has long established and enforced speculative position limits for futures contracts and various agricultural commodities. The Commission recently revised Federal speculative position limits with respect to both the structure and level of such limits. 52 FR 38914 (October 20, 1987). Recently the Commission received a petition for rulemaking to restore an exemption from speculative position limits for futures positions which are spread against other futures positions. In addition, the Commission has noted the need for a technical modification of its rules concerning futures/options spreads. Accordingly, the Commission is proposing rules to exempt or provide higher limits for certain futures spread positions and to clarify that futures/options spreads may exceed the futures speculative position limits only where the position is outside the spot month.

Abstract: The Commission requires exchange clearing organizations to maintain a record regarding transactions on the exchange in futures and options contracts. As part of that requirement, each clearing organization's trade register must include for each futures or option transaction a customer-type indicator. In light the the Commission's routine surveillance needs, as well as the increased number of special studies undertaken by the Commission regarding the trading of stock index futures and options on such futures contracts, the Commission is proposing to expand the required reporting of customer-type indicators to include two specified categories of trades in those contracts, specifically index arbitrage and substitution transactions. Although the Commission's existing reporting systems have worked well, the Commission believes that the proposed enhancement to exchange audit trail systems will greatly facilitate the compilation of accurate information concerning the execution times of trades involving index arbitrage and substitution transactions on an even more accurate and timely basis without necessitating numerous special calls for information.

Semiannual Regulatory Agenda

CONSUMER PRODUCT SAFETY COMMISSION (CPSC)

CONSUMER PRODUCT SAFETY COMMISSION

16 CFR Ch. II

Regulatory Flexibility Act; Semiannual Regulatory Flexibility and Unified Agendas

AGENCY: Consumer Product Safety Commission.

ACTION: Publication of regulatory flexibility and unified agendas.

SUMMARY: The Regulatory Flexibility Act (RFA) requires each Federal agency to publish twice each year a regulatory flexibility agenda listing the rules expected to be proposed or promulgated which are likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities, including small businesses, small organizations, and small governmental units. In this document, the Commission publishes its semiannual regulatory flexibility agenda.

Additionally, although not required to do so, the Commission has elected to comply voluntarily with those provisions of Executive Order 12291 which require executive agencies to publish an agenda of regulatory actions expected to be under development or review by the agency during the succeeding 12 months and which further provide that such an agenda may be combined with an agency's regulatory flexibility agenda published in accordance with the RFA.

DATE: The Commission welcomes comments on each subject area of the agenda, particularly from small entities. Written comments concerning the agenda should be received in the Office of the Secretary by December 31, 1988.

ADDRESS: Comments on the regulatory flexibility agenda should be sent to the Office of the Secretary, Consumer Product Safety Commission, Washington, DC 20207, telephone (301) 492-6800, and should be titled "Regulatory Flexibility Agenda."

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: For further information on the agenda in general, contact: Allen F. Brauninger, Office of the General Counsel, Consumer Product Safety Commission, Washington, DC 20207, telephone (301) 492-6980. For further information regarding a particular item on the agenda, consult the individual listed in the column headed "Contact" for that particular item.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 601-612, contains several provisions intended to reduce unnecessary and disproportionate regulatory requirements on small businesses, small governmental organizations, and other small entities. Section 602 of the Act, 5 U.S.C. 602, requires each agency to publish twice each year a regulatory flexibility agenda containing a brief description of the subject area of any rule expected to be proposed or promulgated which is likely to have a "significant economic impact" on a "substantial number" of small entities. The agency must also provide a summary of the nature of the rule, the objectives and legal basis for the rule, and a schedule for acting on each rule for which the agency has issued a notice of proposed rulemaking. The Regulatory Flexibility Agenda shall also contain the name and address of the agency official knowledgeable about the items listed. Further, agencies are required to provide notice of their agendas to small entities and to solicit their comments by direct notification or by inclusion in publications likely to be obtained by such entities.

In addition, President Reagan's Executive Order 12291 requires executive agencies to publish, twice each year, a regulatory agenda of proposed regulations under development or current regulations under review and further states that such an agenda may be combined with an agenda published under the RFA. While the Commission, as an independent regulatory agency, is not required to follow Executive Order 12291, the Commission is complying voluntarily with those provisions concerning publication of a regulatory agenda.

The regulatory flexibility agenda published below lists, for a 12-month period, the regulatory activities expected to be under development or review. These include all such activities, not only those which may have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.

The agenda contains a brief description and summary of each regulatory activity, including the objectives and legal basis for each; an approximate schedule of target dates, subject to revision, for the development or completion of each activity; and the name and telephone number of a knowledgeable agency official concerning particular items on the agenda. All agency contacts have the same address: Consumer Product Safety Commission, Washington, DC 20207.

Dated: September 22, 1988.

Sadye E. Dunn,

Secretary, Consumer Product Safety Commission.

Abstract: On February 2, 1984, the Commission published a Federal Register notice listing eight (8) rules and standards issued under the Flammable Fabrics Act and soliciting comments on those rules. The Commission will review these rules under the provisions of the Regulatory Flexibility Act to determine if the rules should be revoked, amended, or continued in effect without change. The staff expects to submit a draft report on the economic impact of these rules on small businesses by December 31, 1988, for consideration by the Commission.

Abstract: On January 19, 1983, the Commission published an Advance Notice of Proposed Rulemaking soliciting comments on ways to amend the existing requirements for child-resistant packaging to improve the effectiveness and efficiency of these requirements. In June, 1985, the Commission staff completed testing to determine the feasibility of using some of the alternate procedures for evaluation of child-resistant packaging described in the ANPR. In August 1987, the Commission considered the comments received in response to the ANPR and the staff's recommendations regarding revision of existing requirements for child-resistant packaging. The Commission directed the staff to prepare draft proposals to amend the test protocols used to evaluate the effectiveness of child-resistant packaging. The staff is preparing a briefing package concerning specific revisions to the child test protocol and the adult test protocol. The staff anticipates that it will transmit the briefing package to the Commission in December 1988.

3579. ALL-TERRAIN VEHICLES

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 15 USC 2051 et seq Consumer Product Safety Act; 15 USC 1262(f) Federal Hazardous Substances Act

CFR Citation: None

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: On May 31, 1985, the Commission published an advance notice of proposed rulemaking (ANPR) to announce its preliminary determination that an unreasonable risk of injury may be associated with all-terrain vehicles. An all-terrain vehicle (ATV) is a three- or four-wheeled motorized machine, designed for off-road use, and intended to be ridden by one person. On December 18, 1986, the Commission directed its staff to: (1) continue to work with the industry to develop voluntary performance standards and do the technical work required to issue a NPRM, (2) prepare a letter to state governors, the Department of the Interior, and other appropriate federal agencies stressing the importance of ATV safety, (3) update the ATV safety alert and conduct Clearinghouse activities on ATV safety, (4) develop a program to provide all warnings necessary to advise consumers of the risks associated with ATVs and how to minimize them, (5) prepare a letter advising the Specialty Vehicle Institute of America (SVIA) of the Commission's displeasure at the progress to date in developing voluntary standards, and (6) prepare a letter asking that (cont.)

Additional Information: ABSTRACT CONT. ATV manufacturers voluntarily cease marketing ATVs intended for use by children under 12 years of age. In accordance with a preliminary consent decree filed on December 30, 1987, with the U.S. District Court of the District of Columbia in U.S. v. American Honda Motor Co. et al. (Civil Action No. 87-3525 SS), the Commission has provided a draft of a proposed safety standard for ATVs to manufacturers. The final consent decree, approved on April 28, 1988, (Civil Act No. 87-3525 GAG) provides that manufacturers will attempt in good faith to reach agreement on a voluntary standard acceptable to the Commission within four months. On September 26, 1988, the manufacturers submitted a voluntary standard for the Commission's consideration.

3580. PETITION HP 87-1 REQUESTING A BAN OF CERTAIN HOUSEHOLD PRODUCTS CONTAINING MORE THAN 0.01 PERCENT TREMOLITE

Legal Authority: 15 USC 1261(q)(1)(B) Federal Hazardous Substances Act; 5 USC 553(e) Administrative Procedure Act

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 1500

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: On October 14, 1986, Mr. Mark Germine petitioned the Commission to ban: consumer products that contain limestone, including lawn and garden limestones, both granular and pulverized; sand products, including play sand; and consumer gravel products; if such products contain more than 0.01 percent of tremolite. Mr. Germine bases his request for a ban on a concern that tremolite in these products is carcinogenic and causes mesothelioma. The staff will prepare a briefing package for consideration by the Commission in deciding whether to grant or deny the petition. If the Commission grants the petition, it will begin a rulemaking proceeding under the Federal Hazardous Substances Act.

Abstract: On September 19, 1986, the Commission received a petition from the National Kerosene Heater Association (NKHA). The association requested that the Commission initiate proceeding under the Consumer Product Safety Act to develop a kerosene heater rule containing requirements to limit nitrogen dioxide emissions of kerosene heaters and all of the requirements for kerosene heaters now contained in UL Standard 647. At about the same time, the International Association of Fire Chiefs (IAFC) requested the Commission to require the kerosene heater industry to provide notice and warning labels on all kerosene heaters sold in the United States alerting the consumer that unvented portable kerosene heaters are subject to spontaneous and uncontrollable flare-up with flames extending outside the cabinet. The staff briefed the Commission on the petition from NKHA and the request from IAFC in September 1988. If the Commission grants the petition from NKHA or the request from IAFC, it will begin a rulemaking proceeding under the Consumer Product Safety Act.

Abstract: On March 3, 1988, the Commission published an Advance Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (ANPRM) to announce its preliminary determination that unreasonable risks of death and injury may be associated with cigarette lighters because they are not sufficiently resistant to operation by children. The Commission staff is analyzing comments received in response to the ANPRM. A test protocol using panels of children and adults is under development. The test protocol will be used to determine the child resistance of lighters now on the market and to evaluate lighter modifications reported to be more child resistant. A child resistant cigarette lighter standard will be developing using the test protocol as a basis.

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 1200; 16 CFR 1400

Abstract: On August 6, 1987, the Greater St. Louis Lead Poisoning Prevention Council petitioned the Commission to require manufacturers of all hot air paint removal tools to place a warning label on the tool that specifically warns the users of the dangers of lead fumes and lead dust when removing paint with this tool. The Council bases its request on reports of high blood lead levels in children and adults associated with the use of air paint removal tools in the rehabilitation of residences which have paint with high lead levels. The staff will prepare a briefing package for consideration by the Commission deciding whether to grant or deny the petition. If the Commission grants the petition, it will begin rulemaking under the Consumer Product Safety Act.

3584. METHOD FOR IDENTIFYING TOYS AND OTHER ARTICLES INTENDED FOR CHILDREN UNDER 3 YEARS OF AGE WHICH PRESENT CHOKING, ASPIRATION, OR INGESTION HAZARDS BECAUSE OF SMALL PARTS

Legal Authority: 15 USC 1261 to 1262 Federal Hazardous Substance Act

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 1501

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Commission has a regulation applicable to toys and other articles intended for children under three years old that prescribes a test cylinder to determine if articles, or detachable parts of such articles, present a choking hazard to young children. Articles or components which fit within the test cylinder are banned. Although this regulation has been in effect for several years, choking incidents involving young children continue to occur. The Commission has established a project to gather information about the nature and causes of these incidents and to make recommendations for any additional measures needed to reduce injuries and deaths from such incidents, including modification of the small parts test cylinder. The Commission published an ANPRM on June 7, 1988, to solicit comments on ways to address choking hazards to young children, including specific modifications of the test cylinder requested in a petition from the Consumer Federal of America and the New York Attorney General's Office.

Legal Authority: 15 USC 1261 Federal Hazardous Substances Act; 15 USC 1262 Federal Hazardous Substances Act

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 1500.12(a)(2)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: On August 20, 1986, the Commission proposed a rule to declare that household products containing methylene chloride are hazardous substances under the Federal Hazardous Substances Act. These products include some paint strippers and spray paints. The Commission's concern arises from animal tests showing that methylene chloride is a carcinogen by inhalation and studies indicating a significant human exposure as a result of reasonably foreseeable use of products containing methylene chloride. The initiation of this rulemaking proceeding granted one part of a petition (HP 85-1) from the Consumer Federation of America. The staff provided an analysis of the comments on the proposed rule to the Commission in June 1987. In August 1987, the Commission determined that there was insufficient controversy over the status of methylene chloride as a hazardous substance; therefore, the Commission suspended the rulemaking and issued a statement of enforcement policy stating the Commission's view that household products that contain methylene chloride and that expose consumers to significant levels of methylene chloride are (cont.)

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 1500.18(a)(4); 16 CFR 1500.86(a)(3); 16 CFR 1306

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Lawn darts are devices intended to be used outdoors by being thrown upward and striking the ground point first. Lawn darts intended for use by children are banned by a regulation issued under the Federal Hazardous Substances Act. However, and exemption to this rule allows the sale of lawn darts which are labeled with warnings that they are not toys and should not be used by children, are accompanied with instructions for safe use, and are not sold in toy stores or store departments which deal primarily in toys or other children's articles. Despite these restrictions, children continue to suffer serious injuries and deaths while playing with lawn darts. On October 20, 1987, the Commission published an ANPR which set forth several regulatory options to address risks of death and injury to children associated with lawn darts and solicited comments and information or issues raised by the ANPR. After considering comments received in response to the ANPR and other available information, on July 29, 1988, the Commission proposed a rule to ban all lawn darts having the potential to cause skull puncture injuries.

FARM CREDIT ADMINISTRATION

12 CFR Ch. VI

Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations

AGENCY: Farm Credit Administration.

ACTION: Department Unified Agenda of Regulations and review list.

SUMMARY: The Farm Credit Administration (FCA), as an independent regulatory agency in voluntary compliance with Executive Order 12291, sets forth the following agenda of regulations which it will have under development and review during the period of October 1988 through April 1989.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Cindy R. Nicholson, Office of General Counsel, Farm Credit Administration, 1501 Farm Credit Drive, McLean, Virginia 22102-5090, (703) 883-4020, TDD (703) 883-4444.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601, et seq.), contains several provisions intended to reduce unnecessary and disproportionate regulatory requirements on small entities. Farm Credit Administration regulations which apply to Farm Credit System banks and associations do not and will not have a substantial impact on small entities. None of the entities regulated by the FCA fall within the definition of small entities in the Regulatory Flexibility Act. While many associations through which banks lend are smaller in size than their banks, they are not independently operated, as they are closely supervised by the banks, which must approve most of their operating policies. The associations rely exclusively on their supervising banks for their source of funds. Furthermore, the associations do not compete with each other since, as with their supervising banks, each serves only a particular geographic area.

While FCA is an independent agency exempt from Executive Order 12291, we believe that participating in this joint publication will further the public interest by including FCA in a single source of information concerning current and projected rulemaking and reviews of existing regulations.

Dated: August 26, 1988.

David A. Hill,

Secretary, Farm Credit Administration Board.

Semiannual Regulatory Agenda

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION (FCC)

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

47 CFR Ch. I

Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations; October 1988

AGENCY: Federal Communications Commission.

ACTION: Publication of the Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations.

SUMMARY: Twice a year, the Commission publishes a list in the Unified Agenda of those major items and other significant proceedings under development or review that pertain to the Regulatory Flexibility Act. The agenda also provides the CFR Citations and Legal Authorities which govern these proceedings. The Regulatory Flexibility Act (94 Stat. 1167: 5 U.S.C. 605) includes notations on the applicability of the Regulatory Flexibility Act to each item.

The Unified Agenda is published in the Federal Register in April and October of each year.

ADDRESS: Federal Communications Commission, 1919 M Street, NW., Washington, DC 20554.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Tenecia Moncrief, Office of Managing Director, (202) 632-3906.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Unified Agenda of Major and Other Significant Proceedings.

The Commission encourages public participation in the FCC rulemaking process. To help keep the public informed of significant rulemaking proceedings, the Commission has prepared an agenda of important proceedings now in progress. OMB publishes the Unified Agenda in the Federal Register in April and October of each year.

The following terms may be helpful in understanding the status of the proceedings included in this report:

A Docket Number - is assigned to a proceeding if the Commission has issued either a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking or a Notice of Inquiry in regard to the matter under consideration. Since January 1, 1978, the Commission has used docket numbers which consist of the last two digits of the calendar year in which the docket was established plus a sequential number which begins at 1 with the first docket initiated during a calendar year (e.g., Docket 80-1 or Docket 83-1). The abbreviation for the responsible Bureau usually precedes the docket number, as in "CC Docket 79-164." When a docket number consists of only five digits (e.g., Docket 29622), this indicates that the docket was established before January 1, 1978.

Notice of Inquiry (NOI) - issued by the Commission when it is seeking information on a broad subject or trying to generate ideas on a given topic. A comment period is specified during which all interested parties may submit comments.

Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (NPRM) - issued by the Commission when it is proposing a specific change to the FCC Rules and Regulations. Before any changes are actually made, interested parties may submit written comments on the proposals.

Memorandum Opinion and Order (MO&O) - issued by the Commission to deny a petition for rulemaking, conclude an inquiry, modify a decision, or deny a petition for reconsideration of a decision.

Rulemaking (RM) Number - assigned to a proceeding after the appropriate Bureau/Office has reviewed a petition for rulemaking, but before the Commission has taken action on the petition.

Report & Order (R&O) - issued by the Commission to state a new or amended rule or state that the FCC Rules will not be changed.

H. Walker Feaster,

Acting Secretary, Federal Communications Commission.

Abstract: The Commission has issued a specific plan for implementing a proposed change in regulation of the rates of dominant carriers which would replace the current rate-of-return regulatory model with one that directly limits rates by means of price caps. The plan applies to dominant carriers other than Comsat and Alascom. The Commission reaffirms its tentative finding that the price cap method of regulation will promote efficiency and innovation and benefit consumers more effectively than rate-of-return regulation

Abstract: The Commission seeks to develop a record & to solicit comments on the proposed rules. These proposed rules are designed to implement recommendations made by the joint industry/government Advisory Committee on 2 degree satellite spacing; and they will codify basic applications requirements for satellite services. The proposed rules would apply to all entities including small entities who seek authorization under Part 25 of the Commission's rules to construct and operate Fixed-Satellite communications facilities. The proposed rules would establish operational and technical procedures designed to alleviate adjacent satellite interference and may increase the reporting and cost burdens on all satellite licensees. The rules codifying basic applications requirements are codifications of existing policies. Will impose no additional burdens, and may, in fact, reduce the burden by eliminating several current requirements. In order to be effective, these rules must apply to all licensees and thus there is no significant alternative.

3650. ● IN THE MATTER OF AN AUTOMATIC TRANSMITTER IDENTIFICATION SYSTEM (ATIS) FOR RADIO TRANSMITTING EQUIPMENT (GEN. DOC. #86-337)

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 47 USC 154(i); 47 USC 154(j); 47 USC 302; 47 USC 303; 47 USC 403

CFR Citation: 47 CFR 25

Legal Deadline: NPRM, Statutory, October 20, 1986. Other, Statutory, September 14, 1987.
Further Notice of Proposed Rulemaking

Abstract: This proceeding looks to establish a means by which radio emissions might be encoded with a distinct automatically transmitted identifier to benefit orderly management of the radio spectrum by identifying the source of radio frequency interference to other radio signals. For video satellite uplink stations regulated under Part 25 of the Commission's rules, it proposes rules regarding such identifiers. There are no significant alternatives being considered that are consistent with stated objectives. Every operator of a satellite video uplink would be required to purchase and operate a device to insert identification on all transmissions. Approximately 1,000 stations would be involved. Each encoder would cost under $2000. Operating upkeep expenses should be minimal.

Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation

FEDERAL DEPOSIT INSURANCE CORPORATION (FDIC)

12 CFR Ch. III

Semiannual Agenda of Regulations

AGENCY: Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

ACTION: Publication of semiannual agenda of regulations.

SUMMARY: The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation ("FDIC") is hereby publishing items for the October 1988 Regulatory Agenda. The agenda contains information about FDIC's current and projected rulemakings, existing regulations under review, and completed rulemakings.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Persons identified under regulations listed in the agenda. The address for all FDIC staff identified in the agenda is Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, 550 17th Street, NW., Washington, DC 20429.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Twice each year, the FDIC publishes an agenda of regulations to inform the public of its regulatory actions and to enhance public participation in the rulemaking process. Publication of the agenda is in accordance with both the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.) and the FDIC statement of policy entitled "Development and Review of FDIC Rules and Regulations" (44 FR 31007, May 30, 1979; 44 FR 32353, June 6, 1979; 44 FR 76858, December 28, 1979; 49 FR 7288, February 28, 1984).

The FDIC amends its regulations under the general rulemaking authority prescribed in section 9 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act (12 U.S.C. 1819) and under specific authority granted by the Act and other statutes.

Interested persons may petition the FDIC for the issuance, amendment or repeal of any regulation by submitting a written petition to the Executive Secretary, Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, Washington, DC 20429. Petitioners should include complete and concise statements of their interest in the subject matter and reasons why the petitions should be granted.

Dated: August 26, 1988.

Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

Robert E. Feldman,

Deputy Executive Secretary.

Legal Authority: 12 USC 1817; 12 USC 1818; 12 USC 1819

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 344

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The FDIC expects to propose an amendment to 12 CFR Part 344, which governs an insured nonmember bank's recordkeeping and confirmation requirements for securities transactions. The proposed amendment would expand an existing exception under Part 344 for low activity. The exception would be increased to allow banks which effect an average of fewer than 1,000 securities transactions per year to be exempt from certain recordkeeping and written policymaking requirements. The current "low-activity" threshold is 200 transactions per year. The amendment is needed to eliminate unnecessary paperwork burden and is intended to reduce the impact of FDIC's regulation on insured nonmember banks that engage in a low number of securities transactions per year.

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 325

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The FDIC has issued for public comment a proposal to amend Part 325 of its rules and regulations by adding an appendix to Part 325 regarding a statement of policy on risk-based capital that would apply to all insured state nonmember banks. The risk-based capital framework reflected in the proposed policy statement was developed jointly with representatives from the Federal Reserve System and the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency. It is largely based on the December 10, 1987, consultative paper prepared by the Basle Committee on Banking Regulations and Supervisory Practices.

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 338

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The FDIC is preparing final amendments to its fair housing regulation, 12 CFR Part 338, which applies to insured state nonmember banks. The amendments would eliminate home-equity loans, as well as home improvement, maintenance and repair loans from the data-gathering requirement. Accordingly, the data-gathering requirement would then only apply to home purchase, construction and refinancing loans. The FDIC believes that the amendments would reduce the paperwork burden on the banking industry without impairing enforcement of fair housing lending laws.

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 326

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The FDIC amended Part 326 of its Rules and Regulations covering minimum security devices and procedures and Bank Secrecy Act compliance. Among other things, the amendment reduces the overall recordkeeping burden by eliminating the requirement that insured nonmember banks retain a record identifying the law enforcement official consulted on security matters. However, the consultation continues to be mandated.

Other technical changes were made to the regulation. The term "insured nonmember bank" has been substituted for the term "insured state nonmember bank" whenever the latter term previously appeared in Part 326. This was done to clarify the applicability of all sections of Part 326 to insured branches of foreign banks.

Abstract: Under this notice of proposed rulemaking, the Commission is proposing to amend its regulations governing the implementation of Title II of the Public Utility Regulatory Policies Act of 1978 (PURPA). This rule addresses problems with the criteria and procedures under Section 201 of PURPA by which qualifying small power production and cogeneration facilities can obtain PURPA benefits. 3708. ● 5-YEAR TAKE-OR-PAY MAKE-UP PROVISIONS IN NATURAL GAS PRODUCER-PIPELINE CONTRACTS

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 15 USC 717 to 717w (1982) Natural Gas Act; 42 USC 7101 to 7352 (1982) Dept. of Energy Organ. Act; EO 12009 (1978) 3 CFR Part 142; 31 USC 9701 (1970) Independent Offices Approp. Act

CFR Citation: 18 CFR 154

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This notice of proposed rulemaking eliminates the requirement in the Commission's regulations that a gas purchase contract between an independent natural gas producer and an interstate natural gas pipeline must allow the pipeline a minimum 5-year make-up period in which to take gas for which payment has already been made. The Commission believes that this requirement, established in 1967, may no longer be necessary in light of current efforts by pipelines and producers to resolve take-or-pay issues and to enter into market-responsive contracts for future gas supplies. 3709. CALCULATION OF CASH WORKING CAPITAL ALLOWANCE FOR PUBLIC UTILITIES

Legal Authority: 16 USC 791a to 828c

CFR Citation: 18 CFR 35

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would provide that the cash working capital requirements of a public utility that files an electric rate schedule will be presumed to be zero dollars, and thus will not affect the utility's rate base, unless the utility shows there is a significant difference between the time it pays certain current operating expenses and the time it receives revenues from ratepayers. The proposed rule would establish a threshold standard that must be met to support a cash working capital adjustment to a utility's rate base, the expense elements to be considered in calculating cash working capital adjustments to rate base, and criteria applicable to studies submitted in support of a request for an adjustment to rate base. Abstract: Order No. 500 is an interim rule that readopted the regulations promulgated in Order No. 436 with one addition and one deletion. Order No. 500 added a requirement that producers submit an offer of take-or-pay credits to an open access pipeline in order to make the pipeline's gas eligible for transportation (unless the pipeline and producer agree to a different arrangement); it deleted the customers' contract demand reduction option. Order No. 500 also adopted a policy on passthrough mechanisms for take-or-pay buyout and buydown costs and on gas inventory charges. Order Nos. 500-A, 500-B, 500-C and 500-D made changes to the crediting provisions and extended certain deadlines. Rehearing of the Order No. 500 interim rule was denied in Order No. 500-E. Abstract: The Commission proposed to streamline regulation of a class of non-traditional utility suppliers, called independent power producers (IPPS). The proposed regulations would: (1) authorize rates for IPPS to be determined through competition or rate negotiation subject to a price cap, thereby freeing IPPS from cost-based ratemaking while ensuring that rates fall within a zone of reasonableness: (2) authorize IPPs to file rate schedules without having to provide extensive cost support; (3) exempt IPPS from cost-related accounting, reporting and recordkeeping requirements; (4) streamline the corporate and financial regulation of IPPS; (5) provide the blanket prior authorizations to engage in certain corporate activities; and (6) adopt and advance certification procedures to qualify as an IPP. Abstract: In this notice of proposed rulemaking, the Commission proposes to revise its regulations governing the relicensing of hydroelectric power projects. The proposed changes include revised requirements for an application for a new license, a process for pre-filing consultation with resource agencies, a new standard and factors for evaluating a relicensing application for a nonpower license, a minor license, and an exemption from licensing upon expiration of an existing license and would provide for acceleration of a license expiration date and site access for competing applicants. FEDERAL HOME LOAN BANK BOARD (FHLBB) — Proposed Rule Stage

3723. ● RULES OF PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 12 USC 1730; 12 USC 1464; 12 USC 1730q; 12 USC 1730a; PL 89-695; PL 89-630

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 509; 12 CFR 512

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Bank Board is proposing revisions to 12 CFR Parts 509 and 512 respectively, its regulations governing rules of practice and procedure in adjudicatory proceedings. The proposed revisions to Part 509 would streamline prehearing procedures with a view toward expediting the proceedings, clarify the authority of Administrative Law Judges appointed to conduct the proceedings, and add several new provisions. The proposed revisions to Part 512 would be of a clarifying and technical nature and would update several provisions of the rules relating to the conduct of investigative and formal examination proceedings.

There are no alternatives that would be less burdensome than the proposed amendments in addressing the concerns expressed above.

The potential costs and benefits of the proposed regulations on the industry have not been quantified.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 12 USC 1730(i); PL 89-695; 12 USC 1426(i)

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 523

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Bank Board is proposing to amend its regulations governing applications for membership in the Federal Home Loan Bank ("FHLBank") System by institutions that have been removed from membership under the National Housing Act by virtue of the termination of Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation ("FSLIC") insurance of their accounts. Specifically, the proposal would amend Part 523 of the Boards Rules and Regulations for the Federal Home Loan Bank System, to provide that an FHLBank member that terminates its status as an FSLIC-insured institution and is thereby removed from FHLBank membership (as well as any other member whose membership is terminated pursuant to section 6(i) of the Federal Home Loan Bank Act), may be readmitted as a member only after the expiration of a five year period following its departure from the FHLBank System.

There are no alternatives that would be less burdensome than the proposal in addressing the concerns expressed above.

The potential costs and benefits of the proposed regulation on the industry have not been quantified.

Abstract: The Board is proposing extensive revisions to its regulations governing the conservatorship and receivership of associations chartered by the Board or the accounts of which that are insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation. The Board will unify the appointment of receiver procedures for state and federal institutions; adopt procedures for appointment of receivers under section 406(c)(1)(B) of the National Housing Act; and address the priorities in liquidation and participation interests in liquidation, which are absent from or inadequately covered in the present regulations. The Board is also proposing that its regulations cover topics such as the effect of the receivership appointment on executory contracts, employment agreements, certain "Golden Parachute" agreements, participation agreements, repurchase agreements, and on agreements relating to secured and unsecured borrowings by an insured institution, including agreements providing for prepayment or default penalties. The proposed regulations provide for new rules of general applicability in the areas previously mentioned, clarify existing provisions, and reorganize and recodify all the (cont)

There are no alternatives being considered by the Board in lieu of the proposed regulation that would have less impact on small institutions, consistent with the intended result, than the concerns expressed in the supplementary information to the proposed rule and the existing statutory requirements concerning receiverships and conservatorships.

The potential costs and benefits of the proposed regulation on the industry have not been quantified.

On July 5, 1988, the Board promulgated as a final rule certain portions of this proposed rule.(53 F.R.25129) The final rule establishes a priority structure for unsecured claims applicable to all FSLIC receiverships under a new Part 569c of Title 12 of the Code of Federal Regulations.

Abstract: The Bank Board is proposing extensive revisions to its regulations regarding the corporate governance of Federal associations in order to update and clarify these regulations. Due to the magnitude of the revisions, the Bank Board has presented the proposal in parts, issued separately for public comment. The proposed regulations would reorganize portions of Subchapter C (the regulations for federally chartered associations) and amend and add sections to provide a more cohesive and complete body of rules for the corporate governance of Federal associations. Part I, previously proposed, would provide definitions and rules for the organization and incorporation of Federal associations. Part II, also previously proposed, would contain provisions regarding the corporate structure and governing processes for Federal stock associations and Federal mutual associations. Part III proposes revisions to the rules governing operations of and charter conversion from and to Federal associations. Part IV proposes provisions regarding conservatorships, receiverships, trust powers, miscellaneous provisions, Board rulings, and statements of policy. The (cont)

3727. ACCOUNTING POLICY RELATING TO ACQUISITION, DEVELOPMENT AND CONSTRUCTION LOANS

Legal Authority: Notice to Practitioners on ADC Loans, CPA Letter, Feb 10, 1986

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 571.1

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Bank Board proposed to amend its statement of accounting policy relating to acquisition, development and construction ("ADC") loans used by all institutions the accounts of which are insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation ("FSLIC") or affiliates thereof when preparing reports or financial statements for filing with the Bank Board or the FSLIC. The amendments relate to the recent "Notice to Practitioners" issued by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, which superseded two prior notices issued in November 1983 and November 1984, and to the public position regarding the effective date of the recent notice taken by the Chief Accountant of the Securities and Exchange Commission. By proposing this amendment to its statement of policy, the Bank Board is adhering to its policy that insured institutions are expected to apply the guidance of the accounting profession for determining whether a transaction characterized as an ADC loan is in fact a loan or whether, in substance, it is a real estate investment or a joint venture. The proposed rule would apply equally to all insured institutions. (cont)

3728. INSURANCE TERMINATION PROVISIONS

Legal Authority: 12 USC 1464; 12 USC 1727; 12 USC 1730

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 565

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Bank Board is reviewing a number of issues relating to the extent to which institutions insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation ("FSLIC") that terminate their insured status in connection with transfers by operation of law must pay a final insurance premium to the FSLIC. As part of its review, the Bank Board is soliciting public comment to ascertain whether to issue a proposal in this area. On October 7, 1986, the Bank Board adopted a clarifying amendment to the definition of "transfers" set forth in its statement of policy regarding mergers and transfers of assets. (12 CFR 571.5(a)). However, as the clarification indicates, the interpretation did not specifically address the separate issues of whether an insured institution undertaking a transfer of assets and liabilities by operation of law in which the surviving entity is not FSLIC-insured must pay a final insurance premium to the FSLIC, and if so, the amount of such payment. The Bank Board has been reviewing this so-called "exit premium" issue on an ongoing basis and as yet has made no final determination with respect to this matter.

3729. INDEMNIFICATION OF DIRECTORS, OFFICERS AND EMPLOYEES OF FEDERAL HOME LOAN BANKS

Legal Authority: 5 USC 553

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 522.72

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Bank Board is proposing to amend its regulations governing the indemnification of directors, officers, and employees of the Federal Home Loan Banks ("FHL Banks"). This amendment would clarify that expenses incurred by FHL Bank directors, officers, and employees in connection with litigation are to be reimbursed as they are incurred, but that, by majority vote of its board of directors, a FHL Bank could require repayment of expenses that it finds to have been beyond the scope of the Bank Board's indemnification regulation. The proposal applies only to directors, officers, and employees of the FHL Banks, none of which falls within the definition of a "small financial institution" given by the Small Business Administration.

There are no alternatives that would be less burdensome than the proposal in addressing the concerns expressed above.

The potential costs and benefits of the proposal on the industry have not been quantified.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 12 USC 1727

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 563.15; 12 CFR 563.16

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Bank Board is proposing to amend its Insurance Regulations by adding a new regulation regarding the assessment of additional insurance premiums against institutions the accounts of which are insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation.("FSLIC") The proposal would implement by regulation the FSLIC's authority to assess additional insurance premiums and would provide for an adjustment of such premiums based on insured institutions' capital levels. In the Board's view, it is important to base the amount of additional insurance premiums assessed on the amount of capital held by an insured institution because capital provides the most effective buffer against loss and risk to the FSLIC fund.The primary purpose of the proposal is to offer insured institutions an incentive to raise capital.

There are no alternatives that would be less burdensome than the proposal in addressing the concerns expressed above.

Abstract: The Board is proposing to adopt amendments to 12 CFR 545.74, its service corporation regulations, by inserting a new paragraph 545.74(c)(4) "security brokerage activities" and renumbering subsequent paragraphs. The purpose to the proposed amendments is to enable service corporations to commence certain types of securities brokerage activities, without preparing an application and obtaining individual Board approval. The amendments designate certain types of securities brokerage activities as preapproved service corporation activities.

Other alternatives, such as the present rules, may tend to prolong the waiting period for permission to engage in brokerage activities. More liberal provisions may raise questions of statutory authority.

The potential costs and benefits of the proposed regulation on the industry have not been quantified.

Abstract: The Board is proposing to amend its regulations governing institutions insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation by adopting a statement of policy and by amending its rules to clarify that insured institutions must account for securities held for investment sale and/or trading in accordance with generally acceptable accounting procedures ("GAAP"). The proposed policy statement requires an insured institution's board of directors to document and monitor its investment in policy and strategies; discuss the appropriate documentation of investment decisions; summarize GAAP applicable to securities held for investment,sale, and/or trading; and offer guidance on the application of GAAP by insured institutions in determining when securities should be accounted for as a security held for trading. The Board's intent is to provide guidance and clarifications to insured institutions on the accounting for and classification of investment in securities within the confines of existing accounting literature.

Abstract: The Bank Board proposes to amend its regulation pertaining to loans to one borrower in a number of ways, most significantly to reduce the amount of aggregate loans to one borrower that may be made by an institution the accounts of which are insured by the FSLIC. The proposal is intended to reduce risk to insured institutions and the FSLIC without depriving institutions of appropriate operational flexibility. To this end, the Board invites comment on all aspects of the proposal.

The Bank Board is soliciting comment on possible alternatives to the rule as proposed in addressing the concerns expressed above.

Legal Authority: 12 USC 1724 to 1730g

Abstract: The Bank Board has amended its regulations pertaining to the settlement of insurance by deleting the requirement that each co-owner of a joint account must personally execute a signature card for the account in order for the account to be separately insured. The Bank Board believes the present rule has caused hardship to depositors and added to the recordkeeping burden on institutions without appreciably reducing the risks of fraudulent claims of entitlement to separate joint account insurance coverage. The Bank Board amendments also consolidate provisions of its regulations governing joint accounts, clarify the provisions affecting joint accounts established by intermediaries and revise the appendix and examples illustrating joint account insurance coverage.

Section 1359 of the Anti-Drug Abuse Act of 1986, Pub.L.No. 99-570, required establishment of a Bank Secrecy Act compliance program by April 27, 1987.

Abstract: The Bank Board is proposing to amend for purposes of clarification, its recently adopted regulation which requires insured institutions to establish and maintain procedures to assure and monitor compliance with the requirements of the Bank Secrecy Act ("BSA"), including the Currency and Foreign Transactions Reporting Act and the implementing regulations of the U.S. Department of the Treasury, 31 CFR Part 103. The proposed rule sets forth in greater detail the elements required to be in a BSA compliance program, in particular, the requirements of BSA compliance testing and continuing education. The proposed rule would apply equally to all insured institutions.

The proposed rule for BSA compliance programs establishes a minimum system for verifying and encouraging compliance with the BSA in accordance with Congressional concern. Alternatively, the Bank Board could have required an in-depth audit of insured institutions' compliance by independent auditors. The Bank Board believes that such an alternative would have been less flexible and more restrictive for insured institutions. (cont)

Abstract: The Bank Board final amendments to its regulations regarding the disclosures and notices that lenders must give to borrowers concerning adjustable-rate mortgage ("ARM") home loans. The new rule changes the timing for the ARM disclosures and simplifies disclosures concerning the ARM program(s) being offered to the consumer but continues to use the ARM's handbook. The revision clarifies the Bank Board's regulation and implements the uniform disclosure of ARMs recommended by the Federal Financial Institutions Examination Council on August 12, 1986. The changes are being made in conjunction with the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System. Abstract: The Bank Board is adopting final amendments to its regulations to authorize the capital stock of the Federal Home Loan Bank ("Bank") to be represented in uncertificated, i.e. book entry form. Currently, the Regulations provide for Bank Stock to be issued in certificated form only, but on the basis of an earlier legal opinion by the Board's Office of General Counsel, some Banks are now issuing uncertificated stock. The amendment would clarify a Bank's authority both to issue uncertificated stock or convert certificated stock to book entry form. No Bank that converts to a book entry system will be required to issue stock in certificated form.

New fees are established for manual search, computer search, and review of records. In compliance with the FOI Reform Act, requesters are classified into four categories for the purposes of making fee assessments; commercial use requesters; educational and noncommercial scientific institution requesters; representatives of the news media; and all other requesters.

Abstract: The Bank Board is amending its regulations pertaining to financial option transactions by institutions whose accounts are insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation. Specifically, the Board is amending its regulations to allow insured institutions to engage in over-the-counter ("OTC") financial option transactions with certain types of counterparties in addition to primary dealers in government securities. The amendments are intended to allow insured institutions to use more effectively the authority previously granted to them to engage in OTC option transactions. Abstract: The Bank Board is promulgating as a final rule certain portions of the Proposed Receivership and Conservatorship Regulations that were published in the Federal Register of November 27, 1985. This final rule adopts 569c.11 of the Proposed Receivership Regulations (with certain technical modifications to accord with the administration of recent Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation ("FSLIC") receiverships), thereby establishing a priority structure for unsecured claims applicable to all FSLIC receiverships under a new Part 569c of Title 12 of the Code of Federal Regulations. This priority of claims structure replaces the provisions for priorities of unsecured claims in 12 CFR 549.5-1(b) and 569a.7.

Abstract: The Bank Board is promulgating as a final rule a revision to its receivership regulations at 12 CFR 569a.11(a)(6) to establish a priority for withdrawable deposits and accounts, including those of the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation ("FSLIC") as subrogee or transferee, over unsecured claims of general creditors in receiverships of federally chartered associations or savings banks in states that provide such a priority for depositors in State-chartered savings and loan associations.

In a final rule published in the Federal Register of July 5, 1988, the Board promulgated certain portions of the Proposed Receivership and Conservatorship Regulations that were published in the Federal Register of November 27, 1985. The final rule established a priority structure for unsecured claims applicable to all FSLIC receiverships under new Part 569c of Title 12 of the Code of Federal Regulations. Section 569c.11(a)(6) of that rule recognized State law priorities with respect to depositors for State-chartered institutions, including a provision in that section for depositor priority over claims of unsecured general creditors for FSLIC-insured institutions chartered by (con't)

Additional Information: those States with depositor preference legislation. This rule amends section 569.11 to recognize a depositor priority for deposits registered at offices of federally chartered institutions located in States with depositor preference legislation.

There are no alternatives that would be less burdensome than the regulation in addressing the concerns expressed above.

The potential costs and benefits of the regulation on the industry have not been quantified.

FEDERAL MARITIME COMMISSION (FMC)

FEDERAL MARITIME COMMISSION

46 CFR Ch. IV

Unified Regulatory Agenda

AGENCY: Federal Maritime Commission.

ACTION: Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations.

SUMMARY: Pursuant to section 5 of EO 12291 and the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), the Commission anticipates having under consideration during the period from October 1, 1988 to September 30, 1989 actions in the areas listed below.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: For further information concerning Commission rulemaking proceedings or the status of any matter listed below, contact: Joseph C. Polking, Secretary, 1100 L Street, NW., Washington, DC 20573, (202) 523-5725.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Section 602 of the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 602) requires the publication of an agenda of items for which regulatory agencies may propose or promulgate a rule which is likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. Section 5 of Executive Order 12291 also requires executive agencies to publish a regulatory agenda; the Commission voluntarily complies with this section.

The agendas include information on regulatory activities being conducted or reviewed during the succeeding 12 months by the Commission.

The following is the Commission's Unified Regulatory Agenda. The agenda does not necessarily include all petitions for rulemakings which are under staff review.

In addition, the Commission maintains a compilation of the status of pending rulemaking proceedings and a listing of rules that have become final since the publication of the most recent regulatory agenda. This will be made available to the public, including the press and interested persons.

Joseph C. Polking,

Secretary.

Notice of Semiannual Regulatory Flexibility Agenda

AGENCY: Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System.

ACTION: Semiannual agenda.

SUMMARY: The Board is issuing this Agenda under the Regulatory Flexibility Act and the Board's Statement of Policy Regarding Expanded Rulemaking Procedures. The Board anticipates having under consideration regulatory matters as indicated below during the period from October 1, 1988 through April 1, 1989. The next Semiannual Agenda will be published in April 1989.

DATE: Comments about the form or content of the Agenda may be submitted any time during the next six months.

ADDRESS: Comments should be addressed to William W. Wiles, Secretary of the Board, Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, Washington, DC 20551.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: A staff contact for each item is indicated with the regulatory description below.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Board is publishing its October 1988 Agenda as part of the October 1988 Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations, which is coordinated by the Office of Management and Budget under Executive Order 12291. Participation by the Board in the Unified Agenda is on a voluntary basis.

The Board's Agenda is divided into three sections. The first, Proposed Rule Stage, reports on matters the Board may consider for public comment during the next six months. The second section, Final Rule Stage, reports on matters that have been proposed and are under Board consideration. A third section, Completed Actions, reports on regulatory matters the Board has completed or is not expected to consider further.

A dot (●) preceding an entry indicates a new matter that was not a part of the Board's previous Agenda, and which the Board has not completed.

Barbara R. Lowrey,

Associate Secretary of the Board.

FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM (FRS) — Proposed Rule Stage

3771. REGULATION: E - ELECTRONIC FUND TRANSFERS

Legal Authority: 15 USC 1693 et seq Electronic Fund Transfer Act

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 205

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: During the next six months, the Board will conduct a review of Regulation E, which implements the Electronic Fund Transfer Act, and establishes the basic rights, liabilities, and responsibilities of consumers who use electronic fund transfer services and of financial institutions that offer these services (whether or not these institutions hold the consumer's account). The review will consider whether any provisions of the regulation are in need of updating and whether any substantive changes are necessary because of technological developments. The Board will also consider whether to make any legislative recommendations for statutory changes.

Public comment will be requested on any regulatory proposals that may be developed following the review. It is not anticipated that the revisions would have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small banks.

Legal Authority: 12 USC 601 et seq

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 211

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Board will consider an amendment to its regulation governing the establishment of foreign operating subsidiaries by member banks. The amendment would eliminate the requirement in section 211.3(b)(9) of Regulation K that a member bank's operating subsidiary be established only where required by local law or regulation. The revision is intended to promote the efficiency of member banks' foreign operations. Because the revision would remove a restriction, it is not anticipated that comment will be requested.

The proposal would not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small businesses because it affects only U.S. banks operating abroad.

Legal Authority: 12 USC 1843 (c)(13); 12 USC 601 to 604a; 12 USC 611 to 631

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 211

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Board will consider whether to publish for public comment a proposed amendment to Regulation K to permit U.S. banking organizations to engage in a broader range of activities abroad. Specifically, the Board will consider whether U.S. banking organizations should be permitted to underwrite, distribute, and deal in equity securities outside the United States in excess of the current restriction in Regulation K, which prohibits a subsidiary of a U.S. banking organization from making an underwriting commitment for shares of an issuer in excess of: (i) $2 million, or (ii) 20 percent of the capital and surplus of the issuer's voting shares, unless covered by binding commitments from subunderwriters or other purchasers.

In addition, the Board will consider whether the purchases of shares of companies held in trading accounts should continue to be subject to the investment procedures set out in Regulation K at 12 CFR 211.5(c).

It is not expected that the proposal would have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of

Legal Authority: 12 USC 1881 to 1884

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 216

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: During the next six months, the Board will conduct a zero-based review of Regulation P, which implements the Bank Protection Act of 1968, and establishes minimum security standards for Federal Reserve Banks and for State member banks. The review will consider whether any provisions of the regulation are outdated and whether any substantive changes are necessary because of new technological developments. The regulation will also be reorganized and revised for simplicity and clarity. Public comment will be requested following the zero-based review. It is not anticipated that the revised regulation will have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small banks.

Legal Authority: 15 USC 78g Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended; 15 USC 78w Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 220

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: During the next four months the Board may consider proposing amendments to Regulation T to accommodate settlement and clearance of foreign securities in accounts covered by Regulation T. A request has been made that amendments be proposed because of the growing internationalization of the securities markets. It is not anticipated that any proposals in this area would affect a significant portion of the overall lending activities of a substantial number of small firms.

Abstract: Several national securities exchanges have proposed trading new stock-index-related products, often called "index participations." Because these products may not fit the existing categories of securities in Regulation T, it is expected that the Board will address the marginability of these products at broker-dealers.

It is not anticipated that this proposal will affect a significant portion of the overall lending activities of a substantial number of small firms.

Legal Authority: 12 USC 1843 Bank Holding Company Act; 12 USC 1844(b) Bank Holding Company Act

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 225

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: A provision of Regulation Y permits a State bank subsidiary of a bank holding company to engage through a nonbank subsidiary in any activity that is permissible under State law for the bank subsidiary itself, subject to the same limits as if the bank engages in the activity directly. (A similar rule applies to national bank subsidiaries regarding activities permissible for such banks under Federal law.) The Board received comments on this provision in connection with its general request for comments in May 1983 regarding the proposed revision of Regulation Y. Some of the commenters challenged the Board's authority to issue this provision, although it has been part of Regulation Y since 1971. In taking final action on the revision of Regulation Y, the Board deferred consideration of the comments on this provision and allowed the existing rule to remain in effect in the interim (49 FR 794, January 5, 1984).

Legal Authority: 12 USC 4001 et seq

CFR Citation: None

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: In December 1987, the Board published for comment several proposals that have the potential to improve the check collection system (52 FR 47112, December 11, 1987). They are, however, long-term proposals that are not likely to be implemented in the immediate future. They include bar-code indorsements, digitized image processing of checks, electronic clearing zones, and an electronic clearing house.

If these were to be introduced, they would likely have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small banks and small entities including State and local governments that use their services.

The Board will review the public comments and take further action within the next twelve months.

3779. ● PRIVATE SECTOR PRESENTMENT (DOCKET NUMBER: R-0631)

Legal Authority: 12 USC 4008(c)

CFR Citation: None

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: In April 1988, the Board requested comment on whether it should require paying banks to pay for checks presented by private sector collecting banks before 2:00 p.m. in same-day funds and without imposing presentment fees (53 FR 11911, April 11, 1988). The purpose of such a regulation would be to speed the forward collection of checks by requiring paying banks to accept checks without charging a fee later in the day, thus increasing the number of checks that can be collected that day. It would give private sector collecting banks the same rights vis-a-vis paying banks as the Federal Reserve Banks now have.

The Board has not yet made a specific proposal to amend its regulation in this regard. Rather, it is merely requesting comment on the idea of same-day payment in private sector presentments. If such a regulation were to be adopted, small entities that might be affected include small banks and State and local governments.

The Board will review the public comments and determine whether to propose specific regulations.

Legal Authority: 12 USC 248(k); 12 USC 461(a)

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 204

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: In May 1986, the Board issued for comment rules to clarify the definition of "deposit" in Regulation D to include the interest or liability associated with a borrowing in the form of certain sales of assets and related transactions by a depository institution (51 FR 16855, May 7, 1986). These transactions include a sale of assets that involves a full guarantee by the institution that, in effect, substitutes the institution's credit standing for that of the ultimate borrower and in which the institution retains the risk of borrower default after the asset is sold.

Further, the regulation currently treats obligations of an affiliate as deposits of the depository institution to the extent the proceeds are provided to the depository institution. The Board proposes to exclude proceeds received from a sale of assets without recourse to the affiliate. The proposal also would clarify the application of Regulation D to certain of these transactions involving organizations effectively controlled by the depository institution even though not formally affiliated. Abstract: In June 1988, the Board issued for comment an amendment to Regulation H designed to facilitate the fullest possible dissemination of publicly available information regarding the condition of State member banks (53 FR 19308, June 3, 1988). The amendment would require such banks to make available upon request their year-end reports of condition or other suitable documents describing their condition.

The proposal is not likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small banks since it would impose no new reporting requirements, but simply require banks to make existing documents available to members of the public.

Legal Authority: 12 USC 611 et seq

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 211

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: In August 1985, the Board published for comment proposed regulations that would restrict lending by an Edge Corporation to its affiliates where the Edge Corporation is not subject to the restrictions of Section 23A of the Federal Reserve Act (12 USC 371c) because it is not owned by a U.S. insured bank (50 FR 35238, August 30, 1985). In taking this action, the Board noted the increasing number of owners of Edge Corporations that are not subject to Federal banking supervision and the potential adverse effects that might result from such affiliations, such as the impairment of the Edge's ability to act as an impartial arbiter of credit. The Board requested comment on the effect of the proposal on existing Edge Corporations, especially those owned by foreign banks and whether any exemptions from the restrictions are appropriate.

It is not expected that the proposal would have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small businesses, because it applies only to organizations involved in international banking. (CONT)

Abstract: In January 1986, the Board issued for comment proposals to clarify, update, and simplify the advertising provisions of Regulation Q (51 FR 1379, January 13, 1986). The revisions incorporate and supersede the proposals of March 1984 concerning advertising of split-rate deposits and IRA/Keogh (HR 10) Plan accounts. The proposal is not expected to have a significant adverse effect on small banks.

The Board will review the comments and is expected to take further action within the next four months.

It is also anticipated that the Board will consider at that time various options with regard to providing written disclosures to consumers about their accounts.

Abstract: In December 1986, the Board requested public comment on a proposal to permit bank holding companies to engage in real estate investment activities within certain limits (52 FR 543, January 7, 1987). The proposed limits are designed to ensure that conduct of the activity does not result in unsafe or unsound practices, unfair competition, conflicts of interest or other adverse effects.

The Board requested public comment on a number of specific items, including whether real estate investment activities may be deemed to be closely related to banking and a proper incident thereto for purposes of Section 4(c)(8) of the Bank Holding Company Act; whether the proposed limits on the size, scope, and manner in which the activity would be conducted are appropriate; whether nonbank companies owned by holding company banks should be prohibited from conducting these activities; and whether the Board should establish special capital requirements for bank holding companies that control banks directly engaged in these activities.

Abstract: In November 1987, the Board requested comment on whether, in evaluating proposals submitted under section 3 of the Bank Holding Company Act, the Board should consider the impact of real estate activities of the bank to be acquired by the bank holding company on the financial condition of the bank and bank holding company, and, where appropriate, should prohibit banks and savings banks that are acquired by bank holding companies from directly engaging in real estate investment and development activities (52 FR 42301, November 4, 1987).

The Board also requested comment on whether member banks that are not in a bank holding company should be made subject to the interaffiliate lending restrictions of section 23A of the Federal Reserve Act in their dealings with real estate investment and development subsidiaries of the bank.

Finally, the Board requested comment on whether the Board should impose special capital requirements on real estate subsidiaries of banks in a bank holding company, under the Board's authority in the International Lending Supervision Act. These three proposals supplement the Board's earlier (CONT)

Additional Information: ABSTRACT CONT: request for comment in December 1986 regarding whether the Board should permit bank holding companies to engage in real estate investment activities.

This proposal is not expected to have a significant economic impact on small companies because the Board believes that very few small banks are currently engaged in real estate investment and development activities, and bank holding companies are not generally permitted to engage in these activities.

In light of pending legislative proposals in this area, the Board does not intend to take action at the present time.

Abstract: In September 1987, the Board requested public comment on whether the Board should authorize bank holding companies to acquire thrift institutions as a general matter under section 4(c)(8) of the Bank Holding Company Act (52 FR 36041, September 25, 1987). The Board currently permits bank holding companies to acquire thrift institutions only if the thrift is failing or has failed, and the acquisiton is likely to result in revitalization of the thrift.

The Board has requested comment on whether changes in the economic and regulatory environment, in particular, the expansion of the powers of thrifts and the growth in state initiatives authorizing interstate banking, justify revisions of the Board's policy and the authorization of thrift acquisitions by bank holding companies. The Board also requested comment on what, if any, conditions the Board should impose on bank holding companies seeking to acquire thrifts.

The Board's proposal, if adopted, is not expected to impose a substantial economic burden on small bank holding companies because this action, if taken, would permit all bank (CONT)

Legal Authority: 12 USC 1843

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 225

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: In June 1988, the Board proposed for comment amendments to Regulation Y to implement the limitations on grandfathered nonbank banks and industrial banks set forth in the Competitive Equality Banking Act of 1987 (CEBA) (53 FR 21462, June 1, 1988). The limitations in CEBA on nonbank banks include restrictions on new activities, joint-marketing with affiliates, annual growth, and overdrafts. Only the overdraft restriction applies to industrial banks.

The overdraft restriction requires nonbank banks and industrial banks to keep records of their affiliates' transactions in order to measure overdrafts. Because the overdraft restriction is required by CEBA, small entities cannot be exempted from this recordkeeping requirement.

An informal hearing on the public comments was held on July 29, 1988. Further Board action is expected within the next six months.

Legal Authority: 15 USC 1604, as amended, Truth in Lending Act

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 226

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: In December 1987, the Board published a proposal to amend Regulation Z to require additional disclosures for home equity lines of credit (52 FR 48702, December 24, 1987). The disclosures would apply to home equity transactions secured by a consumer's principal dwelling and would be provided much earlier in the credit-granting process. Most of the public comments supported additional disclosure requirements but raised substantive questions about several aspects of the proposal.

In response to the comments, a revised draft was developed and circulated to those who commented on the December proposal. The revised draft is similar to the December proposal in requiring creditors to give more information about the terms and conditions of a home equity plan. In the case of variable rate plans, more information about the variable rate feature as well as an historical table showing the effects of index changes on interest rates over a fifteen-year period also would be provided.

Creditors also would have to give consumers a brochure that describes home equity loans.

If the Board adopts the revised proposal, small institutions engaged in home equity lending could incur additional expenses, including costs to revise and reprint disclosure forms and to acquire and distribute the home equity brochures.

Before adopting any final amendments to its rule, the Board would consider appropriate steps to minimize the burdens and costs of compliance. Although the revised proposal is ready for final action, the Board is delaying action because of legislation pending in Congress that would impose additional disclosure requirements and substantive restrictions on home equity loans.

Legal Authority: 12 USC 4001 et seq

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 229.36

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: In June 1988, the Board issued for comment a proposed amendment to Regulation CC that would prohibit banks from issuing teller's checks unless a depositary bank located in the same check processing region as the issuing bank would normally receive credit for the check as early as credit for a check drawn on the issuing bank (53 FR 24093, June 27, 1988). The purpose of the amendment is to address the problems connected with certain delayed disbursement practices.

The rule will affect all banks regardless of size. It is not expected that the proposal will impose significant costs on small banks other than the costs of changing paying banks and purchasing new check stock for those banks that do not currently meet the equivalent availability standards.

The Board will review the public comments and take further action within the next three months.

3790. FURTHER PROPOSALS TO REDUCE RISKS ON LARGE-DOLLAR WIRE TRANSFER SYSTEMS (DOCKET NUMBER: R-0592)

Legal Authority: 12 USC 221 et seq

CFR Citation: None

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: In December 1986, the Board requested comment on several proposals that would refine its policy statement on payment system risk (51 FR 45042, December 16, 1986). The proposals included modifying automated clearing house transactions to reduce risks (R-0591) and various proposals to charge a fee for daylight overdrafts as a way of reducing risks associated with them (R-0592). It is not expected that these actions will have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities, because small entities do not usually participate in large-dollar wire transfer systems. In December 1987, following review of public comments, the Board approved changes in the automated clearing house mechanism to reduce risk (52 FR 49086, December 29, 1987). Action on pricing of daylight overdrafts (Docket No. R-0592) is expected in the Fall of 1988.

Further, the Board will be conducting a zero-based review of its risk reduction policy during 1988.

Legal Authority: 12 USC 2804, Home Mortgage Disclosure Act of 1975

Abstract: In May 1988, the Board proposed for public comment amendments to Regulation C to implement Title V, section 565 of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1987 (53 FR 17061, May 13, 1988). Section 565 amends the Home Mortgage Disclosure Act to bring within its coverage mortgage banking subsidiaries of bank holding companies and savings and loan holding companies, as well as savings and loan service corporations. The regulatory amendments implement this expansion in coverage and clarify and simplify the regulation where necessary.

Following review of public comments, the Board, in August, adopted the amendments with minor revisions (53 FR 31683, August 19, 1988). It is not anticipated that the amendments will have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small institutions.

Legal Authority: 12 USC 321

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 208.8(e)

Abstract: The last Semi-Annual Agenda included a possible amendment to Regulation H designed to provide a decrease of approximately 20,000 burden hours in paperwork, as requested by the Office of Management and Budget. The regulation would be amended to raise the exemption from various record-keeping requirements in Regulation H for securities transactions, conducted by banks, from 200 to 1,000 transactions per year for customers over the prior three-calendar-year period, exclusive of transactions in U.S. Government and Federal agency obligations. This action would diminish burdens on smaller state member banks; therefore, the amendment would have no adverse effect on small banks. Abstract: In January 1986, the Board proposed to amend its Capital Adequacy Guidelines by adding a risk-based capital measure to supplement existing ratios of primary and total capital to total assets. Based in part on comments received in response to that earlier proposal the Board, in conjunction with the other Federal bank regulatory agencies and the central bank governors of the Group of Ten countries, published a revised capital proposal in December 1987, which would establish minimum risk-based capital standards applicable to commercial banking organizations in twelve major industrial countries.

In January 1988, the Board requested public comment on this revised proposal and, in particular, on how it should be applied to member banks of the Federal Reserve System and to bank holding companies.

The proposed risk-based capital framework consists of a revised definition of capital, a system for assigning assets and off-balance sheet items to risk categories, and a schedule for establishing minimum risk-based capital ratios (7.25 percent by year-end 1990, and 8.0 percent by year-end 1992). Additional Information: ABSTRACT CONT: proposal also provides for transitional arrangements and a phase-in period to facilitate adoption and implementation of the measure.

This proposal has been designed to take account of those practices which have been engaged in primarily by larger banking organizations. Moreover, the major parts of the proposal have been structured to apply generally only to bank holding companies with assets of $150 million or more. Consequently, the proposal is not likely to have a significant economic impact on smaller banking organizations.

On August 3, 1988, the Board approved in principle revisions to the guidelines, based in part on the comments received on the initial proposal, as well as on additional discussions with the other central bank authorities. In connection with the above determinations, the Board has decided to study further the possible effect of any voting rights offered with a security on the percentage caps assigned to certain classes of securities within the risk-based capital framework.

Legal Deadline: Final, Statutory, September 1, 1988.

Abstract: In December 1987, the Board proposed for public comment a new rule, Regulation CC, to implement the Expedited Funds Availability Act (52 FR 47112, December 11, 1987). The proposal set out the requirements that banks and other depository institutions make funds deposited into accounts available according to specified time schedules and that institutions disclose their funds availability policies to their customers. The proposed regulation also establishes rules to speed the return of unpaid checks. The Board also proposed to amend its existing Regulation J, which governs the collection of checks by Federal Reserve Banks, to conform to the new regulation. The proposed Regulation CC and the amendments to Regulation J would apply to all depository institutions, regardless of size, except that small institutions that do not hold transaction accounts would be exempt from the availability, disclosure, and payment of interest requirements.

In a related action (Docket Number R-0621), the Board requested comment on new Federal Reserve Bank services to assist institutions in complying with the new regulations. (CONT)

Abstract: The Board's Rules Regarding Availability of Information are intended in part to fulfill the requirement of section 552 of Title 5 of the United States Code that every Federal agency publish in the Federal Register its procedures as to how the public may obtain information, make submittals or requests, and obtain decisions; information on how the agency's functions are channeled and determined; and descriptions of forms available and the places where they may be obtained.

The revision, issued for public comment in April 1987 and adopted in June 1988, reorganizes the rules into appropriate subparts, and clarifies the procedures for requesting access to documents and information, the processing and disposition of such requests, and the procedures regarding the discretionary release of confidential information (53 FR 20812, June 1, 1988). The revision is not expected to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities that would be subject to the regulation.

Semiannual Regulatory Agenda

AGENCY: Federal Trade Commission.

ACTION: Semiannual regulatory agenda.

SUMMARY: The following agenda of Commission proceedings is published in accordance with section 22(d)(1) of the Federal Trade Commission Act, 15 U.S.C. 57b-3(d)(1), and section 610(c) of the Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 610(c). Each projected event reflects the FTC staff's assessment of events that it expects will occur in the listed proceedings during the coming year. No Commission determination on the need for or the substance of a trade regulation rule or any other procedural option should be inferred from the projected events included in this agenda.

Several agenda items concern proceedings that may affect a substantial number of small businesses as that term is used in the Regulatory Flexibility Act. Whether any such proceeding will result in a rule which is likely to have a significant economic impact on such entities depends upon final Commission determinations on the need for and the substance of a trade regulation rule.

Except for notice of completed actions, the information in this agenda represents the judgment of Commission staff, based upon information now available. These views should not be regarded as a final staff position, nor should they be attributed to the Commission itself. The Commission will address the issues presented on the rulemaking record in the final consideration of each proceeding.

Agenda items include the projected timing of certain future actions. In most instances the dates of future events are listed by month, not a specific day. Further details may be obtained from the agency contact responsible for a particular proceeding. Discovery of new information, change of circumstances, or changes in the law may alter the information set forth in this agenda.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Further details may be obtained from the agency contact responsible for a particular proceeding.

By direction of the Commission.

Abstract: The rule states that sellers of consumer goods or services with a purchase price of $25.00 or more who sell away from their place of business must furnish to the buyer certain information regarding the buyer's right to cancel sales within three business days and must give the buyer a full refund of any down payment upon the buyer's cancellation. The rule requires a seller to furnish the buyer with a complete receipt or copy of a contract, along with a notice informing the buyer of the right to cancel the transaction, and to furnish the buyer with a completed Notice of Cancellation. The rule is intended to benefit consumers by permitting them to reflect on their purchase and the terms of any contract, to compare the purchase with offerings of other sellers, and to ascertain the accuracy of any representations made. The resulting costs to sellers include the costs associated with cancellation (processing cancelled orders, returning downpayments, retrieving delivered goods, and returning traded-in merchandise) and the additional cost of printing the required cancellation notices. Abstract: The Commission's rule concerning mail order merchandise was promulgated on October 22, 1975. The rule requires mail order sellers to possess a reasonable basis for any claims made concerning shipping date or, in the absence of any specifically stated date, to ship the ordered merchandise within thirty (30) days of receipt of an order. In the event of delays in shipment, the rule establishes notification procedures whereby buyers have the option either to agree to the delay or to cancel the order and receive a prompt refund. The Commission's rule is designed to address a number of significant consumer problems described on the record of the rulemaking proceeding, including failure to deliver ordered merchandise, unexplained delays in delivery, failure to make prompt (or any) refunds upon cancellation of an order, and inability to obtain responses to inquiries about pending orders. The rule enables consumers to obtain ordered merchandise within a reasonable time period or, if delays occur, to cancel the order and obtain a prompt refund, so that losses due to undelivered merchandise, delays, and inadequate or nonexistent refunds can be avoided. By subjecting sellers (cont)

of cancellation, the rule may provide competitive benefits, since buyers may shift their business to more efficient merchants. Costs relating to the rule may include the cost of establishing a system for monitoring and recording orders, deliveries, delays, cancellations, consents to delays, and refunds; the costs of complying with the rule's notification requirements regarding delays (printing, postage, etc.); the cost of processing refunds; and additional inventory costs. Pursuant to Sec. 610 of the Regulatory Flexibility Act, the Commission has reviewed this rule and determined that it has not had a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. In addition, the staff is considering whether the rule should be amended to cover orders placed by telephone or other electronic means. Whether changes to the rule will be proposed will not be determined until the staff's review has been completed.

3799. INFORMAL DISPUTE SETTLEMENT PROCEDURES

Legal Authority: 15 USC 2309; 15 USC 2310(a)(2) Magnuson-Moss Warranty--FTC Improvements Act

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 703

Abstract: The Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act, enacted on January 4, 1975, requires that the Federal Trade Commission promulgate a rule prescribing the minimum requirements for any informal dispute settlement procedure which is incorporated into the terms of a written warranty subject to the Act. Because warrantors are not required to incorporate such procedures into warranties, the rule applies only to warrantors who choose to do so. The present rule sets forth detailed procedural, recordkeeping, and reporting requirements for dispute settlement mechanisms designed to insure their fairness. To assess whether any changes are needed, the Commission conducted a regulatory negotiation process in which an advisory committee was charged to recommend to the Commission revisions to the rule that would facilitate the Congressional (cont)

3800. REVIEW OF THE FUNERAL INDUSTRY PRACTICES RULE

Legal Authority: 15 USC 45; 15 USC 46(g); 15 USC 57(a)

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 453

Abstract: The funeral industry practices rule, which became effective on April 30, 1984, seeks to increase consumer access to accurate information about prices and legal requirements prior to and at the time of purchase of funeral goods and services. The Rule: (1) requires funeral directors to provide consumers with itemized pre-sale disclosures; (2) prohibits misrepresentation of legal and cemetery requirements and the preservative or protective value of embalming, caskets, and vaults; (3) prohibits funeral directors from requiring a casket for cremations, or any other tie-in arrangements; (4) prohibits funeral directors from charging for goods and services not specifically ordered, such as embalming, unless required by law; and (5) requires funeral directors to give, on request, price information over the telephone. The Rule provides that no later than four years after its effective date, the Commission will begin a rulemaking to determine whether the Rule should be amended or terminated. The Commission has issued the Notice of Proposed Rulemaking and scheduled the other stages of that proceeding.

3801. AMENDMENT TO TRADE REGULATION RULE CONCERNING PRESERVATION OF CONSUMERS CLAIMS AND DEFENSES ("HOLDER-IN-DUE COURSE RULE")

Legal Authority: 15 USC 45 Federal Trade Commission Act; 15 USC 57(a) Federal Trade Commission Act

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 433

Abstract: The objective of the proposed amendment is to ensure that a purchaser's duty to pay is not separated from sellers' duty to perform when consumer sales are financed by third party creditors or purchase money lenders. The original rule requires sellers to ensure that credit contracts used in consumer installment sales and purchase money loans contain a provision that makes any holder of the contract subject to all legal claims and defenses related to the sale transaction which the buyer may have against the seller. The proposed amendment would extend to creditors the obligation to ensure that credit contracts contain the required provision. Benefits from the proposed amendments may include improvement in the retail market due to increased scrutiny by creditors of the sellers with whom they do business and availability to consumers of additional claims and defenses against creditors. Some creditors may have increased costs associated with screening contracts and monitoring the reputations of retailers with whom they deal. Alternatives considered by the Commission include: rejection of the amendment; postponement of decision pending additional information on (cont)

Legal Authority: 15 USC 18a Clayton Act

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 801; 16 CFR 802; 16 CFR 803; 16 CFR 803, (Apendix)

Abstract: The Premerger Notification Rules and the Antitrust Improvements Act Notification and Report Form were adopted pursuant to Section 7A of the Clayton Act. Section 7A requires firms of a certain size contemplating mergers or acquisitions of a specified size to file notification with the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) and the Department of Justice (DOJ) and to wait a designated period before consummating the transaction. It also requires the FTC, with the concurrence of the Assistant Attorney General for Antitrust, to promulgate rules requiring that notification be in a form and contain information necessary to enable the FTC and DOJ to determine whether the proposed acquisition may, if consummated, violate the antitrust laws. These rules are continually reviewed in order to improve the program's effectiveness and reduce the paperwork burden on the business community. In November 1988, the Commission may propose to amend these rules to exempt the acquisition of small percentages of an issuer's voting securities and two alternative amendments that would provide other special treatment for acquisitions of small percentages of voting securities. of-winning and prize information in broadcast and print advertisements, as well as in point of sale information. In January, 1983, the Commission granted a temporary partial exemption to allow supermarkets and gas stations to advertise their games on radio and television without disclosing full information on prizes and odds-of-winning. In addition, the Commission also published an advance notice of proposed rulemaking on whether to make the broadcast exemption permanent. Finally, the Commission has proposed to reduce the recordkeeping requirements of the rule from three years to one year in keeping with the goals of the Paperwork Reduction Act, and requested public comment on other possible areas where amendments to the rule may be appropriate. The rule benefits consumers by allowing contestants to enter games of chance with full knowledge of all material information to enable equal competition for (cont)

Legal Authority: 15 USC 45 Federal Trade Commission Act; 15 USC 57(a) Federal Trade Commission Act

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 456, (Revision)

Abstract: In January, 1985, The Commission Published an NPRM seeking public comment on a proposed trade regulation rule that would have the effect of superseding certain state-imposed restrictions on the forms of practice and other business aspects of the delivery of eye care to consumers. The hearings have been completed and the reports required by the Commission's rules have been submitted. On February 10, 1988, the Commission voted to promulgate a trade regulation rule that would prohibit certain state restrictions on optometrists' commercial practices. The rule would remove four state restrictions, including those that ban optometrists from having offices in shopping centers. The Commission also voted to continue requiring eye doctors to give consumers their eyeglass prescriptions automatically. The recommended rule would also prohibit the following state restrictions: (1) limitations on the number of branch offices that optometrists may own or operate; (2) prohibitions on the practice of optometry in commercial locations, such as shopping malls; (3) prohibitions on employer-employee or other affiliations between optometrists and persons who are not (cont)

3805. RETAIL FOOD STORE ADVERTISING AND MARKETING PRACTICES

Legal Authority: 15 USC 41 et seq Federal Trade Commission Act

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 424

Abstract: The Commission's Rule on Retail Food Store Advertising and Marketing Practices states that it is a violation of Section 5 of the Federal Trade Commission Act for grocery stores to advertise products at a particular price unless such products are in stock and conspicuously and readily available for sale at the advertised price during the effective period of the advertisement. If a store runs out of advertised products, it is in violation of the rule even if the store noted the limitations on availability in its advertisement and even if the store provides rainchecks or substitute items. The rule is intended to benefit consumers by ensuring that advertised items are available, that advertising-induced purchasing trips are not fruitless, and that store prices accurately reflect the prices appearing in the ads. The rule may cause costs to be incurred in maintaining sufficient inventory to meet anticipated demand, and costs associated with the monitoring of price changes, changing marked prices, training employees to comply with the rule and keeping records to prove compliance. (cont)

The staff concluded from a careful review of the rule's effects that the costs the rule imposes on consumers in the form of higher grocery prices significantly exceeds its benefits. On April 21, 1988, the Commission decided to modify the rule so that a store could comply by clearly and adequately disclosing in its advertisements that there are limitations on availability, or by offering rainchecks or substitute items if supplies run out. The Commission expects to publish a final rule as amended with a statement of basis and purpose before the end of 1988.

3806. APPLIANCE LABELING RULE -- ENERGY POLICY AND CONSERVATION ACT

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6294 National Energy Conservation Policy Act; PL 94-163 Energy Policy and Conservation Act, Sec 324, 1975

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 305

Abstract: The Energy Policy and Conservation Act (EPCA) required the Commission to consider labeling rules for the disclosure of energy information, based on standard test procedures prescribed by the Department of Energy, for at least 13 categories of major household appliances. The Commission adopted a labeling rule for seven appliance categories: (1) refrigerators and refrigerator- freezers; (2) freezers; (3) dishwashers; (4) clothes washers; (5) water heaters; (6) room air conditioners; and (7) furnaces. The Commission exempted five other categories of appliances. In 1987, the Commission amended the rule to include central air conditioners and heat pumps and to include two new types of furnace under the rule's coverage. The provisions took effect on June 7, 1988. Since the Commission's rule implements the requirements of EPCA, most of the costs imposed on industry members may not be attributable to the rule. The rule applies mainly to manufacturers of household appliances but does impose some burdens on distributors and retailers. Some of those entities may be small businesses under section 610 of the Regulatory Flexibility Act. Therefore, the Commission (cont)

Legal Authority: 15 USC 45 Federal Trade Commission Act; 15 USC 57(a) Federal Trade Commission Act

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 438, (New)

Abstract: In 1979, the Second Circuit Court of Appeals set aside the rule as originally issued by the Commission, citing problems with some of the remedies that the rule provided to purchasers of proprietary vocational training. Late in 1987, the Staff forwarded recommendations as to how the Commission should respond to the Court's decision. Alternatives include terminating the rule or issuing a revised rule. Alternatives to rulemaking include case-by-case enforcement, and FTC intervention before other state and federal agencies having jurisdiction over vocational schools to prevent deceptive practices. After an extensive review of the proceeding, the Commission concluded that the rule should be withdrawn and the proceeding ended due to the age of the record and the fact that the Department of Education had informally proposed new regulations applicable to all schools participating in the Guaranteed Student Loan Program addressing the same issues. Two members of the Commission also cited as a basis for the decision their belief that the record was inadequate to support the rule. Commissioner Strenio dissented from the decision (cont)

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 300, (Wool); 16 CFR 301, (Fur); 16 CFR 303, (Textile)

Abstract: The Wool Products Labeling Act of 1939 Requires all wool products to bear a label showing the percentage of wool, recycled wool, and non-wool fibers contained in the product and the name of the manufacturer or other distributor. The Textile Fiber Products Identification Act requires each household textile product to bear a label showing the percentage of each fiber contained in the product, using the appropriate generic name for the fiber, and the name of the manufacturer or distributor. Advertisements for textile products must also show the required information if any mention of fiber content is made. Both acts require disclosure of country of origin. The Fur Products Labeling Act requires that all furs and fur products be labeled, invoiced, and advertised to show the true name of the animal that produced the fur, whether the fur is used, dyed, or imported, and the name of the manufacturer or distributor. The three acts, as well as the Commission's rules implementing them, apply to manufacturers, distributors, and retailers of textile, wool, and fur products. (cont)

Abstract: The Fair Packaging and Labeling Act, 15 USC 1453-1455, was passed in 1968 to eliminate consumer confusion and deception and to enable consumers to obtain accurate information as to the quantity of package contents and to facilitate value comparisons. The FTC has enforcement responsibility over package disclosures placed on "consumer commodities" as defined in the FPLA. The Commission has reviewed its rules implementing the FPLA in accordance with the Regulatory Flexibility Act. At the end of that review, the Commission concluded that the record contained insufficient evidence that the FPLA rules had had a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.

[Ex Parte No. 420 (Sub-No. 15)]

Semiannual Regulatory Agenda

AGENCY: Interstate Commerce Commission.

ACTION: Notice of semiannual regulatory agenda to be part of a Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations.

SUMMARY: Pursuant to OMB Bulletin No. 88-15, issued under section 6(b) of E.O. 12291 to implement the provisions of section 5 of the Executive Order concerning Regulatory Agendas, the Commission is publishing an agenda of (1) current and projected rulemakings, and (2) existing regulations being reviewed to determine whether to propose modifications through rulemaking. Listed below are the regulatory actions to be developed or reviewed during the next 12 months. Following each rule identified is a brief description of the rule including its purpose and legal basis.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: A contact person is identified for each of the rules listed below.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: A list of proceedings appears below containing information about subject areas in which the Commission is currently conducting rulemaking proceedings or may institute such proceedings in the near future. It also contains information about existing regulations being reviewed to determine whether to propose modifications through rulemaking.

The agenda also identifies regulations likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of "small entities." Accordingly, this information will satisfy the requirements of section 602 of the Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 602.

Finally, this agenda will comprise part of a Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations compiled by the Office of Management and Budget which is to be published in a single issue of the Federal Register in October 1988. The purpose of the Unified Agenda is to provide the public with more comprehensive documentation of the Federal government's current regulatory plans, and to provide a systematic means of monitoring regulatory activity in each agency.

This notice is issued pursuant to 49 U.S.C. 10321 and 5 U.S.C. 553.

Decided: August 5, 1988.

By the Commission, Chairman Gradison, Vice Chairman Andre, Commissioners Sterrett, Simmons, and Lamboley.

Legal Authority: 49 USC 10505

CFR Citation: 49 CFR 1039

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: 49 USC 10505 requires that the Commission exempt from regulation the movement by rail of traffic for which it finds continued regulation no longer necessary to serve the Nation's transportation policy objectives and to protect shippers from abuse of market power by the railroads. In examining the transportation characteristics and markets of various commodities moving by rail, there appear to be many products for which sufficient competition exists among transportation alternatives so that regulation may no longer be necessary. Exemption of such commodities should provide increased rate and service flexibility for railroads to meet shippers' needs and to compete more effectively for the subject traffic. Anticipated benefits include lower rates and improved service, at a possible "cost" of increased price instability and competition to alternative transport firms.

Semiannual Regulatory Agenda

NATIONAL CREDIT UNION ADMINISTRATION (NCUA)

NATIONAL CREDIT UNION ADMINISTRATION

12 CFR Ch. VII

Semiannual Agenda of Regulations

AGENCY: National Credit Union Administration ("NCUA").

ACTION: Semiannual agenda of regulations.

SUMMARY: Pursuant to its ongoing policy of reviewing regulations, NCUA is publishing a list of current and projected rulemaking, reviews of existing regulations, and completed actions as of June 30, 1988. NCUA will also include this agenda in the "Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations."

DATE: This information is current as of June 30, 1988.

ADDRESS: National Credit Union Administration, 1776 G Street, NW., Washington, DC 20456.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: For each regulation listed, the person(s) named in the listing, at the above address.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The purpose of this agenda is to enable credit unions and the public to follow regulatory development and review at NCUA and to enable interested parties to more effectively participate in that process. The agenda is divided into three parts: (1) Actions completed since the last agenda; (2) actions proposed but not completed; and (3) actions planned but not yet proposed to the NCUA Board. Interpretive Rulings and Policy Statements (IRPS) and Guidelines promulgated by NCUA are also included in the agenda.

The agenda is published pursuant to NCUA Interpretive Ruling and Policy Statement Number 87-2 ("Developing and Reviewing Government Regulations," 52 FR 35231, September 18, 1987). Executive Order No. 12291 does not require independent executive agencies such as NCUA to publish a regulatory agenda, but NCUA has voluntarily decided to do so by including this agenda in the Office of Management and Budget's next publication of its "Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations."

Approved by the NCUA Board on July 27, 1988.

Becky Baker,

Secretary of the Board.

Semiannual Regulatory Agenda

NUCLEAR REGULATORY COMMISSION (NRC)

NUCLEAR REGULATORY COMMISSION

10 CFR Ch. I

Regulatory Agenda

AGENCY: Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

ACTION: Semiannual publication of NRC regulatory agenda.

SUMMARY: The Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) is publishing its semiannual Regulatory Agenda in accordance with Pub. L. 96-354, "the Regulatory Flexibility Act," and Executive Order 12291, "Federal Regulations." The agenda is a compilation of all rules on which the NRC has recently completed action or has proposed or is considering action. This issuance updates any action occurring on rules since publication of the last semiannual agenda on April 25, 1988 (53 FR 14692).

ADDRESSES: Comments on any rule in the agenda may be sent to the Secretary of the Commission, U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission, Washington, DC 20555, Attention: Docketing and Service Branch. Comments may also be hand delivered between 7:30 a.m. and 4:15 p.m. Comments received on rules for which the comment period has closed will be considered if it is practical to do so, but assurance of consideration cannot be given except as to comments received on or before the closure dates specified in the agenda.

The agenda and any comments received on any rule listed in the agenda are available for public inspection and copying at a cost of ten cents per page at the Nuclear Regulatory Commission's Public Document Room, 2120 L Street, NW., Washington, DC 20555. Single copies of the NRC quarterly agenda can be purchased from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Post Office Box 37082, Washington, DC 20013-7082. Customers may call (202) 275-2060 or (202) 275-2171.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: For further information concerning NRC rulemaking procedures or the status of any rule listed in this agenda, contact Juanita Beeson, Chief, Rules Review and and Editorial Section, Regulatory Publications Branch, Division of Freedom of Information and Publications Services, Office of Administration and Resources Management, U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission, Washington, DC 20555, Telephone (301) 492-8926. Persons outside the Washington, DC, metropolitan area may call toll-free: (800) 368-5642. For further information on the substantive content of any rule listed in the agenda, contact the individual listed under the heading "Agency Contact" for that rule.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Although publication of the agenda is only required semiannually in April and October, the NRC has chosen to update and publish its agenda each quarter. However, the information contained in this semiannual publication is updated to reflect any action which has occurred on rules since publication of the last NRC semiannual agenda on April 25, 1988 (53 FR 14692).

Within each group, the rules are ordered from the lowest to the highest part within Title 10 of the Code of Federal Regulations (Title 10) and when more than one rule appears under the same part, the rules are arranged within that part according to the date of most recent publication. If a rule contains changes to more than one Title 10 part, the rule is listed under the lowest affected part.

The information in this agenda has been updated through August 24, 1988. The date under the heading, "Timetable," for the next scheduled action is the date the rule is scheduled to be published in the Federal Register. The date is considered tentative and is not binding on the Commission or its staff. This regulatory agenda is intended to provide the public early notice and opportunity to participate in the NRC rulemaking process. However, the NRC may consider or act on any rulemaking even though it is not included in the regulatory agenda.

Rulemakings Approved by the Executive Director for Operations (EDO)

The Executive Director for Operations (EDO) initiated a procedure for the review of the regulations being prepared by staff offices that report to him to ensure that staff resources were being allocated to achieve most effectively NRC's regulatory priorities. This procedure requires EDO approval before staff resources may be expended on the development of any new rulemaking. Furthermore, all existing rules must receive EDO approval prior to the commitment of additional resources.

Rules that have received EDO approval to date are identified by the symbol (+) at the beginning of the title. As additional rules receive EDO approval, they will be identified in subsequent editions of this agenda.

The NRC agenda lists rulemaking actions. Of these, no rulemaking items are considered to be priority or major as defined in section 1(b) of Executive Order 12291.

Seven rules potentially will have a "significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities" as defined in the Regulatory Flexibility Act.

Dated at Bethesda, Maryland, this 25th day of August 1988.

For the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

John D. Philips,

Acting Director, Division of Freedom of Information and Publications Services, Office of Administration and Resources Management.

NUCLEAR REGULATORY COMMISSION (NRC) — Prerule Stage

3861. RADIOACTIVE WASTE BELOW REGULATORY CONCERN; GENERIC RULEMAKING

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 2; 10 CFR 20

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The advance notice of proposed rulemaking sought comments on a proposal to amend NRC regulations to address disposal of radioactive wastes that contain sufficiently low quantities of radionuclides that their disposal does not need to be regulated as radioactive.

The NRC has already published a policy statement providing guidance for filing petitions for rulemaking to exempt individual waste streams (August 29, 1986; 51 FR 30839). It is believed that generic rulemaking could provide a more efficient and effective means of dealing with disposal of wastes below regulatory concern. Generic rulemaking would supplement the policy statement which was a response to Section 10 of the Low-Level Radioactive that Policy Amendment Act of 1985 (Pub. L. 99-240). The public will be asked to comment on 14 questions. The ANPRM requests public comment on several alternative approaches that the NRC could take. The evaluation of public comment together with the results from a proposed research contract will help to determine whether and how NRC should proceed on the matter.

NUCLEAR REGULATORY COMMISSION (NRC) — Proposed Rule Stage

3862. TRANSPORTATION REGULATIONS: COMPATIBILITY WITH THE INTERNATIONAL ATOMIC ENERGY AGENCY (IAEA)

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2073; 42 USC 2093; 42 USC 2111; 42 USC 2232; 42 USC 2233; 42 USC 2273; 42 USC 5842

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 71

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule, would in conjunction with a corresponding rule change by the U.S. Department of Transportation, make the United States Federal regulations for the safe transportation of radioactive material consistent with those of the International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA). The IAEA regulations can be found in IAEA Safety Series No. 6 "Regulations for the Safe Transport of Radioactive Material," 1985 Edition.

Consistency in transportation regulations throughout the world facilitates the free movement of radioactive materials between countries for medical, research, industrial, and nuclear fuel cycle purposes. Consistency of transportation regulations throughout the world also contributes to safety by concentrating the efforts of the world's experts on a single set of safety standards and guidance (those of the IAEA) from which individual countries can develop their domestic regulations. Perhaps as important, the accident experience of every country that bases it domestic regulations on those of the IAEA can be applied by every other country with consistent regulations to improve its safety program. The action will be handled as(cont)

These changes should result in a minimal increase in costs to affected licensees. Proposed changes to 10 CFR Part 71, based on current IAEA regulations, will be issued for public comments. The task will be scheduled over a 2-year interval ending January 1989 and will consume 2-3 staff years of effort, depending on the number and difficulty of conflicts to be resolved.

3863. ● NIGHT FIRING QUALIFICATIONS FOR SECURITY GUARDS AT NUCLEAR POWER PLANTS

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 73

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would ensure that security force effectiveness at nuclear power plants is not dependent on the time of day. Security guards currently are required to perform night firing for familiarization only. There is no requirement for standards to measure their effectiveness. The proposed rule would change that by requiring that security guards at nuclear power plants qualify for night firing. The only alternative to rulemaking is to retain the current status.

Part 73, Appendix B, Part IV, will be amended to require reactor security guards to qualify annually in an NRC-approved night firing course with their assigned weapons. The proposed amendment will standardize training and qualification in night firing and prepare power reactor guard forces to more effectively respond in the event of an incident occurring in limited lighting conditions. The cost to industry should be relatively modest since licensees already operate daylight firing training and qualification facilities and programs. The costs to NRC will also be minimal because it will only

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 4

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend regulations concerning the enforcement of section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, as amended, in Federally assisted programs or activities to include a cross reference to the Uniform Federal Accessibility Standards (UFAS). This action is necessary because some facilities subject to the new construction or alteration requirements under section 504 are also subject to the Architectural Barriers Act. Therefore, reference to UFAS by all government agencies would diminish the possibility that recipients of Federal financial assistance would face conflicting enforcement standards.

3865. REVISION OF DEFINITION OF MEETING

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 9

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would return the definition of "meeting" to its pre-1985 wording. The proposal is based on a study of comments submitted on an interim final rule published on May 21, 1985 (50 FR 20889), and the 1987 recommendations and report of the American Bar Association (ABA). Since the pre-1985 wording of the definition of meeting is fully adequate to permit the types of non-Sunshine Act discussions that the NRC believes would be useful, the proposal calls for the NRC to reinstitute its pre-1985 definition of meeting, with the intention of conducting its non-Sunshine Act discussions in accordance with the guidelines recommended by the ABA.

3866. ● FITNESS FOR DUTY PROGRAM

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 26

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would create a new part to the Commission's regulations to require licensees authorized to operate nuclear power reactors to implement a fitness for duty program that will provide reasonable assurance that activities associated with nuclear power plant operations are carried out in an environment that is free from the effects of alcohol and drug abuse. The proposed rule provides for basic fitness for duty program elements such as the development of written policy and procedures, provisions for the training of supervisors and employees, standards for drug testing requirements for employee assistance programs, management actions, and appeal procedures.

The proposed rule represents the culmination of several years of effort in developing a fitness for duty program. On August 5, 1982, the Commission published a proposed rule (47 FR 27921). On December 1, 1987, the Commission was briefed on the experiences gained to date under the policy statement and on the status of implementation. The Commission then

The estimated incremental cost to industry is between $160.7 million and $243.3 million for the life of the current plants. NRC costs to review and oversee implementation and operation of the programs will involve 6 staff persons for a cost between $4 million and $6 million for a 25-year period.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2111; 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 35

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Nuclear Regulatory Commission is considering whether to amend its regulations to require a comprehensive quality assurance program for medical licensees using byproduct materials. The purpose of this rulemaking action is to address each source of error that can lead to a misadministration. An advance notice of proposed rulemaking was published to request public comment on the extent to which, in addition to the basic quality assurance steps (being addressed by another rulemaking action, entitled "Basic Quality Assurance in Radiation Therapy"), a more comprehensive quality assurance requirement is needed and invites advice and recommendations on about 20 questions that will have to be addressed in the rulemaking process.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 035

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Commission is considering whether its training and experience criteria for individuals involved in medical use of byproduct material need to be revised. Rulemaking may be needed to reduce the change of misadministrations. The Commission may proceed with rulemaking, assist in the development of national voluntary training standards, or issue a policy statement recommending increased licensee attention to training. If the Commission proceeds with rulemaking, the NRC could publish criteria in its regulations or recognize medical specialty certificates. The NRC is not able to project costs or benefits at this time, and has requested cost/benefit comments in an Advance Notice of Proposed Rulemaking published May 25, 1988. The NRC staff will analyze the comments received before recommending whether regulatory action is necessary.

3869. CRITERIA FOR LICENSING THE CUSTODY AND LONG-TERM CARE OF URANIUM MILL TAILINGS SITES

Legal Authority: 42 USC 5841; 42 USC 5842; 42 USC 5846

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 40

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would provide a procedure to license a custodian for the post-closure, long-term control of uranium mill tailings sites required by the Uranium Mill Tailings Radiation Control Act of 1978 (UMTRCA). This amendment would establish a general license for custody and long-term care of uranium mill tailings by the Department of Energy, other designated Federal agencies, or States when applicable. The general license would be formulated so that it would become effective for a particular site when (1) NRC concurs in the DOE determination that the site has been properly constructed and (2) a surveillance and maintenance plan that meets the requirements of the general license has been received by NRC. No impact to the public or industry is expected as a result of this proposed action.

3870. ELIMINATION OF INCONSISTENCIES BETWEEN NRC REGULATIONS AND EPA STANDARDS

Legal Authority: 42 USC 10101

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 60

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Nuclear Waste Policy Act of 1982 (NWPA) directs NRC to promulgate criteria for the licensing of high-level waste (HLW) geologic repositories. Section 121(c) of this act states that these criteria must be consistent with standards to be developed by EPA for the disposal of HLW in deep geologic repositories. The proposed rule is needed in order to eliminate several inconsistencies with the EPA standards, thus fulfilling the statutory requirement.

Because the NWPA directs NRC to eliminate inconsistencies between Part 60 and the EPA standard, the alternatives to the proposed action are limited by statute.

The public, industry, and NRC will benefit from eliminating inconsistencies in Federal HLW regulations. NRC resources needed would be several staff years but will not include contract resources.

Because the Federal Court invalidated the EPA standards, action on this rule, which is in response to the EPA standards, is undetermined.

3871. REGULATION OF URANIUM ENRICHMENT FACILITIES

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 76

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Nuclear Regulatory Commission is considering an amendment to its regulations to create a new part that would pertain to uranium enrichment facilities. The construction and operation of these facilities are currently licensed under the NRC regulations for other production and utilization facilities (e.g., nuclear power plants) in 10 CFR Part 50. The advance notice of proposed rulemaking seeks comments on whether a separate set of regulations for uranium licensing is desirable.

3872. ● EXTENSION OF TIME FOR THE IMPLEMENTATION OF THE DECONTAMINATION PRIORITY AND RELATIONSHIP PROVISIONS OF PROPERTY INSURANCE REQUIREMENTS

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 50

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Nuclear Regulatory Commission proposes to amend the implementation schedule or the decontamination priority and trusteeship provisions of its property insurance regulations continued in 10 CFR 50.54(w)(5)(i) to change the effective date from October 4, 1988 to April 1, 1990. This delay in implementation is necessary because the insurers that offer property insurance for power reactors have informed the Commission that they will be unable to include the decontamination priority and trusteeship provisions in their policies within the time currently provided by 10 CFR 50.54(w). Concurrently, the extension of the effective date of the rule will allow the NRC to consider recently submitted petitions for rulemaking that propose changes to improve the efficacy of the NRC's decontamination priority and trust provisions.

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 15

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the regulations concerning the procedures that the NRC uses to collect the debts which are owed to it. The proposed amendments are necessary to conform NRC regulations to the amended procedures contained in the Federal Claims Collection Standards issued by the General Accounting Office and the U.S. Department of Justice. The proposed action is intended to allow the NRC to further improve its collection of debts due to the United States. Because the proposed regulation is necessary to implement the Debt Collection Act of 1982, there is no suitable alternative to rulemaking for this action.

Abstract: The Nuclear Regulatory Commission has deferred further consideration of this proposal which would have revised the Commissions's procedural rules governing the conduct of all adjudicatory proceedings, with the exception of export licensing proceedings. The proposed rule would comprehensively restate current practice, retitle the hearing office, and revise and reorganize the statement of the Commission's procedural rules to reflect current practice. The changes in this proposed rule would enable the Commission to render decisions in a more timely fashion and reduce the burden and expense to the parties participating in the proceedings.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 2

Abstract: The proposed amendment would conform the NRC's regulations pertaining to the availability of official records to existing case law and agency practice. The amendment would reaffirm that the terms of 10 CFR 2.790(c) provide submitters of information a qualified right to have their information returned upon request. This amendment informs the public of three exceptions to the right to withdraw, pursuant to 10 CFR 2.790(c) of the NRC's regulations, information submitted in a rulemaking proceeding that subsequently forms the basis for the final rule, information which has been made available to an advisory committee or was received at an advisory committee meeting, and information that is subject to a pending Freedom of Information Act request.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201(i); 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 11

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The current regulations require licensees to renew "R" clearances every 5 years. This level of clearance corresponds to the "L" clearances used by NRC and DOE that do not require renewal. Because of this equivalence, the renewal requirement for the"R" level licensee clearance is deemed unnecessary. This rulemaking would delete that requirement from Part 11. The timetable for this rule has been placed on hold pending publication of Executive Order 10450, "Security Requirements for Government Employees."

3877. ● NOTIFICATION OF INCIDENTS

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 20

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend regulations concerning the notification of incidents involving byproduct, source, or special nuclear material possessed by a licensee. The proposed rule would clarify licensee reporting requirements for events involving byproduct, source, or special nuclear material that result in the loss of operation or damage to property. The proposed rule would also define the term "immediate" in the context of time. The proposed action is necessary because the NRC is not being notified of all incidents that occur involving byproduct, source, or special nuclear material possessed by the licensee. The proposed rule is intended to clarify that the notification requirements apply to all licensees subject to the standards for protection against radiation. Because the proposed amendments are needed to clarify an existing regulation, no alternative to rulemaking is acceptable. The proposed amendments are not expected to have any economic impact on NRC or its licensees.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2073; 42 USC 2093; 42 USC 2111; 42 USC 2232; 42 USC 2233; 42 USC 2273; 42 USC 5842

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 036

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Nuclear Regulatory Commission is developing regulations to specify radiation safety requirements and license requirements for the use of licensed radioactive materials in large irradiators. Irradiators use gamma radiation to irradiate products to change their characteristics in some way. The requirements would apply to large panoramic irradiators (those in which the radioactive sources and the material being irradiated are in a room that is accessible to personnel while the source is shielded) and certain large self-contained irradiators in which the source always remains under water. The rule would not cover small self-contained irradiators, instrument calibrators, medical uses of sealed sources (such as teletherapy), or non-destructive testing (such as industrial radiography).

The alternative to a regulation is continuing to license irradiators on a case-by-case basis using license conditions. The formalization would make the NRC's requirements better understood and possibly speed the licensing of irradiators. Development of the rule will require 2 staff-years.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 5841; 42 USC 5842; 42 USC 5846

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 50

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Nuclear Regulatory Commission proposes to clarify its regulations on the use of the terms "important to safety" and "safety related" by adding definitions of these two terms and of "facility licensing documents" to 10 CFR Part 50 and by discussing how these definitions will be applied in NRC licensing reviews. Significant issues concerning the meaning of these terms as they are used in this part have arisen in Commission licensing proceedings. This proposed rule would define these terms and clarify the nature and extent of their effect on quality assurance requirements, thereby resolving these issues.

Rulemaking was chosen as the method of resolving this issue as a result of the Commission's directive to resolve the issue by rulemaking contained in the Shoreham licensing decision (CLI-84-9, 19 NRC 1323, June 5, 1984).

A position paper requesting approval of the staff proposed definitions and additional guidance from the Commission was signed by the EDO on May 29, 1986. In addition to rulemaking, the position paper discusses the alternative of the Commission(cont)

Since the proposed rule is only clarifying existing requirements, their is no impact on the public or the industry as a result of this rulemaking. It is anticipated that the NRC will expend 3.2 to 4.4 staff years in developing the final rule over a two year period. The manpower and time frame will depend upon guidance from the Commission regarding the extent to which 10 CFR usage of the terms is to be consistent, i.e., 10 CFR Part 50 only or all of 10 CFR. The timetable for this rule is on hold based on a decision by the Commission.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 5841; 42 USC 5842

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 050

Abstract: The proposed rule would provide functional requirements for the maintenance of nuclear power plants and allow industry initiatives to develop the details of maintenance programs to meet such requirements. The proposed rule would apply to all components, systems and structures of nuclear power plants and wold be applicable to existing and future plants. The proposed rule would also require each licensee to develop, implement and maintain a maintenance program, and to formally commit to follow the program.

The scope of maintenance activities addressed in the rule will be within the framework of the Commission's Policy Statement on Maintenance of Nuclear Power Plants which was issued on March 23, 1988 (53 FR 9430).

It is estimated that about 3 staff-years of effort and $600,000 for contract services will be required to process the final rule.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2133; 42 USC 2134; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 050

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Pressurized Thermal Shock (PTS) Rule, published July 23, 1985, established a screening criterion, a limit on the degree of radiation embrittlement of PWR reactor vessel beltline materials beyond which operation cannot continue without additional plant-specific analysis. The rule prescribes how to calculate the degree of embrittlement as a function of the copper and nickel contents of the controlling material and the neutron fluence. The proposed amendment revises the calculative procedure to be consistent with that given in Revision 2 of the Regulatory Guide 1.99. The guide provides an updated correlation of embrittlement data, which received CRGR approval for publication in final form on December 9, 1987.

The need to amend the PTS rule to be consistent with the guide became apparent when it was found that some medium-cooper, high-nickel materials embrittlement is worse now than predicted using the PTS rule. A number of PWR's will reach the screening criterion sooner than previously thought, and three plants will need to make plant-specific analyses (cont)

Additional Information: in the next 10 years. Therefore, a high priority is being given to this effort.

An unacceptable alternative to this amendment from the safety standpoint is to leave the present PTS rule in place. The staff's plant-by-plant analyses found four plants whose reference temperatures are 52 to 68 degrees F higher than previously thought, based on the present rule. This is beyond the uncertainties that were felt to exist when the proposed rule was published. Another unacceptable alternative that has been evaluated is to change the calculative procedure for the reference temperature and also change the screening criterion. Failure probabilities for the most critical accident scenarios in three plants, when recalculated using the new embrittlement estimates, were somewhat lower, but were quite dependent on the plant configuration and the scenario chosen. Furthermore, the screening criterion was based on a variety of considerations besides the probabilistic analysis. Reopening the question of where to set the screening criterion was not considered productive because of plant-to-plant differences.

3882. MODIFICATIONS TO THE NRC HEARING PROCESS (LIMITED INTERROGATORIES AND FACTUAL BASIS FOR CONTENTIONS)

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2239

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 2

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would expedite conduct of NRC adjudicatory proceedings by requiring intervenors in formal NRC hearings to set forth the facts on which contentions are based and the sources or documents used to establish those facts and limit the number of interrogatories that a party may file in an NRC proceeding. The proposed rule would expedite the hearing process by, among other things, requiring intervenors to set forth at the outset the facts upon which their contention is based and the supporting documentation to give other parties early notice of intervenor's case so as to afford opportunity for early dismissal of contentions where there is no factual dispute. Expediting the hearing process should ultimately provide cost savings to all participants in the process. The content of this rule is being considered as part of the regulatory reform rulemaking package.

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would revise existing regulations to establish specific licensing requirements for the storage of spent nuclear fuel and high-level radioactive waste in a monitored retrievable storage installation (MRS). This revision is intended to ensure that the Commission has in place the appropriate regulations to fulfill the requirements contained in the Nuclear Waste Policy Act of 1982 concerning the licensing of facilities which could be part of the MRS program.

Paragraph (d) of Section 141 of the NWPA requires that any monitored retrievable storage installation pursuant to Section 141 be licensed by the Commission. The Commission could await further development of the MRS option before proposing its MRS rules. However, this approach could result in unnecessary delay in reviewing a license application if Congress authorizes construction of an MRS.

There is no appropriate alternative to rulemaking, the vehicle used by NRC to establish its licensing procedures.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 10101

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 02; 10 CFR 51; 10 CFR 60

Abstract: The proposed rule would provide procedures for performing an environmental review of High Level Waste (HLW) geologic repositories. Part 51 contains no provisions for the environmental review of a license application for a HLW repository. The Nuclear Waste Policy Act of 1982 established requirements for environmental reviews which are at variance with the environmental reviews that the NRC performs in licensing other types of nuclear facilities. This issue must be addressed in order to avoid delay in the U.S. HLW Program. The proposed rule would benefit the public, industry, and NRC by clarifying licensing procedures, thus avoiding case determinations and and possible litigation during HLW geologic repository licensing. Minor revisions to Part 60 will be necessary to conform to the environmental requirements of the NWPA.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 2

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the Commission's "immediate effectiveness" regulation that specifies when an initial adjudicatory decision authorizing the issuance or amendment of a license or permit becomes effective. The proposed rule would (1) remove the existing provision governing the effectiveness of initial decisions regarding power reactor construction permits and (2) revise the Commission's existing practice regarding "effectiveness reviews" for full-power operating licenses. The proposed rule also would delete language in the existing regulation emanating from Three Mile Island-related regulatory policies, for which action has now been completed.

The proposed rule would supersede two prior proposed rules entitled "Possible Amendments to 'Immediate Effectiveness' Rules," published May 22, 1980 (45 FR 43279), and "Commission Review Procedures for Power Reactor Construction Permits; Immediate Effectiveness Rule," published October 25, 1982 (47 FR 47260).

Abstract: The Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) is considering amendments to its rules of practice which address the following aspects of the hearing process: admission of contentions, discovery against NRC staff, use of cross examination plans, timing of motions for summary disposition and limitations on matters and issues that may be included in proposed findings of fact or conclusions of law, or in an appellate brief submitted by a person who does not have the burden of proof or who has only a limited interest in the proceeding. These proposals were initially developed by the Regulatory Reform Task Force and published for public comment, together with a number of other proposals, as suggestions for procedural changes in the licensing of nuclear power plants. (49 FR 14698; April 12, 1984). The Commission has decided not to proceed with the April 1984 proposals, except to the extent that they were included in this proposed rule. Therefore, the April 1984 proposals have been deleted from the regulatory agenda.

The NRC is also considering related amendments on the process of intervention that were developed by former Commissioner (cont)

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 20

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Radiation protection philosophy and technology have changed markedly since the present Part 20 was promulgated nearly thirty years ago. Since Part 20 contains the NRC standards for protection against radiation that are used by all licensees and affects exposures of workers and members of the public, it should be the most basic of the NRC regulations. However, because the present Part 20 has become outdated, most radiation protection actions occur through licensing actions independent of Part 20. A complete revision is necessary to provide better assurance of protection against radiation; establish a clear health protection basis for the limits; reflect current information on health risk, dosimetry, and radiation protection practices and experience; provide NRC with a health protection base from which it may consider other regulatory actions taken to protect public health; be consistent with recommendations of world authorities (ICRP); and apply these standards to all licensees in a consistent manner.

These were rejected as ignoring scientific advancements, being unresponsive to international and national guidance, and correcting only some of the recognized problems with the present Part 20.

Benefits would include updating the regulations which reflect contemporary scientific knowledge and radiation protection philosophy, implementing regulations that reflect the ICRP risk-based rationale, reducing lifetime doses to individuals receiving the highest exposures, implementing provisions for summation of doses from internal and external exposures; providing clearly identified dose limits for the public, providing an understandable health-risk base for protection, and placing constraints on collective dose evaluations at levels where risks are trifles.

Initial estimates of the cost of implementing the revision is about $33 million for all NRC and Agreement State licensees in the initial year and about $8 million in each subsequent year.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 30; 10 CFR 40; 10 CFR 70

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would require about 30 fuel cycle and other radioactive materials licensees to submit an emergency plan that would, among other actions, require the notification of local authorities in case of an accident and that the licensee recommend protective actions for the public. The proposed rule is intended to further protect the public from accidental exposure to radiation. The affected licensees are those whose possession limits indicate the potential for an accident that could deliver a radiation dose offsite exceeding one rem effective dose equivalent or 5 rems to the thyroid or could cause a soluble uranium inhalation of 2 milligrams (a chemical toxicity hazard).

Currently, the proposed requirements are, for the most part, required by order. However, the Commission decided that a regulation was needed for the long term. The cost of the rule to licensees was estimated to be between $26,000 and $73,000 per year per licensee. The cost to NRC is estimated to be $4,000 per year per licensee. The NRC will expend about 2 staff-years of effort to promulgate the rule.

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the present regulations to establish performance standards for industrial radiography exposure devices. Overexposures of radiographers (and occasionally the general public) are more than double that of other radiation workers and have been a concern to the NRC for some time. Approximately 25-35% of the radiography overexposures are associated with equipment malfunction. The issue of safety requirements for these devices is a primary concern since the devices use relatively high intensity, high energy gamma-ray emitting sources with the potential for serious overexposures. Although a consensus standard for radiographic exposure devices was published in 1981 (American National Standard N432), it is not clear that all manufacturers are adopting the standard.

The alternatives considered were to take no action at this time, amend the regulations to require performance standards for radiographic devices plus a requirement for radiographers to wear alarm dosimeters and simultaneously issue a regulatory guide endorsing the consensus standard, supplemented by such other performance standards deemed necessary, and incorporate (cont)

Costs of incorporating the proposed changes are estimated to be a one-time cost of $1,625 per licensee to purchase alarm dosimeters and $850 annually for replacement of devices and alarm dosimeters, annual calibration of dosimeters, and annual maintenance costs. Determination of the benefits to be derived from the proposed rule are difficult to determine on a monetary basis, but the potential hazards that might be averted include radiation sickness, injury, and even death. Abstract: The proposed rule would amend regulations concerning acceptance criteria for emergency core cooling systems (ECCS) by allowing the use of realistic methods to demonstrate that an ECCS would protect the nuclear reactor core during a loss-of-coolant accident. This action is proposed because research has shown that calculations performed under current requirements greatly underestimate the ability of the ECCS to protect the core. This restricts the operation of some nuclear reactors unnecessarily and increases the costs of generating electricity. The proposed rule would allow use of the best information currently available to demonstrate that the ECCS would protect the reactor core during a loss-of-coolant accident.

Use of the realistic evaluation model may result in up to a 5 percent power upgrade for some plants. The present value of energy replacement cost savings resulting from a potential upgrade has been estimated to range between $5 and $127 million, depending on the location and age of a specific plant.

The proposed rule would apply to all applicants for and (cont)

3892. ALTERNATIVE METHODS FOR LEAKAGE RATE TESTING

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 50

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Nuclear Regulatory Commission proposes a limited amendment to its regulations to clarify a question of interpretation in regard to leakage testing of containments of light-water cooled nuclear power plants. This proposed amendment would explicitly permit the continued use of a statistical data analysis technique that the NRC has considered to be an acceptable method of calculating containment leakage rates. Rulemaking is the only acceptable alternative for resolving this issue because the regulations specify the methods the NRC finds acceptable for calculation leakage rates. Because the proposed rule would simply make another method of calculating leakage rates available to the industry, no economic impact will probably result from this action.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 50

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Nuclear Regulatory Commission is amending its regulations to ensure that the presence of NRC inspectors on power reactor sites is not announced to licensee and contractor personnel without the expressed request to do so by the inspector. This change will allow the NRC inspector, who is badged at the facility, to observe ongoing activities as they are being performed without licensee or contractor personnel having advanced notice of the inspection.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 5841; 42 USC 5842; 42 USC 5846

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 50

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would allow a licensee during a national security emergency to deviate from a license condition or a technical specification. The Commission previously has granted authority to nuclear power reactor licensees to take reasonable action that departs from a license condition or a technical specification in an emergency when the action is immediately necessary to protect the public health and safety and no action consistent with license conditions and technical specifications that can provide adequate or equivalent protection is immediately apparent. This proposed rule will provide the same flexibility to licensees, but for the purpose of attaining national security objectives during a declared national emergency due to nuclear war or natural disaster.

The proposed rule change does not significantly impact state and local governments, health, safety, and the environment; or costs to licensees.

3895. DISPOSAL OF RADIOACTIVE WASTES

Legal Authority: 42 USC 10101

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 61

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Commission instructed the staff to analyze the need to revise the definition of high-level radioactive waste (HLW) in Part 60 to conform with the definition in the Nuclear Waste Policy Act (NWPA). An ANPRM was published on February 27, 1987 (52 FR 5992), which recommended a revision based either wholly or partially on concentrations of radionuclides in the waste. After assessing the public comments on the ANPRM, and also taking into account recent information, the staff is now recommending against any revision of the definition of HLW. Instead, amendments to Part 61 are being recommended that would require geologic repository disposal of all above-Class C low-level radioactive waste (LLW) unless an alternative has been approved by the Commission. This would accomplish the objective of establishing suitable disposal requirements for radioactive waste with a minimal impact on cost burdens. Alternatives are (1) revise the definition of HLW so that additional above-Class C LLW is reclassified as HLW; or (2) make no change in the system of waste classification or required waste disposal options. 3896. CRITERIA AND PROCEDURES FOR EMERGENCY ACCESS TO NON-FEDERAL AND REGIONAL LOW-LEVEL WASTE DISPOSAL FACILITIES

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2021

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 62

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would establish procedures and criteria for fulfilling NRC's responsibilities associated with action on requests by low-level radioactive waste generators, or State officials on behalf of those generators, for emergency access to operating non-Federal or regional low level radioactive waste disposal facilities under Section 6 of the Low-Level Radioactive Waste Policy Amendments Act of 1985 (LLRWPAA). Section 6 of the LLRWPAA authorizes the NRC to grant emergency access to any non-Federal low-level waste disposal facility, if necessary, to eliminate the immediate and serious threat to the public health and safety of the common defense and security, provided the threat cannot be mitigated by any alternative.

Abstract: The Nuclear Regulatory Commission is amending its regulations governing the ownership by NRC employees of stocks, bonds, and other security interests in companies that fall within any one of five reactor-related or fuel cycle-licensed categories. This amendment will add to the group of affected employees those special Government employees who serve as members of the Advisory Committee on Nuclear Waste. The Commission is also amending its regulations on acceptance of gifts, entertainment, and favors to permit acceptance of travel expenses from an otherwise prohibited source when proffered in connection with a job interview and to permit acceptance of food and refreshments at widely-attended events sponsored by certain groups whose membership is composed of prohibited sources.

Legal Authority: 31 USC 9701; 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 170; 10 CFR 171

Abstract: The proposed rule would revise the fees charged for licensing services provided by the NRC and charged to persons who operate nuclear power reactors. The proposed amendments would (1) remove fee ceilings, increase the amount charged for a license application, and revise the flat fees set out in part 170; (2) revise the hourly rate for NRC professional time spent providing various regulatory services; (3) increase the ceiling on annual charges; (4) add a deadline for filing exemptions to 10 CFR 171.11; and (5) include monies from the Department of Energy High-Level Waste Fund. Because the proposed regulation is necessary to implement the most recent fee legislation enacted by Congress, there is no suitable alternative to rulemaking for these actions. All applicants and licensees that are currently subject to fees collections under the current regulations would be affected by the proposed rule.

3901. PROCEDURES INVOLVING THE EQUAL ACCESS TO JUSTICE ACT: IMPLEMENTATION

Legal Authority: 5 USC 504

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 1; 10 CFR 2

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would implement the Equal Access to Justice Act (EAJA) by providing for the payment of fees and expenses to certain eligible individuals and businesses that prevail in agency adjudications when the agency's position is determined not to have been substantially justified. This proposed regulation is modeled after rules issued by the Administrative Conference of the United States (ACUS) and have been modified to conform to NRC's established rules of practice. The proposed rule would further the EAJA's intent to develop government-wide, "uniform" agency regulations and would describe NRC procedures and requirements for the filing and disposition of EAJA applications. A draft final rule was sent to the Commission in June 1982, but Commission action was suspended pending a decision by the Comptroller General on the availability of funds to pay awards to intervenor parties. This issue was also the subject of litigation in Business and Professional People for the Public Interest v. NRC, 793 F. 2d 1366 (D.C. Cir. 1986). This litigation is being evaluated to determine what if any changes may be necessary in the proposed rule. (cont)

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 2282; 42 USC 5841; 42 USC 5846

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 21; 10 CFR 50

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This proposed rule would amend Part 21 and sec. 50.55(e), both of which require the reporting of safety defects by licensees. In addition, Part 21 requires reporting by non-licensees. This proposed amendment was prompted by TMI Action Plan Task II, J.4, and NRC staff experience with Part 21 and section 50.55 (e) reporting. The main objectives of the rulemaking effort are: (1) elimination of duplicate evaluation and reporting of safety defects; (2) consistent threshold for safety defect reporting in Part 21 and section 50.55(e); (3) establishment of consistent and uniform content of reporting under Part 21 and section 50.55 (e) and (4) establishment of time limits within which a defect must be evaluated and reported.

Approximately 500 reports are submitted to the Commission annually under Part 21. Approximately 1500 reports are submitted to the Commission annually under section 50.55 (e). These reports identify both plant-specific and generic safety concerns for further NRC regulatory action. Under current rules, these reports have formed the basis for NRC issuance of numerous NRC information notices and bulletins. (cont)

Alternatives to this rulemaking approach which were considered, varied from establishment of a single rule for all reporting of safety defects and operating reactors events to maintaining status quo for defect reporting. All alternatives were rejected since they would not substantially improve the current safety defect reporting situation.

Current costs of reporting under Part 21 and section 50.55 (e) are estimated at $10.43 million annually for industry and 1.08 million annually for NRC evaluations. It is anticipated that the industry reporting burden should be reduced by $1.6 million; while NRC burden should remain the same. Additional industry burden, though minimal, is anticipated in the area of reissuing procedures for reporting and record keeping.

The Commission disapproved this proposed rule on 10/20/86 and provided direction to the staff to revise the proposed rulemaking.

Abstract: This proposed rule, being prepared at Commission direction, would provide comprehensive treatment of hearing procedures to be implemented by the Commission for materials licensing proceedings. In addition, the proposed rule would encompass the objective of the proposed rule, "Jurisdiction of Adjudicatory Boards," identified as 3150-AA53, which has been deleted from OMB's Unified Agenda. There are no reasonable alternatives to rulemaking for implementing these informal hearing procedures. The procedures are expected to reduce the economic burden imposed on a participant in a proceeding.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2133; 42 USC 2134; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 50

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would update and revise the 1973 criteria for preoperational and periodic pressure testing for leakage of primary containment boundaries of water-cooled power reactors. Problems have developed in application and interpretation of the existing rule. These result from changes in testing technology, test criteria, and a relevant national standard that needs to be recognized.

The revision is urgently needed to resolve continuing conflicts between licensees and NRC inspectors over interpretations, current regulatory practice that is no longer being reflected accurately by the existing rule, and endorsement in the existing regulation of an obsolete national standard that was replaced in 1981.

The benefits anticipated include elimination of inconsistencies and obsolete requirements and the addition of greater usefulness and a higher confidence in the leak-tight integrity of containment system boundaries under post-loss-of-coolant accident conditions. The majority of the effort needed by NRC to issue the rule has already been expended. (cont)

3906. EQUIVALENT CONTROL CAPACITY FOR STANDBY LIQUID CONTROL SYSTEMS (SLCS)

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2136

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 50

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would clarify the Commission's regulations pertaining to boiling water reactors (BWR). The current regulations require that all boiling water reactors must have a standby liquid control system (SLCS) with a minimum flow capacity and boron content equivalent in control capacity to 86 gallons per minute (gpm) of 13 weight percent of sodium pentaborate solution. In January 1985, a generic letter was issued to all appropriate licensees that provided clarification of the phrase "equivalent in control capacity" contained in section 50.62 (c) (4). This letter provided the basis for the flow and weight percent of sodium pentaborate decahydrate requirements and described how equivalency could be achieved for smaller plants. The NRC staff considers the contents of the generic letter to be technically correct and desired that this position be established in the regulations.

This proposed rule would clarify a Commission regulation; thus no other procedure is appropriate. The technical proposals in the rule were analyzed for safety as part of the original rulemaking procedure, although they were not specifically mentioned. (cont)

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 50

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Nuclear Regulatory Commission proposes to amend its regulations to establish more clearly what emergency planning and preparedness requirements are needed for fuel loading and low-power operation of nuclear power plants, current rules provide for a finding prior to fuel loading and low-power on the licensee's plans and state of preparedness for dealing with accidents that could affect persons onsite. Current rules also provide that no finding regarding the planning or preparedness of offsite agencies for dealing with accidents that could affect persons offsite is required at this stage. The Commission is not proposing to change these aspects of the current rules. However, practice under the current rule has been to consider also, as part of review of licensees' plans, certain offsite elements of those plans that seem unnecessary for low-power operation in view of the low degree of risk posed to offsite persons by fuel loading and low-power operation (up to 5 percent of rated power). It is the purpose of this proposed rulemaking to consider whether this practice should be discontinued or modified. Specifically, the (cont)

Additional Information: Commission is considering amending Section 50.47(d) to include, as prerequisites for low-power operation, seven standards with offsite aspects that are believed to be appropriate for fuel loading and low-power operation. The capability for prompt notification of the surrounding populace (as distinct from the capacity to keep offsite emergency planning agencies informed promptly of plant accidents) is not included in the rule as a requirement for fuel loading and low-power operations. Abstract: The proposed rule provides a narrative explanation of the numerical values established in Table S-3, "Table of Uranium Fuel Cycle Environmental Data," that appears in the Commission's environmental protection regulations. The proposed rule describes the basis for the values contained in Table S-3, the significance of the uranium fuel cycle data in the table, and the conditions governing the use of the table. The proposed rule amends Section 51.52 to modify the enrichment value of U-235 and the maximum level of average fuel irradiation. The narrative explanation also addresses important fuel cycle impacts and the cumulative impacts of the nuclear fuel cycle for the whole nuclear power industry so that it may be possible to consider these impacts generically rather than repeatedly in individual licensing proceedings, thus reducing litigation time and costs for both NRC and applicants.

The proposed rule regarding revision of Section 51.51 and the addition of Appendix B was published for public review and comment on March 4, 1981 (46 FR 15154). The final rulemaking was deferred pending the outcome of a suit (Natural Resources

The proposed rule to provide a narrative explanation for Table S-3 has been revised to reflect new developments and the passage of time while the rulemaking was deferred. Final action on the Table S-3 rule was held in abeyance until new values for radon-222 and technetium-99 could be added to the table and covered in the narrative explanation. The rule is being reissued as a proposed rule because the scope has been extended to include radiation values for radon-222 and technetium-99 and the narrative explanation has been extensively revised from that published on March 4, 1981 (46 FR 15154).

The staff's estimate is that the completion of a final Table S-3 rule covering the new values for radon-222 and technetium-99 and the revised narrative explanation will be completed in 1989.

Abstract: The Nuclear Regulatory Commission is considering adding a new part to its regulations to improve the reactor licensing process. The proposed rule would provide for the issuance of early site permits, standard design certifications, and combine construction permits and conditional operating licenses for nuclear power reactors. These procedural reforms are intended to improve the quality, effectiveness, and efficiency of nuclear power plant licensing without detracting from protection of the public health and safety or the public's ability to participate in the licensing process. They are designed to implement as much of the Commission's proposed "Nuclear Power Plant Standardization and Licensing Act of 1987" as is permissible under its existing statutory authority. The proposed legislation is based on an earlier proposal that was developed by the Commission's Regulatory Reform Task Force. If licensing reform legislation is ultimately enacted, the rules can be modified to implement that legislation fully.

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 140

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The final rule will revise the Extraordinary Nuclear Occurrence (ENO) criteria to eliminate the problems that were encountered in the Three Mile Island ENO determination. It is desirable to get revised criteria in place in the event they are needed.

There are no alternatives to this rulemaking since the current ENO criteria are already embodied in Subpart E of 10 CFR Part 140. The only way to modify these criteria, as this rule seeks to do is through rulemaking.

There is no safety impact on public health or safety. The ENO criteria provide legal waivers of defenses. Industry (insurers and utilities) claims that a reduction in the ENO criteria could cause increases in insurance premiums. The final rule would also be responsive to PRM-140-1.

It is estimated that approximately 1 staff year of NRC time will be required to process the final rule. No contract funding is anticipated.

3911. ● FACILITY FORM NUCLEAR LIABILITY INSURANCE POLICY; MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 140

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend its regulations to make several minor changes in the Facility Form nuclear liability insurance policy furnished as evidence of financial protection. The two nuclear insurance pools have submitted endorsements to the Facility Form policy that make available a single insurance policy to cover onsite worker claims. This new Master Worker Policy reflects different rating and underwriting treatment than is utilized in the Facility Form policy. The supplementary insurance provided by the new policy enhances protection to the public since payments under its provisions for routine claims by onsite nuclear workers will not reduce the financial protection for the public under the primary and secondary nuclear liability insurance policies provided as evidence of financial protection under the Price-Anderson Act.

3912. NEGOTIATED RULEMAKING ON THE SUBMISSION AND MANAGEMENT OF RECORDS AND DOCUMENTS RELATED TO THE LICENSING OF A GEOLOGIC REPOSITORY FOR THE DISPOSAL OF HIGH LEVEL WASTE

Legal Authority: 42 USC 10101

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 2; 10 CFR 60

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Nuclear Waste Policy Act (NWPA) provides three years for the NRC to reach a decision on construction authorization for a high level waste repository. In order for the NRC to be able to make its decision within the allotted time, ready access to all pertinent records must be assured to all parties in the licensing proceeding. The DOE has committed to develop an electronic information management system to be used for the licensing proceeding. The NRC staff intends to use the process of negotiated rulemaking to develop a proposed rule that would revise the Commission's discovery procedure and motion practice in 10 CFR Part 2 for the high level waste licensing proceeding. This rule would require the DOE license application and all supporting records to be provided in a standardized electronic format. All parties to the licensing proceeding would be required to submit all relevant data to this system. In turn all parties would have access to the data base.

Resource estimates currently under development.

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 002; 10 CFR 070; 10 CFR 072; 10 CFR 073; 10 CFR 075

Abstract: The Safeguards Interoffice Review Group (SIRG) of the NRC has been conducting a systematic review of the agency's safeguards regulations and guidance documents. This review has identified areas in the regulations that are out of date, susceptible to differing interpretations, or in need of clarification. In addition, the staff has identified other areas in the regulations where minor changes are warranted. In response to these efforts, specific amendments to the regulations are being proposed. The proposed changes would (1) limit the use of the 100 rems per hour at 3 feet dose exemption to a reduction of no more than one physical protection category and not allow a drop below the lowest category, (2) add definitions for common terms not currently defined by frequent use, (3) delete action dates that no longer apply, (4) correct outdated terms and cross references, (5) clarify wording that is susceptible to differing interpretations, (6) correct typographical errors, and (7) make other minor changes. (cont)

Additional Information: The alternative to rulemaking would be to allow the status quo to continue. Except for the change in the impact of a high radiation field on physical protection requirements, these minor amendments affect the public, industry, and the NRC only in so far as they make the regulations easier to understand, implement, and enforce. Limiting the use of the 100 rem per hour at 3 feet dose exemption to a reduction of no more than one physical protection category, and not allowing a drop below the lowest category, could affect two non-power reactor licensees. It is estimated that 0.4 staff-years of NRC effort over 2 years will be required for the rulemaking. This is a low priority rulemaking.

3914. DISPOSAL OF WASTE OIL BY INCINERATION FROM NUCLEAR POWER PLANTS

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 2167; 42 USC 2073

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 20

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule, which is being initiated in partial response to a petition filed by Edison Electric Institute and Utility Nuclear Waste Management Group (PRM-20-15, dated July 31, 1984), would amend NRC regulations to allow onsite incineration of waste oil at nuclear power plants subject to specified conditions. Currently, the only approved disposal method for low-level, radioactively contaminated waste oil from nuclear power plants involves absorption or solidification, transportation to, and burial at a licensed disposal site. There is a clear need to allow, for very low activity level wastes, the use of alternative disposal methods which are more cost effective from a radiological health and safety standpoint and which conserve the limited disposal capacity of low-level waste burial sites.

Increased savings to both the public and the industry could thereby be achieved without imposing additional risk to the public health and safety. There would be an estimated industry-wide economic savings of approximately $3million to $12 million per year if such a rule (cont)

Legal Authority: 42 USC 10153; 42 USC 10198

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 72; 10 CFR 73; 10 CFR 74; 10 CFR 170

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule is in response to the Nuclear Waste Policy Act (NWPA) section 218 (a) which states in part, that the Secretary of DOE shall establish a demonstration program, in cooperation with the private sector, for dry storage of spent nuclear fuel at civilian nuclear power reactor sites, with the objective of establishing one or more technologies that the Commission may, by rule, approve for use at sites of civilian nuclear power reactors. The NWPA also requires that the NRC establish procedures for the licensing of any technology approved by the Commission under section 218(a) for use at the site of any civilian nuclear power reactor.

The staff anticipates a significant increase in the demand for use of dry spent fuel storage casks starting in the early 1990s, thus processing of this proposed rule would be timely. NRC resource requirements are anticipated to be about two staff years.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 2021; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 150

Abstract: This rulemaking would establish NRC's sole authority for approving onsite disposal of low-level waste at all NRC licensed reactors and at Part 70 fuel cycle facilities. There is a need to amend section 150.15 to authorize one agency (NRC) to regulate all onsite disposal of low-level waste in order to provide a more comprehensive regulatory review of all onsite waste management activities and to avoid unnecessary duplication of effort. Uniform review by the NRC will provide for greater assurance that the radioactive material will not present a health hazard at a later date after the site is decommissioned.

Legal Authority: 5 USC 554 (d); 5 USC 557(d)

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 0; 10 CFR 2

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the Commission's regulations dealing with ex parte communications and separation of adjudicatory and nonadjudicatory functions in formal adjudicatory proceedings by updating the agency's rules of practice and incorporating requirements imposed by the Government in the Sunshine Act. Changes are proposed in both the form and the substance of the existing rules to clarify their meaning and to aid agency adjudicatory officials in maintaining effective communication with NRC staff personnel and persons outside the agency while at the same time ensuring that proceedings will be conducted fairly and impartially. This proposed rule supersedes a prior proposed rule entitled, "Ex Parte Communications and Separation of Adjudicatory and Non Adjudicatory Functions," (3150-AA00) published March 7, 1979 (44 FR 12428).

Abstract: The Nuclear Regulatory Commission is amending its regulations to establish a definite retention period for each record that an NRC application or licensee for a materials or facility license is required to maintain. This action is necessary to comply with the Office of Management and Budget requirement that a specific retention period be identified for each record. The final rule also establishes a uniform standard acceptable to the NRC for the condition of a record throughout each specified retention period. This action is expected to reduce the overall recordkeeping burden for NRC applicants and licensees by use of uniform and specific retention periods for each recordkeeping requirement.

Abstract: The Nuclear Regulatory Commission is amending its regulations to set forth technical and financial criteria for decommissioning licensed nuclear facilities. The amended regulations address decommissioning planning needs, timing, funding methods, and environmental review requirements. The intent of the amendments is to assure that decommissioning of all licensed facilities will be accomplished in a safe and timely manner and that adequate licensee funds will be available for this purpose. The final rule also contains a response to a petition for rulemaking (PRM-50-22), concerning decommissioning financial assurance initially filed by the Public Interest Research Group (PIRG), et al., on July 5, 1977.

Abstract: The proposed rule is in response to PRM-35-6 which requests that the Commission remove the requirements in Part 35 that radioactive aerosols be administered in rooms that are at negative pressure relative to surrounding rooms. The petitioner states that the imposition of the negative room pressure requirement could have an adverse impact on the delivery of health care to certain patients with pulmonary disease and that this requirement is unnecessary to protect workers and public health and safety. The staff agrees and has developed a proposed rule change to remove the negative room pressure requirement for aerosols.

Abstract: The final rule will change the forms required to request an NRC personnel security clearance or material access authorization for NRC licensees and others when an Office of Personnel Management (OPM) background investigation is necessary.

The final amendments are necessary because as of September 16, 1988, OPM will accept only the Standard Form (SF) 86, "Questionnaire for Sensitive Positions" as the basis for their background investigations. The exception to the use of SF-86 held by NRC (for use of the NRC Form-1, "Personnel Security Questionnaire") is being discontinued. Therefore, there is no reasonable alternative to rulemaking. This rule will have a negligible effect on the general public. NRC resources required for processing this rule through final publication are estimated to be 120 staff hours.

Abstract: The interim final rule amends the Commission's regulations concerning the annual charges for licensed power reactors, on an interim basis, for the 1988 Fiscal Year. The interim rule raises the ceiling on the collection of annual fees to an amount that will approximate, but not be less than, 45 percent of the Commission's budget. This action is necessary to provide for the timely collection of fees as required by recently enacted legislation. The increase of 12 percent will be apportioned among the licensed power reactors in the same manner as under the current fee schedule regulations.

Abstract: The NRC is amending its regulations to require that light water cooled nuclear power plants be capable of withstanding a total loss of alternating current (AC) electrical power, called station blackout, for a specified duration and maintaining reactor core cooling during that period. This requirement is based on information developed under the Commission's study of Unresolved Safety Issue A-44, "Station Blackout." The amendment is intended to provide further assurance that a loss of both offsite power and onsite emergency AC power systems will not adversely affect the public health and safety.

Abstract: The final rule will incorporate by reference the Winter 1984 Addenda, Summer 1985 Addenda, Winter 1985 Addenda, and 1986 Edition of Section III, Division 1, of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers Boiler and Pressure Vessel Code (ASME Code), and the Winter 1983 Addenda, Summer 1984 Addenda, Winter 1984 Addenda, Summer 1985 Addenda, Winter 1985 Addenda, and 1986 Edition of Section XI, Division 1 of the ASME Code. A limitation is placed on the use of paragraph IWB-3640 as contained in the Winter 1983 Addenda and Winter 1984 Addenda of Section XI, Division 1. This limitation requires that for certain types of welds, IWB-3640 be used as modified by the Winter 1985 Addenda. This amendment recognizes certain improvements made to Section XI in the area of class 2 piping examinations. The sections of the ASME Code being incorporated provide rules for the construction of light-water-cooled nuclear power plant components and specify requirements for inservice inspection of those components. This final rule will permit the use of improved methods for construction and inservice inspection of nuclear power plants.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 50

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The proposed rule would incorporate by reference the 1986 Addenda and 1987 Addenda to the 1986 Edition of Section III, Division 1, and Section XI, Division 1, of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers Boiler and Pressure Vessel Code (ASME Code). The ASME Code provides rules for the construction of light-water-reactor nuclear power plant components in Section III, Division 1, and provides rules for the inservice inspection and inservice testing of those components in Section XI, Division 1.

The proposed rule would update the existing reference to the ASME Code and would thereby permit the use of improved methods for the construction, inservice inspection, and inservice testing of nuclear power plant components. Incorporating by reference the latest addenda of the ASME Code would save applicants/licensees and the NRC staff both time and effort by providing uniform detailed criteria against which the staff could review any single submission.

This action will be handled as a routine updating of (cont)

Regulatory Flexibility Agenda and Rules Scheduled for Review

AGENCY: Securities and Exchange Commission.

ACTION: Publication of regulatory flexibility agenda and rules scheduled for review.

SUMMARY: The Securities and Exchange Commission is today publishing an agenda of its open and anticipated rulemaking actions, pursuant to Chapter Six of the Administrative Procedure Act and Office of Management and Budget Bulletin 88-15. The agenda is a general announcement to the public intended to provide advance notice of rulemaking actions which may have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. The Commission invites questions and public comment on individual agenda entries.

DATE: Public Comments are due by December 31, 1988.

ADDRESSES: Persons wishing to submit written views should file three copies with Jonathan G. Katz, Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 450 5th Street, NW., Room 6184, Stop 6-9, Washington, DC 20549. All submissions should refer to File No. S7-18-88, and will be available for public inspection at the Commission's Public Reference Room, Room 1026, at the same address.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: William J. Atkinson, Office of Economic Analysis, Securities and Exchange Commission, 450 5th Street, NW., Room 9200, Stop 9-1, Washington, DC 20549 (202-272-7100). Additional names of persons to contact are identified with each entry.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Regulatory Flexibility Act ("RFA") (Pub. L. No. 96-354, 94 Stat. 1164 [September 19, 1980]) requires each federal agency during April and October of each year to publish in the Federal Register a regulatory flexibility agenda identifying rules which the agency expects to propose or adopt which are likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities (the "significant impact criterion").[1]

The RFA also requires the Commission to publish a plan for the periodic review of all rules issued by the agency which have or will have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.[2] The Commission published such a plan in 1981.[3] The plan provides for the review of all rules in effect on January 1, 1981 within ten years of that date and for the review of all rules adopted thereafter within ten years of their adoption as final rules. The RFA further requires publication each year of a list of those rules which are to be reviewed during the succeeding twelve months.[4]

The Commission's continuing review of its rules, begun before the effective date of the statute (January 1, 1981), extends beyond the requirements of the RFA. Consequently, some rules listed in this part of the agenda may not be subject to RFA review requirements. The Commission is identifying them here in order to inform the public of its intention to review them. The agenda also identifies the rulemaking actions which have been completed (or withdrawn) since the last RFA release was approved by the Commission on March 1, 1988.[5]

The statute specifically provides that the agenda does not preclude the Commission from considering or acting on any matter not included, nor is the Commission required to consider or act on any matter which is included.[6] Furthermore, the inclusion of a rule in the Commission's agenda reflects only the staff's preliminary judgment that the rule, if adopted or as it exists, may have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.[7] This preliminary judgment may be changed upon further analysis. The Commission's entries to the October 1988 Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations are listed below. The Commission's agenda includes new entries as well as items carried over from the April 1988 publication. New entries are marked with a bullet. Copies of this preamble and a list of the entries (which includes next action dates and identifies a staff contact) are available from the Commission's Office of Public Affairs (Room 1015). The agenda also is available for inspection and copying in the Public Reference Room (Room 1026) (File S7-18-88), as noted above.

By the Commission.

Jonathan G. Katz,

Secretary.

Abstract: The proposed rule would specify certain conditions under which persons engaged in the sale of interests and participation issued in connection with certain tax-qualified retirement plans ("H.R.10" or "Keogh" plans) would not be required to register as broker-dealers under Section 15(a) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. In 1981, the Commission adopted Rule 180 under the Securities Act of 1933 exempting from the registration requirements of that Act interests and participations issued in connection with H.R. 10 plans. The proposed rule provides a parallel exemption from broker-dealer registration for sales of such interests and participations in H.R. 10 plans. As an alternative the staff could consider granting no-action or exemptive requests on a case-by-case basis. However, such procedure would be inefficient and needlessly expensive for both the public and the Commission staff. In addition, the Commission is proposing to amend Rule 180 to clarify that, under paragraph (a)(3)(ii) of that Rule, the employer only needs to obtain investment advice prior to the investment of plan assets. This proposal codifies a previous staff position.

Abstract: The Commission is considering whether to propose amendments to Rule 12d3-1 under the Investment Company Act of 1940, which provides exemptive relief from the Act's prohibition against investment company acquisitions of securities issued by persons engaged in certain securities-related businesses. If adopted, the proposed amendments would expand the exemptive relief provided by the rule to permit, under certain conditions, investment companies to acquire equity securities issued by persons organized outside the United States that are engaged in securities related businesses.

Abstract: Commission staff have been considering draft rule proposals to exempt smaller investment advisers from most federal adviser regulation, other than the antifraud provisions, if the advisers are registered in all states in which they do business. The purpose of the exemptions would be to place primary regulatory responsibility for certain smaller investment advisers with states that actively regulate advisers. The draft rule proposals, which include both an interstate and an intrastate exemption, would determine eligibility for the exemptions by reference to the size of the adviser's business; whether the adviser has custody of client funds or securities; and whether the adviser is registered as an adviser in the state or states in which it does business. The draft rule proposals are expected to have a significant impact on a substantial

Abstract: The Commission will review the existing rules and reporting forms intended to implement the provisions of Section 16 of the Securities Exchange Act. Section 16 seeks to deter misuse of inside information by imposing certain periodic and transactional reporting requirements on the officers, directors and principal beneficial shareholders of companies registered under that Act as well as certain limitations on equity transactions by those persons. Over the years the Commission has adopted a number of rules to clarify the applicability of Section 16's requirements to particular circumstances. The Commission will examine their current suitability in light of the purposes of the statute.

Abstract: The Commission will consider whether to revise the disclosure requirements under the federal securities laws relating to registration under the Securities Act of 1933 of securities to be offered to employees of an issuer pursuant to certain plans. Such registration currently is made on Form S-8 (17 CFR 239.16b). The Commission staff is developing proposals in this area and considering alternative approaches to the problem of reducing burdens while ensuring the availability of sufficient information to employees, particularly where they already have access to much of the required information under ERISA. In the context of this rulemaking, Form S-8 will be fully reviewed for purposes of the Regulatory Flexibility Act.

Abstract: In order to facilitate simultaneous multinational securities offerings among, initially, the United States, Canada and the United Kingdom, appropriate criteria are being sought to reconcile differences in disclosure standards, financial statement requirements and distribution systems. The Commission issued a concept release in February 1985 addressing numerous regulatory issues raised by multinational offerings. At that time, the Commission published for comment two conceptual approaches to facilitating such offerings--a "common prospectus" approach and a "reciprocal" approach. The Commission's staff is currently in the process of developing the reciprocal prospectus approach, which involves reciprocal recognition and use of home country disclosure documents. It is likely that initially the proposal will focus on debt offerings of certain issuers, limited rights offerings and exchange offers.

3962. AMENDMENT TO RULE 180 – EXEMPTION FROM REGISTRATION OF CERTAIN INTERESTS AND PARTICIPATIONS IN CERTAIN H.R. 10 PLANS

Legal Authority: 15 USC 77c(a)(2); 15 USC 77s(a)

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 230.180

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Rule 180 provides an exemption from the registration requirements of the Securities Act for interests and participations issued in connection with certain qualified H.R. 10 plans. In order for interests in funding media issued to plans established by financially inexperienced employers to qualify for the rule's exemption, the rule, as adopted, requires those employers to obtain financial advice from an independent expert prior to adopting the H.R. 10 plan. Among other things, the Commission is considering proposing an amendment to Rule 180 that would codify a present "no-action" position regarding the situation where a financially unsophisticated employer has already established a plan for its employees without obtaining advice from an independent expert, and intends either to change the funding medium or add another funding medium to the choices already available to employees. The issuer of the funding medium in such a case would be in compliance with the rule if the issuer has reasonable grounds to believe and, after having made reasonable inquiry, does believe, that an independent financial expert reviewed the funding medium prior to the investment of the (cont)

Abstract: The proposed rules would exempt certain persons from the requirements of Section 11(a) of the Investment Company Act. That section prohibits any registered open-end investment company and its principal underwriter from making an offer to a shareholder to exchange his security for another security on any basis other than the relative net asset values of the respective securities to be exchanged, unless the terms have been submitted to and approved by the Commission or comply with rules the Commission may prescribe. Section 11(c) states in part that the terms of any offer of exchange involving the securities of registered unit investment trusts must also be submitted to and approved by the Commission or comply with rules the Commission may prescribe. Proposed rule 11a-3 would permit a mutual fund or its principal underwriter to make certain exchange offers to its own shareholders or to shareholders of another fund in the same family of funds. Proposed rule 11c-1 would permit a unit investment trust or its sponsor to make certain exchange offers to unit holders of the same series or another series of the same trust or to unit holders of another unit investment trust

3964. MUTUAL FUND GOVERNANCE

Legal Authority: 15 USC 80a-6(c); 15 USC 80a-37

CFR Citation: Not yet determined

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: On December 10, 1982, the Commission issued an advance concept release (Investment Company Act Release No. 12888, (47 FR 56509)) soliciting public comment on whether the Commission should propose rules or recommend legislation which would provide for an alternative form of mutual fund governance. Specifically, this release requests comment on whether mutual funds should be exempted from shareholder voting and/or director requirements under the Investment Company Act of 1940 (the "Act") and, if so, whether conditions could be fashioned which would adequately insure against loss of investor protection. Although such changes might be effected through rulemaking, the Commission has indicated that, in its preliminary judgment, changes of this magnitude should be effected through legislative rather than administrative action. Since the costs and benefits of providing for an alternative scheme of mutual fund governance cannot be estimated at the present time, the release solicits specific comment on the costs and benefits which would result from such changes. Extension of comment period until April 18, 1983 was announced in Investment Company Act Release No. 13012 (cont)

Legal Authority: 15 USC 80a-17(j); 15 USC 80a-37(a)

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 270.17j-1

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Rule 17j-1 requires every access person of a registered investment company, or of an investment adviser of or principal underwriter for the investment company to report to the investment company certain of his securities transactions. The Commission is considering whether to propose an amendment to this rule which would reduce the reporting requirement for investment company directors who are interested persons with respect to the investment company by reason of their affiliation with a registered broker-dealer. Members of the industry have characterized these reporting requirements as unnecessarily burdensome in some instances. Any such rule amendment would have the effect of lessening the reporting requirements currently imposed by the rule. As a result, the staff believes that the costs, which should be insignificant, of complying with any amendment would be significantly less than the benefits it would provide. The Commission is also considering whether to amend Rule 12 j-1 to define specified acts as fraudulent, deceptive or manipulative or to require certain minimum standards to be set forth on a company's code of ethics. Abstract: Absent an exception, every solicitation of a proxy, authorization or consent in respect of any security with respect to which a registered investment company is the issuer, is subject to rules adopted pursuant to the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and the Investment Company Act of 1940 concerning solicitations of proxies. Solicitations to which the rules apply may not commence unless each person solicited is furnished or has previously been furnished with a proxy statement containing specified information prepared in accordance with certain rules and the material has been filed with the Commission. The existing proxy rules were adopted in piecemeal fashion and have been the subject of frequent changes. This has led to certain duplicative and, in certain cases, complex requirements. To the extent that a proxy statement contains repetitive material or is overly complicated and difficult to read, it may not effectively perform its intended function of communicating meaningful information to security holders in order that they may make informed voting decisions. In order to update the proxy regulations and, in doing so, improve the (cont)

There does not currently exist a basis upon which to quantify the reduced costs and burdens of such action on those registrants affected. Since the action will apply to all registered investment companies soliciting proxies, unless the solicitation is excepted, the Action is expected to have a significant impact on a substantial number of small entities. However, the contemplated revisions are still in the developmental stage and have not yet been formally proposed by the Commission. Thus, the extent of the revision actually proposed and the attendant reductions in costs and burdens are as yet largely unknown, but are anticipated to be significant.

Abstract: Form N-2 is the registration statement form under the Investment Company Act of 1940 and the Securities Act of 1933 for closed-end management investment companies other than small business investment companies and companies which issue periodic payment plan certificates or which are sponsors or depositors of companies issuing such certificates. Included within the registration statement are the companies' prospectuses used in offering their securities to the public. The Commission believes a simplified prospectus is necessary because current prospectuses have become too cumbersome for the average investor to understand and because current requirements result in the disclosure of much information that is not necessarily material to an investment decision. Simplification will, therefore, make disclosure easier for investors to understand and reduce the costs and burdens of of preparing and distributing prospectuses. Accordingly, the Commission is proposing a new form N-2A that most likely would be structured as a three-part form, one part of which would be a new simplified prospectus. Legal Authority: 15 USC 80b-11(a)

Abstract: Section 206(3) of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 makes it unlawful for any investment adviser, by use of the mail or any means or instrumentality of interstate commerce, directly or indirectly, knowingly to effect a securities transaction (a) with a client while acting as principal or (b) for a client while acting as broker for a person other than such client, without disclosing in writing to such client before the completion of the transaction the capacity on which he is acting and obtaining the consent of the client to the transaction. The Commission is considering whether to propose a rule that would provide a nonexclusive method for compliance with the provisions of Section 206(3) of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 in connection with purchases of securities from an underwriting syndicate for an advisory client under specified conditions. Because the proposed rule is still in the developmental stages, its potential effect on small entities and its potential costs and benefits as a whole are unknown at this time.

Abstract: The Commission proposed two alternative versions of a new Rule 433 that would provide a safe harbor from the requirement to deliver a final prospectus prior to or contemporaneously with a confirmation of sale in a firm commitment offering of securities for cash. Both proposals would permit, if all conditions of the rule are satisfied, the sending of a final prospectus no later than five business days after a confirmation of sale is sent to an investor in such an offering.

Abstract: The Commission is proposing amendments to Regulations 13A and 15D under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 that would revise the reporting and filing requirements for an issuer that changes its fiscal year end and for a successor issuer with a different fiscal year end from its predecessor. The Commission also is proposing amendments to Form 8-K to require reporting of a change in fiscal year and a new Rule 30b1-3 under the Investment Company Act of 1940 to govern the reporting requirements for investment companies that change their fiscal year end. The proposed amendments are intended to update and clarify the requirements for companies that change their fiscal year end. In addition, the Commission is proposing a new account accounting Rule 3-06 and other amendments to the accounting and proxy rules relating to financial reporting. Amendments to the quarterly reporting rules are proposed to modify the period covered in a new registrant's first quarterly report.

Abstract: The extraterritorial reach of Section 5 of the Securities Act of 1933 has become of critical importance with the development of major markets abroad and the growth of transnational investment. As a result of these developments, the Commission has published for comment proposed Regulations intended to clarify the extraterritorial application of the registration provisions of the Securities Act of 1933. The Regulation would provide generally that any offer or sale that occurs outside the United States is not subject to Section 5.

Abstract: Proposed Rule 15a-6 is the Commission's response to the cross-border activities of foreign broker-dealer registration requirements. The proposed rule would exempt from these requirements foreign entities that engage in securities transactions with certain non-U.S. persons, or with specified U.S. institutional investors under certain limited conditions. The staff believes that this alternative is superior to relying on the interpretive process, since the internationalization of the world's securities markets has increased greatly the number of requests for interpretive advice received by the staff. The Commission believes that, to the extent that the proposed rule, if adopted, would impose any costs on registered broker-dealer affiliates of eligible foreign broker-dealers of have a competitive effect on other domestic broker-dealers, those costs are not significant and would not impact on a substantial number of small domestic broker-dealers; also, the exemption under the rule would be limited to foreign broker-dealers, which need not be considered under 5 USC 603.

Abstract: The Commission is proposing revisions to Regulation D that would add certain governmental employee benefit plans to the lists of accredited investors. Certain conditions to the Regulation D exemptions would be eliminated. A disqualification provision would preclude the future use of Regulation D by issuers found to have violated the filing requirements of the Regulation. Finally, insignificant deviations from the technical requirements of the Regulation would not cause the loss of the Regulation D exemption if there had been a good faith and reasonable attempt to comply with the Regulation.

Legal Authority: 15 USC 80a-6(c); 15 USC 80a-37(a)

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 270.3a-4

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: In Investment Company Act Release No. 11391 (October 10, 1980) (45 FR 69479) the Commission proposed for public comment Rule 3a-4, which would deem investment management services providing their clients with individualized treatment not to be investment companies for purposes of the Act. The rule provides a "safe harbor" for any investment manager providing its clients with treatment based on the needs and goals of each client. Under such circumstances, regulation of investment management services under the Act appears unnecessary. The proposed rule was intended to clarify the Commission's position on the question of "mini-accounts" by providing a safe harbor for certain investment management services and thereby provide some certainty to the public. The Commission does not expect any final action taken on the proposal to significantly affect the cost of providing investment management services. The public comment letters on the proposal have been reviewed and alternatives for final action are being considered.

Legal Authority: 15 USC 80a-6(c); 15 USC 80a-17(g); 15 USC 80a-37(a)

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 270.17g-1

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Commission is considering whether to adopt an amendment to Rule 17g-1 under the Investment Company Act. The amendment was proposed for public comment in Investment Company Act Release No. 11193 (June 2, 1980) (45 FR 38407). Rule 17g-1 requires every registered investment company to provide and maintain a bond against larceny and embezzlement covering officers and employees of the company. In some circumstances, the officers and employees of a company's depositor, trustee, investment adviser or other manager and various affiliates of such persons, because they have access to the company's assets, function as officers and employees of the investment company. The proposed amendment to the rule would clarify the scope of the rule by explicitly requiring the bonding of such persons. The principal cost associated with this rule would be the cost of a bond. That cost would vary according to the persons required to be bonded by the rule. In this regard, before adopting any amendment to the rule, the Commission will carefully consider what persons should be bonded to protect investors adequately, weighing the benefits of the protection against the cost of a bond.

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 239.16; 17 CFR 274.12

Abstract: On March 9, 1987, the Commission reproposed for public comment Form N-7, a new form for registering unit investment trusts("VITS") and their securities under the Investment Company Act of 1940 and the Securities Act of 1933. Form N-7 was originally proposed by the Commission on May 14, 1985. Adoption of Form N-7 would (i) codify the disclosure requirements for VITS into one form; (ii) codify the disclosure standards that have been developed for VITS; and (iii) shorten and simplify the prospectus used in connection with the sale of units in both the initial offering and in the secondary market maintained by the sponsor. As reproposed, a one-part prospectus originally proposed, but the prospectus would retain a series specific part and a generic part. The requirement for audited financial statements would be eliminated under certain circumstances. The requirement that registrants include certain third party financial statements in the registration statement would be extended to insurers as well as guarantors of portfolio securities of the trust under the reproposal.

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 240.19c-4

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Rule 19c-4 is the Commission's response to the disenfranchisement and existing shareholders as a result of corporate action which would have the effect of nullifying, restricting or disparately reducing the per share voting rights of the existing shareholders. Such a diminution on limitation of voting rights is inconsistent with the investor protection and fair corporate suffrage policies embodied in Sections 6(b)(5), 15A(b)(6) and 14 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. Rule 19c-4 will enhance investor protection by preventing shareholders from being disenfranchised of their voting rights. The Rule is not intended to prohibit the adoption of disparate voting plans; it is only intended to prevent adoption of such plans under circumstances that would disenfranchise existing shareholders. The Commission beiieves the costs of such a limitation do not outweigh the benefits derived from protecting shareholders from potential disenfranchisement. Under the Rule a range of capital raising techniques will still be available to issuers, no issuer will be denied the ability to raise additional equity capital.

Legal Authority: 15 USC 78o-4; 15 USC 78q; 15 USC 78w(a)

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 240.15Bc7-1

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Rule 15Bc7-1 requires the Commission to make available to the Municipal Securities Rulemaking Board (MSRB)copies of any report of examination of a municipal securities dealer made by the Commission or furnished to it by an appropriate regulatory agency or registered securities association (i.e., the NASD). Because compliance with MSRB rules is enforced by appropriate regulatory agencies and the NASD, rather than the MSRB, the rule is intended to ensure that the MSRB has access to relevant information about compliance with its rules. The rule contains certain safeguards to maintain the confidentiality of the information made available to the MSRB.

Legal Authority: 15 USC 78q; 15 USC 78w; 15 USC 78o

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 240.17a-5

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Section 17(a)(1) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, 15 U.S.C. s78q, provides that the securities and Exchange Commission shall prescribe by rule the records to be kept and the reports to be made and disseminated by broker-dealers. Under that section, the Commission has adopted Rule 17a-5, which is the basic reporting rule for broker-dealers. It requires the filing of Form X-17A-5, the Financial and Operational Combined Uniform Single ("FOCUS")Report and other necessary information. The FOCUS Report was designed to eliminate all of the overlapping regulatory reports required by various self-regulatory groups and the Commission and to reduce reporting burdens as much as possible. Rule 17a-5 should be continued without change.

Legal Authority: 15 USC 80a-10

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 270.10f-2

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Section 10(f) of the Investment Company Act prohibits a registered investment company from purchasing securities during the existence of an underwriting or selling syndicated in such securities, if any principal underwriting or selling syndicate in such securities, if any principal underwriter of the issue is an officer or a director or is otherwise affiliated with the investment company. An exception is provided in the case of issues as to which the investment company is itself a principal underwriter and the Commission is authorized to grant further exemptions by rule or order. Rule 10f-2 exempts from Section 10(f) the purchase of securities pursuant to the exercises of warrants or rights provided they were offered or granted on the same basis to all stockholders and they do not exceed 5% of the total amount of warrants or rights issued.

Legal Authority: 15 USC 80a-19(a); 15 USC 80a-37(a)

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 270.19a-1

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Section 19 of the Investment Company Act of 1940 makes it unlawful for any registered investment company to pay any dividend, or to make any distribution in the nature of a dividend payment, wholly or partly from any source other than (1) such company's accumulated undistributed net income, determined in accordance with good accounting practice and not including profits or losses realized from the sale of securities or other properties, or (2) such company's net income so determined for the current or preceding fiscal year, unless such payment is accompanied by a written statement adequately disclosing the source or sources of such payment. The Commission is empowered under Section 19 to prescribe the form of such written statement. The rule specifies the information which must be included in the statement.

Legal Authority: 15 USC 80a-6(c); 15 USC 80a-19(a) and (b); 15 USC 80a-37(a)

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 270.19b-1

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Section 19(b) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 ("Act") was added by the Investment Company Amendments Act of 1970, Public Law 91-547 ("1970 Act") [84 Stat. 1422], effective December 14, 1971, to make it unlawful, in contravention of such rules as the Commission may adopt, for any registered investment company to distribute long-term capital gains more often than once every twelve months. The section was added to relieve managers from pressure to realize such gains on a frequent and regular basis, mitigate improper sales practices related to the distribution of such gains, and eliminate the administrative expenses attending quarterly or semi-annual capital gains distributions. Rule 19b-1 implements Section 19(b) by limiting distribution with respect to the long-term capital gains realized by the company during any one taxable year, with certain exceptions.

Legal Authority: 15 USC 80q-24

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 270.24e-1

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Section 24(e)(3) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 ("Act"), which was added by Public Law No. 577, 83rd, Congress, requires requires that a prospectus relating to a security issued by a face-amount certificate company or a redeemable security issued by an open-end management investment company or unit investment trust "which varies for the purposes of subsection (a)(3) of Section 10 of the Securities Act of 1933 from the latest prospectus filed as a part of the registration statement" must be requirements of Section 10 of the 1933 Act, except to the extent the Commission otherwise provides by rules and regulations. Some questions arose as to the scope of the above quoted language of Section 24(e)(3). The Commission believes that this language refers to a prospectus which is prepared for the purpose of providing more current information, in compliance with that Section because the information therein is no longer sufficiently current to meet the statutory requirements; however,

Legal Authority: 15 USC 80a-37

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 270.24b-1; 17 CFR 270.24b-2; 17 CFR 270.24b-3

Abstract: Rule 24b-1 was adopted to clarify certain terms used in Section 24(b) of the Investment Company Act of 1940. Rule 24b-2 was adopted to identify documents filed to comply comply with Section 24(b). Before its adoption, investment companies tended to forward a variety of documents without properly indicating the purpose for which they were filing such materials. Rule 24b-3 was adopted to relieve investment companies which file their sales literature and ads with the National Association of Securities Dealers of their obligation to file the same materials with the Commission. Most investment company sales literature originates from firms which belong to the NASD. NASD members must file sales literature, including investment company sales literature, for NASD review under the NASD Rules of Fair Practice. The NASD reviews each piece of sales literature it receives for compliance with its rules and the Commission's rules.

Legal Authority: 15 USC 80a-24; 15 USC 80a-6(c)

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 270.24e-2

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Section 24(e)(1) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 ("Act"), provides that registration statements under the Securities Act of 1933 (15 U.S.C. 77a-77aa) ("1933 Act") relating to securities of certain investment companies, including open-end management companies, may be amended after their effective dates so as to increase the securities specified therein as proposed to be offered. Most open-end management companies offer their shares on a continuous basis, and almost all of those companies making such a continuous offering use the procedure permitted by Section 24(e)(1) of the Act to increase, from time to time, the number of registered shares being offered. Rule 24e-2 provides an optional method for calculation of registration fees by open-end investment companies registering additional shares by requiring fees only for those shares being registered in excess of the number of shares redeemed or repurchased.
